CUPE Lockouts Hit Sidney, Esquimalt

Lockouts were effected today in Sidney and Esquimalt bringing to about 1,500 the number of municipal and regional district employees locked out since 280 outside workers of Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 50 went on strike Jan. 27.

CUPE area negotiators met Sunday and reiterated that they are ready to resume negotiations with regional municipal employers.

Victoria city manager Jim Bramley said today the city is also willing to talk but that it has received no proposals.

At Sunday's meeting, CUPE's bargaining group met for nearly four hours and discussed "everything that has happened," said group chairman Jim Walker. "We are united now in our proposals."

Walker would not say whether the union had changed propositions made at the bargaining table before mediation talks broke down.

Greater Victoria school board, which is the seventh member of the area employers group, has so far been exempted from the lockout pact and CUPE Local 382 janitors and 947 inside staff do not intend to strike although they are in a legal position to do so.

The eighth party to the employers pact is Greater Victoria Library, where bargaining is still in progress.

Pickets on duty near city hall heard a noise at the Douglas Street entrance and when they went to investigate they saw a man running off, Walker said. The glass door had been kicked in.

Locked out employees expecting paycheques for work prior to the lockout had not received them by this morning and Walker said a complaint would be launched against the city through the provincial Labor Relations Board.

City comptroller Mason Sheldrick said today the city owes its outside workers wages for the period from Jan. 16 to Jan. 24, just before their strike started, but said it has been impossible to prepare the cheques due to staff shortage problems. He would not say when the cheques might be issued.

Sheldrick said provincial legislation requires payment within eight days of the end of any given pay period — under normal circumstances the workers should have been paid no later than last Friday but he believed this applied only to persons earning $6,000 a year or more.

Contingency plans for the newly locked out areas follow lines similar to those which have been in effect elsewhere for a week.

Garbage collection in Sidney is under private contract, and officials hope the service will not be disrupted.

If collection should stop, garbage bags will be provided, said municipal clerk Geoff Logan.

No site has been named for a temporary dump.

Sidney municipal hall will be open from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. for emergency matters only, and not problems relating to the motor vehicle branch housed in the hall.

The branch will be closed completely, and residents will have to take automobile matters to Victoria branches.

The municipal switchboard will be open normal office hours, but residents are being asked to cut calls to a minimum.

STRIKE THREAT FRIDAY

Possibility of a strike affecting the airport and other federal services across the country has been deferred for at least three days to midnight Friday.

The general trades and labor component of the Public Service Alliance of Canada extended the deadline for a membership vote because of late notice to some locals.

Tradesmen have been bargaining for a wage structure close to what is paid employees doing similar work outside the public service.

Bus Hits Train, 26 Die

(Times News Services)

MEXICO CITY — A bus driver, ignoring the screams of passengers to stop, raced a passenger train to a grade crossing Saturday night and lost.

The train cut the crowded bus in two, killing 26 persons. Another 32 were injured, several critically.

Police said 58 persons were aboard the bus, which had 40 seats, with room for about 10 standees.

The bus driver, identified as Jose Casamiro, 47, was among the dead.

No casualties were reported aboard the train.

The train had just pulled out of Mexico City heading for the northern city of Juarez when the bus came speeding into its path, police said.

Passengers told police they screamed and shouted for the driver to stop as the train came into view. But the driver apparently panicked and stepped on the gas trying desperately to cross the tracks before the train.

Survivors said there were no warning lights at the crossing, just on the main road running parallel to it, but they said that the train was easy to see and had sounded at least two warning blasts.

★ SPORTS ★

Of all the games Victoria athlete Bob Burrows has played — and they include professional baseball — his father believes his best is basketball. Burnaby-New Westminster Broncos found that out for themselves as Burrows led Victoria Scorpions to a pair of weekend victories in the Dogwood Inter-City Senior "A" men's semi-finals. Page 14.

Elsewhere in today's sports section:

New Westminster Bruins came up with a rare win over Victoria Cougars in a Western Canada Hockey League game Sunday on the mainland after losing in Victoria Saturday night. The split kept New Westminster in possession of the fourth and final playoff berth in the Western Division, but it didn't calm Bruins' nerves. The fifth-place Edmonton Oil Kings are closing in on them. Page 14.

University of Victoria Vikings, basketball variety, borrowed a coach on the weekend when Gary Taylor, a vice-principal at Lansdowne Junior High, had to attend an education administrators' conference. Jack Newnham, coach of UVic's junior varsity team, took over and masterminded the Vikings to their first-ever victory over UBC Thunderbirds in Vancouver. Page 14.

Bill Prior earned his living at one time by throwing strikes as a baseball pitcher. He doesn't play baseball any more but he's still putting 'em in the strike zone, this time as a bowler. Page 15.

Another golf tournament, this time the Bob Hope Desert Classic, and another win for you-know who. Johnny Miller did it again by a comfortable three-stroke margin and even he admits that perhaps he's ready to take over from Jack Nicklaus as golf's reigning shotmaker. Page 14.

10% JOBLESS?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany predicts the U.S. unemployment rate may be 10 per cent this summer.

Two days after the labor department reported 8.2 per cent of the nation's work force was unemployed in January, it projected a yearly average of 8.1 per cent, saying the jobless rate will slowly recede by 1980.

Meany said his organization's projections are "much more realistic" than the administration's because "we don't put a political figure in it. We don't depress them (the figures) because of political considerations."

Apartment Vacancies Hit New Low

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The apartment vacancy rate in Victoria has fallen to 0.1 per cent, or virtually nil, and ties with Vancouver and Regina as the lowest in Canada, according to a study by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The vacancy rate is down from 0.5 per cent in June.

The survey, taken in December, shows no vacancies in Oak Bay and a 0.1 per cent vacancy rate in the Fort St., Cook Street and other areas of Victoria except James Bay, where the rate was 0.2 per cent.

Vacancy rate in Esquimalt was 0.2 per cent, Saanich 0.1 per cent, Langford-View Royal 0.5 per cent and Sidney 0.9 per cent.

Because the largest number of apartment units is in Victoria City, the area average was 0.1 per cent.

This compares with a national average of 1.2 per cent, down from 2.4 per cent in June.

In the December survey, the Montreal vacancy rate was 1.2 per cent, Toronto 0.9 per cent, Winnipeg 1.5 per cent and Calgary 1.2 per cent.

Much above the national average were Niagara 3.5 per cent and Sudbury 4.4 per cent.

The survey covers all rental apartments in buildings containing six or more units. The Victoria survey covered almost 500 privately-owned buildings containing 16,000 suites. Two-thirds of the total are in Victoria City.

The survey also includes rental apartments for low income families and senior citizens financed under the National Housing Act.

Except for Esquimalt, the vacancy rate was nil in all sections of the district for small apartment buildings of from 6 to 9 units.

For buildings with between 10 and 19 apartment units, the vacancy rate was 0.2 per cent in Victoria City and nil in Oak bay, Esquimalt, Langford-View Royal, Saanich and Sidney.

MIDEAST AWAITS HENRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger carried a warm endorsement from President Ford as he headed for the Middle East today to sound out Egyptian and Israeli leaders on prospects for another disengagement agreement.

Kissinger, target of recent congressional criticism, departed on the 10-day journey Sunday night after Ford, Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller and cabinet members stood in freezing temperatures at Andrews Air Force Base to see him off.

Kissinger's first stop on the fact-finding mission is Jerusalem, where he will confer with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli leaders.

At Andrews, Ford clasped Kissinger's hand and said: "You have my strong support and the blessings of 213 million Americans. We look forward to the kind of success you have achieved in the past."

Ford characterized Kissinger's journey as an "extremely delicate and extremely important mission" and said they would be in daily communication.

U.K. MINERS SEEK STRIKE

LONDON (Reuter) — Militant leaders of 66,000 coal miners in Yorkshire, northern England, called today for an immediate nationwide strike in support of a "substantial" pay claim.

The move will be discussed by the executive of the National Union of Miners (NUM) Tuesday.

Pakistani Gov't Bans Opposition

ISLAMABAD (AP) — The Pakistani government banned the opposition National Awami party today and ordered its property confiscated following the arrest of 60 of its top leaders, including Abdul Wali Khan, party chief and opposition leader in the National Assembly.

The move came two days after the assassination of the senior minister in the North-West Frontier province, Hayat Mohammed Khan Sherpao, a close friend of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. The government blamed opposition terrorists for the killing.

In Peshawar, the provincial capital where Sherpao was killed in a bomb blast Saturday, mobs burned down the offices of a newspaper owned by the Awami party, ransacked offices of pro-Awami lawyers, and shouted, "Death to Sherpao's killers."

NEWS BRIEFS

Papa Found Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent Papa Sr., reputed underworld, narcotics kingpin, has been convicted of possessing and distributing about 160 pounds of heroin worth $20 million. He faces imprisonment for the rest of his life. A jury of seven men and five women deliberated three days in U.S. District Court in Manhattan before returning the guilty verdict Sunday against Papa, 58.

U.S. Land Pact Near

SAIPAN (WP)—The United States and leaders of the Marianas, a remote Pacific island people, are about to sign a pact of permanent affiliation. It would be the first American territorial acquisition in more than a half century, and possibly the last one ever.

Downed Plane Found

ATHENS (AP) — Greek Air Force helicopters located the wreckage of a West German military transport plane in the snow-covered mountains of the island of Crete today. All 42 men aboard were apparently killed, a spokesman for the West German embassy reported.

Blast Kills Five

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — An explosion and fire killed at least five workers and destroyed most of the Union Carbide polyethylene plant on the Schelde River north of Antwerp early today, police said. An unknown number of workers were reported missing.

Consulate Bombed

GENEVA (UPI) — Two bombs exploded inside the West German consulate Sunday, wrecking the ground floor and shattering windows in the neighborhood. A third bomb was safely dismantled. No injuries were reported.

Bomber Says 'Sorry'

NETANYA, Israel (UPI) — A 19-year-old soldier confessed in magistrate's court today that he threw a grenade into a crowded discotheque, killing six persons and wounding 26 others. He apologized and said he only wanted to make noise. The soldier, Ezra Ayraham, was remanded to prison on a 15-day detention order until formal charges are lodged against him, police said.

Three Catholics Shot On Eve of IRA Truce

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) begins a new ceasefire tonight. But the killing of three Roman Catholics in less than 12 hours heightened fears that Protestant extremists would sabotage the new truce.

Two Catholics were killed and another wounded in an attack on a crowd of worshipers leaving a Catholic church Sunday night. And this morning gunmen in a passing car killed a 19-year-old Catholic roadsweeper in East Belfast.

The IRA's Provisional wing announced it would suspend its guerrilla war at 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EST.) No time limit for the ceasefire was set, but London newspapers reported an IRA spokesman in Dublin warned:

William Craig, leader of the exremist Protestant Vanguard Movement, said the IRA's Catholic leaders probably were trying "to gain credibility and win a breathing space." He demanded the Catholic guerrillas "surrender their arms."

Two hours before the IRA announcement Sunday night, two gunmen opened fire on the crowd leaving 7 p.m. mass at St. Bridget's Church in Belfast, killing two young men and wounding a third, and then escaped in a car stolen in a Protestant area of Belfast. Police blamed Protestant extremists.

Eleven persons now have died since the IRA Provos ended a Christmas truce Jan. 16 after 25 days. The official death toll from 5½ years of violence in Northern Ireland has risen to 1,151.

The Provos gave no explanation for their new ceasefire except to say it came after discussions with British officials "on effective arrangements to ensure that there is no breakdown of a new truce."

The IRA said it ended the Christmas truce because the British did not respond sufficiently to its demands for the release of 500 interned IRA suspects and a pledge to withdraw the 14,500 British troops in Northern Ireland.

British sources insisted the government made no secret deals to win the resumption of the truce. But the government said in a statement, "A genuine and sustained cessation of violence could be the basis for a more constructive and peaceful future for Northern Ireland."

The British have pledged that an end to violence would lead to eventual abandonment of the system of jailing suspected guerrillas without trial, the release of many men now behind bars and a major reduction in the number of British troops in the North. On the IRA side, chief of staff David O'Connell is known to have been pressing his comrades to switch from terrorism to political initiatives.

No Capture Alive, Escaper Pledges

VANCOUVER (CP) — A convict who vowed he wouldn't be recaptured alive escaped custody downtown Sunday after abducting a prison guard at Vancouver International Airport.

Police said Donald Oag, 25, of London, Ont., had already escaped from Ontario and British Columbia prisons twice in the last four years and is extremely dangerous.

Oag, serving a 12-year sentence for manslaughter, was being transferred from the Millhaven Penitentiary near Kingston, Ont., to appear at a New Westminster, B.C., civil court hearing today.

Police said Oag used a kitchen knife to overpower guard Henry Mengleson and force him into the back seat of a prison station wagon while two other guards were gathering baggage inside the terminal.

Twenty-five minutes later, a CP baggage clerk at the downtown station discovered Mengelson struggling to sound the car's horn and thumping on the door.

I Didn't Tell All—Helms

WASHINGTON (AP) Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, admits he intentionally failed to tell United States Senate committees all he knew about CIA work in Chile and withheld information about the Nixon administration's desire to have the Marxist government of Saldor Allende overthrown.

Helms' admission was made in secret testimony Jan. 22 before the Senate foreign relations committee. A censored version of his statements was released Sunday.

(Today, former CIA counterintelligence chief James Angelton testified before the Rockefeller Commission, the body set up by President Ford to investigate charges the CIA violated its charter by conducting domestic spying operations. Angelton resigned his post within one week of the original charges of CIA spying.)

Helms appeared before the committee to explain various apparent discrepancies in previously sworn statements regarding CIA operations abroad and at home.

"I felt obliged to keep some of this stuff, in other words, not volunteer a good deal of information," Helms said of his testimony in 1973 before the foreign relations panel and a subcommittee on multi-national corporations.

Helms denied he ever knowingly lied to a congressional committee, but said: "If I have been guilty in the past of not having gone the whole way, all right."

Testifying two years ago on his nomination to be ambassador to Iran, Helms was asked if the CIA tried "to overthrow the government of

Teachers Mad On Backdown Of Class Cuts

Executive of the B.C. Teachers Federation have reacted with "shock and dismay" to the provincial government's announcement that its program to reduce class sizes will not continue this year.

"When the minister spoke in the House one year ago she made a clear commitment to reduce the pupil-teacher ration this year," BCTF president Jim MacFarlan said today in Vancouver.

Education Minister Eileen Dailly has "no justifiable reason" to go back on that commitment to provide financial aid to enable school boards to reduce pupil-teacher ratios by 1.5 in the coming year, MacFarlan said.

The BCTF executive committee will seek a meeting with the Treasury Board as well as a meeting with the B.C. School Trustees Association to discuss joint action.

All local teachers' association presidents will be contacted this week, he said.

Dailly made it clear last week when she met a delegation of trustees and teachers that the $21 million in special grants given school boards last year to hire extra teachers will not be repeated this year.

Economic excuses for this year's cutback in the program won't wash, MacFarlan said.

"When this government was elected it pledged as one of its major priorities the reduction of the pupil-teacher ratio.

"If the government is now in a situation in which it has to decide on a priority basis which commitments to meet, we contend the need of the children in this province must be among the top priorities."

The BCTF executive committee met Saturday.

Lockouts Expand In Victoria Area

able will be limited to sewer drainage on an emergency basis only.

No street cleaning will be done, no road sanding in case of bad weather, and no building inspection.

In Esquimalt, six municipal officials will keep phone lines open for urgent business only and municipal hall doors open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. weekdays for emergencies.

Taxes, water bills and other correspondence should be mailed to the hall at 1229 Esquimalt Rd. rather than brought down in person.

Sports and recreation centres will be closed and no bookings taken for the facilities throughout the lockout's duration.

Garbage will not be collected, and householders will be given one large plastic bag per week to store their refuse.

Free bags may be picked up at the municipal hall during its three open hours. When full the bags should be sealed and left at the Sports Centre's rear parking lot, now a temporary garbage depot.

Residents have been asked to store several gallons of water in case of damaged supply systems.

Esquimalt Silver Threads will operate from Esquimalt United Church lounge, and recreation programs will continue where possible, some of them at outside locations. Staff expects to have the usual telephone listing weekdays.

Elsewhere in British Columbia, CUPE locals are in dispute with municipalities up-Island and in the interior.

At Quesnel 35 employees are in the 11th day of a strike and at Prince George strike action is threatened.

In Greater Vancouver about 5,000 municipal workers are ready to strike and negotiations continue in the island communities of Parksville, Qualicum, Harewood and Ladysmith improvement districts.

Contingent Returns

One hundred officers and men of the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry returned to Work Point Barracks Saturday after winter manoeuvres in Alberta and Alaska.

From Jan. 15 to 25 the contingent was undergoing winter training at Camp Wainwright in Alberta.

From there they went to Fort Wainwright in Alaska for exercises with the 172nd U.S. Infantry Brigade.

EDMONTON (CP) — Solicitor-General Warren Allmand today announced that the Canadian Penitentiary Service will build a $5-million, 100-bed regional psychiatric centre in Saskatoon.

U.S. Contracts to Train Saudi Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) Senators Henry Jackson and Hubert Humphrey have called for a congressional investigation of the United States defence department's contract with a private corporation to train Saudi Arabian troops to protect oil wells in the Persian Gulf.

Jackson (Dem.—Wash.) said he would ask Senator John Stennis (Dem.-Miss.), chairman of the Senate armed services committee, to conduct hearings.

"Only a short time ago the president and secretary of state indicated the option of U.S. military action might be considered under certain circumstances in the Middle East," Jackson said in a telephone interview Sunday.

He said the contract to train Saudi troops was "confusing," since "we're the only ones who've raised an inference of a threat."

Humphrey, (Dem.—Minn.), in calling for an investigation of the contract, said: "The possibility of having American forces training another country's troops in the Mideast is fraught with danger.

"I think the armed services committees of the House of Representatives and Senate should promptly look into it and see what it involves," Humphrey said in a telephone interview Sunday.

The defence department's $77-million contract with the Vinnell Corp. of Los Angeles was disclosed Sunday by The Associated Press.

Vinnell is hiring former U.S. special forces soldiers and other war veterans to send to Saudi Arabia on a job usually handled by the U.S. government-training a foreign army to fire its weapons and fight wars.

There apparently is no shortage of experienced recruits for the 1,000-man force Vinnell is assembling to train Saudi Arabia's 26,000-man internal security force, which is responsible for protecting the rich Saudi oil fields and providing bodyguards for the Saudi Arabian royal family.

The president of Vinnell, John Ramill, told the AP he received 10 applications for every available job after he placed two modest advertisements in newspapers serving two U.S. military bases.

Retired army colonel William Walby, 49, training director for the Vinnell project, said the Vinnell recruits would pull out of Saudi Arabia in the event of any U.S. military action involving the oil fields. "I couldn't even imagine such an action, but it seems to me that would end any involvement of ours in the program," he said.

The contract was awarded last month. The Vinnell force is to assemble in Saudi Arabia in July to start the training sessions.

An incentive to former military men to join Vinnell is the pay; from $1,500 to $1,800 a month on an 18-month contract, with a $2,400 bonus at the end. In addition, most of them have healthy military pensions ranging from $10,000 to $14,000 a year.

Chile." Allende headed the government and died with the military staged a successful coup in 1973.

"No sir," Helms replied without elaboration.

"Did you have any money passed to the opponents of Allende," Helms was asked.

"No sir," said Helms.

"So the stories you were involved in that are wrong entirely?" Helms was asked.

"Yes sir," Helms replied. He told the foreign relations panel last month he should have answered the 1973 questions "in a much more extensive way."

"I think I made one mistake in that testimony, maybe a serious mistake, but I should have probably asked either to go off the record or to have asked to discuss this matter in some other forum . . ." Helms said. He said disclosure of CIA operations against the Allende government might have further damaged relations between the United States and Chile.

"As far as the earlier statement is concerned, whether the agency tried to overthrow the government of Chile, I answered 'no.' I believe that is true . . ." Helms said.

"I know that the Nixon administration wanted it overthrown but there was no way to do it that anybody knew of . . ." Helms said.

He repeatedly told the committee he did not remember details of CIA expenditures in Chile. Other officials have said the Nixon administration authorized more than $8 million for covert CIA operations in Chile to help Allende's opponents in government and the press.

Interest Jump Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon told Congress today the current decline in interest rates — which has been seen as an important factor in curtailing the recession — may soon come to an end.

Simon raised that possibility in testimony before the Senate finance committee and asked Congress not to increase the already "staggering" budget deficit President Ford proposed for fiscal 1976.

His testimony compounded the economic bad news contained in a report issued Sunday. The report said that a family of four with a modest income of $12,626 in 1973 had to make an additional $1,840 in 1974 just to keep up with inflation.

Simon said the treasury will have to borrow so much this year to finance deficit spending in fiscal 1976 that upward pressure may again be tied to interest rates, despite the fall-off of borrowing by business which is customary during an economic downturn.

The decline in interest rates, a phenomenon which usually accompanies an economic downturn, is part of "the process by which the economy pulls out of a recession and regains the road to prosperity," he said.

"A decline in interest rates, in both the short-term and long-term markets, has in fact been under way for several months," he said.

"There are reasons to question, however, whether the decline in interest rates will continue."

The U.S. government is borrowing record amounts because of the deficits, inflation has caused only a few sectors of business to moderate its borrowing and the financing of oil both at home and abroad has produced "extraordinarily large" demands for loans, Simon said.

The treasury will have to sell $79 billion worth of bullion securities to finance federal operations, he added.

the weather

A disturbance Sunday approached the B.C. coast, bringing precipitation to coastal regions as well as across the interior mainly in the Okanagan where it occurred as occasional snow. This system is now weakening as it moves over the interior. Another weather system will develop in its wake off Vancouver Island. Today showery conditions have developed and this weather is expected to continue today and Tuesday over much of the south coast while on the north coast snowflurries will occur. Over the southern interior occasional snow will taper off to a few snowflurries by tonight. While over the northern and central interior some snow will prevail today and Tuesday.

MATERNITY LAW LOOPHOLE HIT

New legislation to provide better job protection for pregnant women in the province's work force has been called for by B.C.'s new status of women co-ordinator.

Gene Errington said today that B.C.'s maternity protection act should be amended to prohibit the current practise of firing women when they become pregnant.

Although the act provides for maternity leave for working women, Ms. Errington said she is aware of cases where women didn't get the chance for maternity leave because they were fired "when the boss discovers they are going to have a baby. It happens enough to cause some concern."

DAM PROBE IN WORKS

The provincial government's land use and environment committee will hold a public enquiry into the controversial proposal for a $2.7 million dam on the Chemainus River.

Recreation and Conservtion Minister Jack Radford has announced location of the enquiry will be the North Cowichan.

Jericho Boards Set

Two local policy boards will be set up April 1 to handle administration and programming of Jericho Hill Schools, Education Minister Eileen Dailly said today.

The boards, one for deaf children and one for the blind, are being created following recommendations last year by University of B.C. professor Ben Chud.

Dailly said the boards will include representatives from parents of the pupils, staff, as well as from the department and from those associated with off-campus classes for pupils with impaired sight and hearing.

The education department, said Dailly, will still be responsible for financing, matters of local policy, programming, staffing, and methodology.

Dailly also announced that Prof. Chud has been retained by the department as a consultant during the organizational phase.

Prof. Chud was commissioned by the government to conduct a one-man enquiry into organization and operation of the school and suggest alternative systems of management.

The minister also said that the department is working on establishment of a special education advisory council responsible for children with learning difficulties.

"This would be a logical extension of the government's interdepartmental children's committee," said Dailly, adding recommendations of the council would carry "great weight" in improving delivery of service to all children with learning problems.

Jericho Hill Schools started in 1920 when the education department took over classes for deaf and blind children from the Vancouver School board.

Social Security Representative Here Feb. 19

New department of travel industry representative in British Columbia House in London, England, is Pat Crofton, formerly with the department's conventions and contributing grants section in Victoria.

BROTHELS BUGGED

NEW YORK (Reuter) — The FBI bugged United States congressmen and other important persons at two Washington-area houses of prostitution in the mid-1960s, according to Newsweek magazine.

Quoting a "highly-placed" source, the magazine says then-FBI director J. Edgar Hoover passed information on to President Johnson, who used to put a stack of FBI dosiers conspicuously on his desk while talking politics with vulnerable congressmen.

The magazine quotes the source as saying the listening devices were originally planted to catch foreign diplomats in "compromising situations, to be used, possibly, in blackmailing them into working for the U.S."

Newsweek also quotes as saying that in the late 1960s the FBI hired a prostitute with veneral disease to seduce several New Left leaders in California, in the hope that contracting the disease would discredit the leaders.

The mission was at least a partial success, the report says.

CORPORATE COPS PLAY FOR HIGH STAKES

The Unobtrusive Mounties

VANCOUVER (CP) — The game is cops and robbers, but the arena is different.

Instead of back alleys and underworld hangouts, Inspector Bob Mullock's clients ply their trade in an atmosphere of corporate opulence — board rooms, good restaurants and international air travel.

Mullock is with the RCMP's commercial fraud squad in Vancouver. He blends unobtrusively into the corporate landscape, a conservatively-dressed man with a quiet manner and more than a passing acquaintance with accounting and law.

His work is undramatic, non-violent and often tedious, but the stakes are high — his cases always run between $50,000 and $4 million.

In his pursuit of swindlers and sophisticated book fiddlers, inspector Mullock has "been to Australia, Switzerland two or three times, England ... all over North America."

With commercial fraud, "it is not too often that we don't know who did it," says the inspector, the difficulty is to decide what crime, if any, has been committed.

"If people commit a crime and are successful it will never be reported," he says. "It is only the failures we hear about."

Mullock has spent almost 25 years in the RCMP all in British Columbia.

"I was in Victoria in 1964 in the GIS (General Investigation Service) and they asked if anyone was interested in fraud."

The inspector said he was, but added he knew nothing about business and accounting. He took an investmet dealers' association course in 1966 followed by other courses in accounting and bankruptices.

He generally works on up to half-a-dozen files at once.

"Even with the most complicated (type of case) I would want to be satisfied within six months whether there was a crime in it and whether it could be taken to court. Even then there might be loose ends.

"Usually it takes two or three months to seize documents and analyse them and get a CA (chartered accountant) to go through the records and see where you are gong to go. The exciting part is when you decide where you are going to go because you are attacking.

"Then it is exciting ... that is, until you get to the courts."

Inspector Mullock says the most tedious work in the case is preparing it for trial, especially for a jury trial.

"If the case goes before a jury you have to prepare a case that a layman can understand.

"We will set it out on charts so they can see what is going on. We will take each of the documents we have, copy them and number them. As documents go in, the jury will get a ledger and they will have a lot of documents."

Cases usually take two to three weeks to prepare for a jury.

Convictions for serious white-collar crimes have resulted in jail terms of three to seven years, and because of the nature of the crime, these are usually first offenders.

Once convicted of commercial fraud, says Inspector Mullock, it would be a difficult for a person to go back to crime on any scale in Canada.

To beat the crooks at their own game, the police have to be equally adept, hence the strong emphasis that Inspector Don Armstrong, officer in charge of the fraud squad, places on education. He has 28 officers, 22 in Vancouver, the remainder in Victoria and Kamloops.

"We have a variety of backgrounds," he says. "I think in here we have probably 10 or 11 (university) graduates out of our number. Several have commercial or business degrees or related fields.

"One guy specializes in insurance and real estate fields. He has been a policeman for 15 years and he has been taking real estate courses for two years at nights.

The squad's work is in three main areas — stock fraud and related offences, including thefts and forgeries; manipulations in financial institutions such as credit unions; and bankruptices and stolen and counterfeit securities. It also investigates unemployment insurance conspiraces, insurance frauds, real estate frauds and frauds under the small loans act.

It uses outside chartered accountants in about 70 per cent of its cases.

"Sometimes we have as many as four firms working in here," says Inspector Armstrong.

"While some of my people may be commerce grads, they are not Cas and cannot give testimony as expert witnesses."

Given the complex nature of the work, the unit has call on some of Vancouver's top laywers to act as special prosecutors.

Now you don't have to be rich to have a tax dodge.

Because the Government wants you to save for retirement, they are prepared to give you a legal tax dodge. The amount of tax money you can save is very worthwhile. For example, if you're married with two dependent children, and earned $12,000 last year, your tax saving could amount to over $700.

Within specified limits you can deposit part of your earned income each year, in a Canada Trust Retirement Savings Plan and deduct an equal amount from your taxable income. Less taxable income – less tax for the Tax Man. It's that simple. (And if both husband and wife work, both can set up a Plan.)

Even if you're already in a pension plan at work, you can still take advantage of this tax saving.

Because of rising inflation, a company pension may not be enough to guarantee you a comfortable retirement on its own. Here's an opportunity for you to have more money when you retire, and save on your income tax while you're at it.

If you're short of cash you can still get in.

We can loan you the money to start a Plan. In most cases, right on the spot, and with no red tape. We call it our "Instant Retirement Savings Loan". And get this tax dodge! The interest on the loan is also tax deductible.

Your money isn't locked in forever.

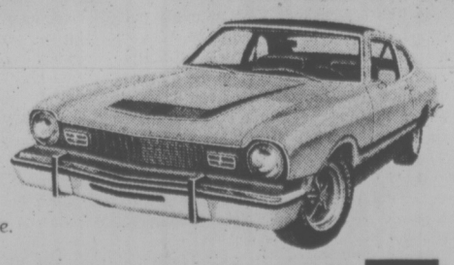
With a Canada Trust Retirement Savings Plan there is no obligation to make future deposits and no sales commission to pay. Should you decide to forget the whole thing, you can get your money out. (But if you do, you'll have to pay the appropriate income tax.)

March 1st is the deadline.

If you decide you want to save on your 1974 taxes, better do it by March 1st. That's the deadline the Government has set. Nobody, not even the rich, can use this tax dodge after that.

And here's the Grabber.

Win one of four Ford Maverick Grabbers.



For an opportunity to win, all you have to do is deposit $250 or more in a Canada Trust Retirement Savings Plan by the March 1st deadline.

The first four names drawn will each win a brand new Ford Maverick Grabber! (After correctly answering an arithmetical, time-limited, skill-testing question.) So hurry. Grab all the tax savings you can by March 1st and you may grab yourself a Grabber too. What's more, if you win a Grabber, and you made your deposit by February 15th, you'll also win 1,000 gallons of gas.

This contest and the rules are available only at Canada Trust branches in Ontario, The Prairie Provinces and B.C.

This Is a Freeze?

Whatever happened to the spending and hiring freeze Premier Dave Barrett imposed on the British Columbia civil service last month? A glance at the want ads might suggest exactly the opposite is in effect.

Advertisements of vacant posts filled most of a page in the newspapers. The government wants three agriculturists and an agricultural engineer in the department of agriculture (salary ranges from $14,424 to $17,124 and new scales are presently under negotiation).

A director of the parks branch is wanted at minimum $27,910 a year, while the municipal affairs department needs a director of planning, who's to be paid $27,000 to $31,000. ICBC needs "additional personnel" for its computer systems and programmer analysis department.

The provincial forest service wants foresters and engineers at $14,42 4to $17,124. A secretary to the motor carrier commission is required — pay is $17,916 to $21,180. In the same range is a job as administrator of central payroll control systems. Human resources department wants an economist at $16,236 to $18,420. (In this case, no one will argue — with a $103.5 million overrun, Human Resources Minister Norman Levi needs all the economists he can gather up.)

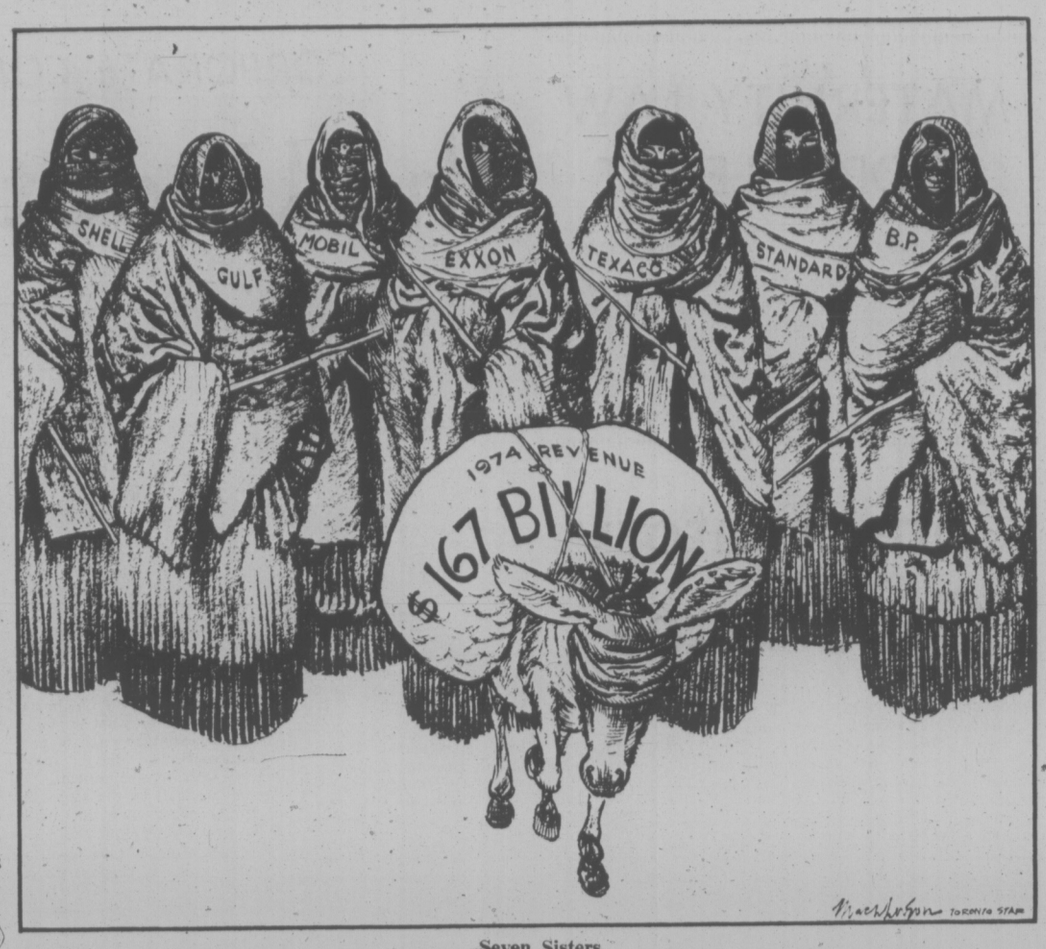
Attorney-general's department and labor need administrative officers at $15,168 to $17,916. Public works absolutely needs a senior property negotiator at the same salary, wants an electrical engineer for $14,424 to $17,124, and has to have three more property negotiators, to be paid $13,788 minimum.

Transport department wants an inspector of motor carriers at a salary of $10,848 to $12,588 and B.C. Hydro is asking for a field engineer for its Fraser Valley gas operation at $14,724 minimum annual salary. The lands department wants firefighters for the UBC endowment lands at $13,020.

These are just the expensive advertised jobs. No doubt, the government requires numerous clerks, typists, stenos and assistants for every advertised position filled. What's that the premier said last month?

"We've told all departments to watch every penny." (Yeah, but what about the dollars?) The premier said an austerity program is in effect to make department management "fiscally responsible."

If the foregoing ads for jobs in the civil service are an indication of a "freeze" on spending and hiring, heaven help the taxpayer when things get back to normal.



Seven Sisters

240 Atom Bombs 60 Miles Away

Like a dagger pointed at Canada, just 60 miles away in Washington state, there is being built a nuclear weapons facility that will make this corner of North America the centre of the bullseye in any future conflict of the superpowers.

The U.S. navy is planning to build at Bangor, Wash., on the long, narrow Hood Canal a base for Trident missile-carrying submarines. Concrete is already being poured for shore facilities — four miles of docks and other installations along the pristine shore of the fjord which cuts into the Olympic peninsula across Puget Sound from Seattle.

The $600 million complex will be home base for 10 Trident submarines, each carrying 24 nuclear-tipped missiles capable of lobbing a warhead across the Pacific Ocean onto targets well inside China and Russia. Scary thing is, according to Vice-Admiral Robert Kaufman who is co-ordinating the Trident program, that the missiles can be fired off from dockside if need be. That's not such a remote possibility. Thirty per cent of the time, the submarines will be at the base instead of cruising the high seas.

A fledgling protest against locating the base in their state has been organized by Washington state environmentalists. Their lawsuit contends that the navy hasn't complied with environmental protection laws. For example, according to a recent Nation article, it wasn't until after the navy picked the site that it ordered an environmental impact study. And the same consortium chosen to plan the base was named to draw up the initial environmental impact report — an obvious conflict of interest.

The case may come to trial early in the spring. The Concerned About Trident citizens' coalition has hired the same lawyer who fought the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission to a 5-4 supreme court ruling which narrowly allowed the Amchitka nuclear test to go ahead. Amchitka was a controversy which greatly concerned British Columbians. Trident is an issue, much closer to home, which should concern us even more. It poses dangers greater than the transport of Alaskan oil down our coast in supertankers.

Two British Columbia politicians have spoken out about the issue, but it doesn't seem to have taken hold of public opinion. Peter Rolston, the New Democractic Party MLA for Dewdney, told the B.C. legislature last year:

"The massive 550-foot-long submarines will pass by Victoria on their deadly and redundant mission. The manoeuvres will take place in the popular and crowded Strait of Juan de Fuca which is already threatened by supertankers."

And as New Westminster MP Stu Leggatt pointed out in a futile attempt two months ago to have an emergency debate in the House of Commons:

"This base will make Vancouver and the Lower Mainland of British Columbia the number one target in North America in the event of nuclear hostilities."

As war is too important to be left to the generals and admirals, so too is the decision to build a massive nuclear submarine base next to Canada too important to be left to American environmentalists to fight alone. B.C. residents should be there shoulder to shoulder — as with the Skagit Valley controversy, as with Amchitka and the Alaska oil super - tankers. The stakes are too high.

Replacing George

Looking from my office window this typically sunny and amiable Victorian winter morning, I have a splendid view of our legislative buildings' verdigris-ed dome. Workpersons are removing the scaffolding which for months has assisted renovation work, particularly on the damaged plinth which supported "George"—Captain George Vancouver.

But though most of the scaffolding is now down, there is yet no sign of "George" reappearing.

Which inspires speculation. How do they intend to restore our honored circumnavigator to his rightful place? Helicopter? Carefully-aimed parachute drop? Yoga-esque levitation? Star-Trek transporter?

Or is it our lords' and masters' intent to replace George with something more symbolic of contemporary British Columbia?

Should this be so, your readers might care to send in suggestions. Off the top of my own humble and obedient public-servant head, here are several to start the ball rolling

1. A sports fisherman with hands held 10 feet apart, just to rub it into to tourist visitors?

2. A symbolic premier (political party irrelevant) facing east. Not to Mecca but with fist raised aloft in defiance of Ottawa?

3. One of our liberated Ms. ladies wearing a giant Why Not button?

4. A newly-nourished public servant holding aloft a "God Bless John Fryer" banner?

Or, should he now be recovered from his flu, might not the vacant plinth be a commanding spot from which Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen can implement his promised CUPE-inspired legislative picketing?

The possibilities are endless. Perhaps on reflection it might be more prudent to beg for the speedy return of our familiar George before some wild activist like me feels tempted? — Jim McCrossan, 107-1020 Burdett Avenue.

Relative Values

Where is our government's sense of relative values when the federal government can only spend $300 million on the Alberta tar sands oil development while the Quebec government can spend $300 million on something so frivolous as an Olympic stadium to satisfy the whim of one man? If Quebec is so wealthy then why are Alberta, Ontario and B.C. paying it equalization payments?

Why is Alberta providing them with oil at less than world prices, when they cannot even afford to invest as much in the tar sands oil development as Montreal can spend on a stadium? Why is the rest of Canada asked to bear the financial burden of instituting bilingualism for the comfort of an obviously very wealthy province? Why are multinational corporations developing our resources anyway? Is it that we have elected but not representative nor responsible government?—Puzzled.

Mincome Probe

A little more than a year ago Premier Dave Barrett expressed surprise via Jack Scott's column in the Times that relatively few citizens had taken advantage of Mincome.

The surprise and amazement applied more particularly to persons on the 60-64 age group. Mr. Scott was also amazed. It just did not seem possible that B.C. citizens in this age group could overlook such a generous scheme.

Times have changed. Could be that our rapidly spiralling inflation has changed people's thinking. Whatever the reason Mr. Levi, our minister of human resources, is unhappy. Apparently Mincome is being paid to some persons who in Mr. Levi's opinion are not properly entitled. In any case he is now prepared to launch a full scale probe in order to determine how many persons should have Mincome payments reduced or perhaps eliminated. The reason for the probe is that a few people are manipulating their incomes in such a way as to make them eligible for Mincome.

Why a situation such as this should generate a full-scale probe is hard to understand. A year ago the 60-64 were being told to quit their jobs, spend their money and apply for Mincome. They were also told it would be good business to negotiate a lump sum settlement if by chance they were contributing to a private pension plan. They were told further that possession of substantial assets would not prevent them from qualifying for Mincome. There was a proviso where the assets included much in the way of cash. In this case the money should be deposited in a non-interest bearing account or just kept in a sock. The owner just had to make sure the cash did not generate income.

If Mr. Levi and Mr. Barrett got together and clarified their thinking it is barely possible the probe could be called off. If this should happen Mincome would really pie in the sky.—Concerned.

High Stakes in Crowded Conservative Party Leadership Race

By RICHARD GWYN

OTTAWA — Between now and next November, one woman and perhaps 10 men will spend $3-4 million between them — $200,000 or so gets you a respectable campaign; you need up to $500,000 for a complete booze-and-buttons effort — to try to become the next national Conservative party leader.

It's crazy of course. Most haven't a hope of winning. The victor becomes head of Canada's almost-permanent opposition party.

Yet the challenge, and the chance, are irresistible. The chance is that the Liberals must one day lose, no matter how slight Conservative prospects seem today. The challenge is to climb the last rung on the Canadian ladder. Provincial premiers and corporation presidents come by the dozen. There is only one prime minister, and only 15 in all since Confederation.

To handicap a race this far in advance is a mug's game. Indeed, though Robert Stanfield wants to step down this fall, the convention may be put off to early 1976 to avoid a possible conflict with the Ontario provincial election.

For one thing, some of the strongest runners always come in late. Stanfield did in 1967, Pierre Trudeau did in 1968.

For another, luck can make all the difference. Flora MacDonald had steeled herself to fight the attitude-prejudice to be exact — that leadership is no place for a woman. She no longer has to, thanks to Margaret Thatcher's defeat of British Conservative Leader Edward Heath.

Discreetly, because Stanfield still has to set a date for his going, the contest has begun. Heward Grafftey has hired a full-time organizer. John Fraser has put together an organization with, as its key members, ex-campaign chairman Malcolm Wickson and Toronto ad-man Norman Atkins, both with strong links into the Ontario big Blue Machine. Flora MacDonald and Jack Horner have been out criss-crossing the country.

Personality will win the race, but ideology will frame the contest. The party is divided between the west, where its strength lies, and the east, particularly Quebec. The division is as sharp between conservatives and progressives, that is, between those convinced that electoral victory lies a little to the left of centre and those determined to pull the party toward the right.

To make some sense of the scene I talked to a dozen MPs and party insiders. Their views contain several surprises.

The candidates can be grouped into four categories, with the winner in each block likely to pick up a majority of the votes of the others as they drop out.

● The Quebecker. Most accounts put Claude Wagner in the lead. I now doubt if he has a strong bloc of delegates. His chances are far from certain. He's made no move to organize. He's lived down a harsh, law-and-order image and is liked personally, but has little impact on caucus.

● The conservatives. Sinclair Stevens, the Toronto MP, leads this group. Fiercely partisan and a small bundle of energy, Stevens has one golden chance: as financial critic he can make his name if he at least debates Finance Minister John Turner on even terms, a feat no one else has accomplished.

The other conservatives are Allan Lawrence, who dropped his reputation somewhere between Toronto, where he was a senior Ontario cabinet minister, and Ottawa; Eldon Woolliams, the florid rhetorician from Alberta, and Jack Horner, also from Alberta, a populist in cowboy boots who has begun to pick up some yards.

● The progressives. Flora MacDonald despite some press judgments, is rated ahead here. A political professional with a magnetic personal appeal, she has a network of a solid regional base.

The other progressives are Fraser, intense and serious, ("he's trying too hard, too soon," one MP told me); Jim Gillies, the energy critic from Toronto still agonizing whether to run; Grafftey, the elfin maverick from Quebec, and Joe Clark, another Albertan, whose aim at the age of 35 will be not to win but to make his name.

All are MPs. None yet has national stature, though the position makes the man or woman, not the magical something of a John Diefenbaker of twenty years ago. Which makes the fourth category of contenders the most important of all.

● The oustiders. Two stand out. Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta almost certainly can have the job if he wants it. He has presence and he shines on television. He will call a provincial election this spring, and he will win it in a word. A recent Gallup poll gave Lougheed a top-rating (28 per cent) among party members.

Until former Ontario Premier John Robarts, the other, told columnist Christina Newman that he would not "shut the door" to a leadership draft, no one here dared hope he might even be interested.

Robarts looks and sounds like a prime minister should. He has appeal in Quebec. He has never lost an election.

A third outsider sometimes mentioned is Ontario Premier Bill Davis. I judge that you can drop his name from the list — Davis would win hardly a vote in the federal caucus.

My survey was rapid. One unexpected fact does emerge. Though out of power for more than a decade, the Conservatives still can stage a convention that can command the attention of the country. The New Democrats now need to be a quarter as lucky.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of February 10, 1915

NANAIMO — Engulfed in the flooding waters of an abandoned mine when the blast opened up an old tunnel, 20 miners were drowned at No. 1 mine in South Wellington in one of the worst mining disasters ever recorded on Vancouver Island. Seventy-eight other miners escaped a similar fate because of the speedy warning given of the waters' approach. Coming on top of the recent fire that fairly swept the little village off the map, South Wellington reeled under this terrible disaster and the town now is in complete mourning for the loved ones whose bodies are still entombed hundreds of feet from the mouth of the mine.

The Modern Scourge

NEW YORK TIMES
An Editorial

Like a dread plague in medieval times that moved relentlessly and invisibly from one walled town to another and that walls were powerless to keep out, terrorist violence breaks out today in one great city after another and sophisticated security systems are powerless to prevent it. Within days a bomb goes off in the State Department in Washington, there is a murderous explosion at Fraunces Tavern in New York, planes are shot up and hostages seized in an airport in Paris. No city — Stockholm or Rome, Birmingham or Buenos Aires — is immune, and in the least favored, such as Belfast, violence has become endemic.

These acts of terrorism breed so much anxiety because they are so random. Nothing is more terrifying than a menace that is totally unpredictable. Since human beings cannot stop going to lunch or taking airplanes or walking crowded streets or working in public buildings, they develop a protective sense of gallows humor about the unknown adversaries who at any moment may be setting off a bomb in their midst. But humor and stoicism notwithstanding, this random terrorism preys on the nerves of all but the most hardy fatalists.

When a political motive is ascribed to a particular bombing, it still seems senseless. Repeated acts of terrorism by the Irish Republican Army and the various Palestinian organizations have brought renewed public attention to long-festering issues in Ireland and the Middle East. But the absolutist aims of these fanatics are as difficult of attainment today as they were five years ago or twenty years ago.

The bombings of Fraunces Tavern, ostensibly by Puerto Rican nationalists, and of the State Department, ostensibly by a branch of the Weathermen, are even more futile. Since Puerto Rico is not a colony, bombing cannot liberate it. The Puerto Rican people through their free political processes remain masters of their own destiny no matter what happens in New York.

Since the United States Government is not a totalitarian tyranny, bombing cannot overthrow it. The American people through their free political processes remain masters of their own destiny no matter how many government buildings are evacuated or blown up.

The political senselessness and moral nihilism of these terroristic acts may be clues to their essential nature. The fanatics are rebels against — not only a particular grievance or injustice — but against the modern world itself. The modern world was created by sciences and technologies that are cabalistic mysteries to millions of people. This world is organized and directed by huge, impersonal, hierarchical bureaucracies which have many managers and few heroes. This world produces profits and better living standards but erases eccentricity, muffles discontent, curbs the wayward and the restless.

Not every man and not every community is willing to accommodate to the rational, economic-oriented values of the world created by the Industrial Revolution. Such men and such communities of people take refuge in extreme nationalist or revolutionary ideals. Pure ethnicity and perfect socialism are alike ideals that can generate heroes and fantasies, nourish old hatreds, legitimize wayward lives and violent impulses.

The slums of Derry and Belfast and the refugee camps of the Middle East exist outside the mainstreams of modern economic life. So do many segments of the now-disrupted, traditionalist, rural societies of Asia, Africa and Latin America. In the advanced wealthy countries of North America and Western Europe, discontented, disoriented individuals choose to identify with wrongs remote from themselves or wholly imagined because they, too, can then posture on the stage of history.

Like scourges of the past before the age of modern medicine, this plague of violence has no swift, sure remedy. It has to be lived through and survived. Rational men and women can only combat it indirectly as they struggle to find humane ways to transform the affluent modern world into that more just and generous society of which men have dreamed in every age.

Preying on our nerves

The Eager Sterilizers

By CHARLES FOLEY

LOS ANGELES — A storm over the procedures for sterilizing women at a leading Los Angeles hospital has set off a nationwide inquiry into charges that, all over America, thousands of women — poor, black, uneducated, unwed — are being cheated of their right to bear children.

It is estimated that a million women are being sterilized each year. Statistics indicate that three times as many black, Mexican-American and Puerto Rican women are being sterilized as white women.

Doctors as a class are frank, in private, about their motives in "playing God." They say: "Most of these are welfare mothers. If we have to pay for them we should control them."

Beyond the wish to spare the taxpayer (most American doctors are themselves in the high-income bracket), it is charged that many big inner-city hospitals use the poor and underprivileged to provide practice for young surgeons in both "tubal ligations," as a simple sterilization is called, and full-scale hysterectomies, the removal of the womb.

A growing, if largely anonymous, group of physicians is, however, beginning to speak out against what is described as "the big sterilization push." Dr. Bernard Rosenfeld, aged 32, who worked in obstetrics in big hospitals in Baltimore, Boston and Oakland before coming to Los Angeles, says: "It's a frightening routine. Here at the huge County-USC (University of Southern California) Medical Centre, a staff doctor would lead interns through the maternity wards, surgery schedule in hand.

"'I want you to ask all these girls to have their tubes tied,' he'd say. 'Every one we do now means one less for some poor SOB next year'."

Persuasion was usually on "doctor-knows-best" lines, but coercion, even intimidation, could not be excluded.

Among County-USC interns who corroborate this account is Dr. Juan Nieto, aged 25. He says, however, that other hospitals are even less scrupulous in obtaining women's consent to an operation.

"In Colorado, for instance, they would stand around the bed of a girl of 19 or 20 saying: 'You really ought to have your tubes tied — then you won't have to take risks or buy the pill.'"

Pressure to sign a consent form reached a climax in the delivery room, during labor throes. "Wait for the eighth pain," experienced colleagues advised.

The first malpractice suit filed against a hospital for alleged sterilization abuse has now been brought against County-USC by three women who claim that consent forms were given them to sign while in labor or under sedation. Two of them, aged 24 and 26, say they had no idea that the operation would sterilize them permanently, the third, aged 32, went on using contraceptives for two years before learning the truth.

This suit, for $7.5 million damages, has prompted a City inquiry. The hospital has now admitted it "probably did not fully follow federal guidelines on consent and counselling."

These guidelines themselves belatedly followed an earlier suit by the Southern Poverty Law Centre against an Alabama clinic which sterilized two black girls, aged 12 and 14. This led to charges that nine others, all but one black and five of them minors, had also been sterilized without proper consent.

During recent forays on behalf of Ralph Nader's Health Research Group, Dr. Rosenfeld talked to scores of doctors in Texas and California hospitals. Two witnesses who went along with him in the guise of research assistants support his conclusion that it is "unwritten policy" to sterilize "unfit mothers." Among remarks gathered by the party:—

"Sure it was policy to push tubals. Some of our doctors wore buttons: 'Stop at Two Dammit.'"

"The best time to make a pitch was while sewing up an episiotomy (a small incision to ease delivery) as the anaesthesia wore off."

"If an intern got a girl to sign, he had the right to do the job. So they'd beg her to agree, for the practice."

If possible, a girl would be persuaded to have a hysterectomy, since "even a well-trained chimpanzee can do a tubal."

Dr. Rosenfeld and others believe that their unwieldy size opens these great inner city hospitals to such abuses. The pace is frantic, the staff contains a high proportion of trainees, the victims are usually scared teenagers who find themselves among strangers and do not know they have any rights.

Some, when asked if they want their tubes tied, agree because they believe they can be "untied" later on. Others fear loss of welfare benefits or child support if they refuse.

Staff doctors at County-USC, which claims to be "the most sophisticated obstetrical hospital in the world" and a mecca for visiting gynaecologists, bitterly reject the charges. Privately, some are ready to admit "doing a bit of good by stealth."

A study conducted by the Nader group, based on hundreds of interviews with physicians and patients, finds that sterilization has too often been sold to women by "deceptive marketing means," or to boost surgeons' fees.

Man's Vision Extended to Edge of Universe

By WALTER SULLIVAN

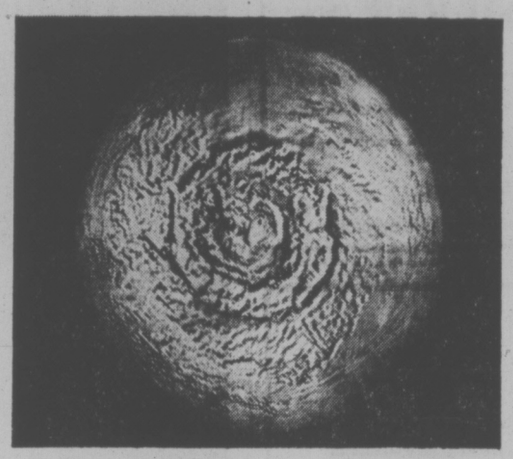
More than 250 years ago, Sir Isaac Newton, the English mathematician and philosopher, showed that the movements of even the most distant celestial bodies are governed by the same laws that control the fall of an apple from a tree on earth. With Newton's formulation of the laws of motion and gravity, a fundamental change occurred in man's understanding of nature. It was realized that physical laws are universal.

With that realization began the rapproachment between the science of the heavens—astronomy—and a science of the laboratory—physics—from which emerged "astrophysics," a field of research that is today breaking new ground more rapidly than almost any other. In astrophysics, the postulates of theoretical physics are explored with the techniques of astronomy in a new laboratory—the sky.

There fundamental physical processes can be observed, if still only dimly, in conditions so extreme they cannot be duplicated on earth. The most sophisticated atom smashers cannot replace what happens to the atom when it is subjected to the high pressures and temperatures within living stars; or to light and to time within the immense gravity fields of the collapsed remnants of burned-out stars called neutron stars. But what happens under such extreme conditions is considered by many critical to understanding what happens under normal conditions on earth.

That the 1974 Nobel Prize in physics was shared by two Cambridge radio astronomers is a reminder of the growing contribution of astrophysics to modern science. Antony Hewish was honored for his role in the discovery of pulsars, generally believed to be fast-spinning neutronstars that can be located by the rhythmic radio pulses they emit. Sir Martin Ryle was cited for developing the multiple-antenna radio telescope technique known as aperture synthesis. With aperture synthesis, relatively small radio telescopes can be linked to collect distant radio signals with the same accuracy as one impractically large radio telescope.

The work of such scientists has helped make possible the observation of phenomena predicted a generation ago on theoretical grounds, but considered then beyond confirmation. These included the existence of neutron stars so dense that one cubic inch weighs billions of tons, and therefore with a gravitational pull so strong they slow time.



Global mosaic of Mars made from Mariner photos

It has also now become possible to map enormous conglomerations of gases. One of them, discovered late last year, is so big that it takes light 18.6 million years to cross it. Some of the newly found celestial forms are radiating light and radio waves so intensely that it is believed their energy may derive from processes still unknown on earth.

Study of such discoveries is far from over, and there is no doubt that there are discoveries still to be made. Giant new instruments to scan the heavens are coming into operation. On the Plains of Augustin in New Mexico, a radio telescope is being built that will be 100 times more powerful than any now in use. Its 27 dish antennas, each 82 feet in diameter, will ride on rails that form a Y-shape-pattern.

A number of new large telescops are also coming into operation for optical observations. Such observations are used, for example, in conjunction with those of radio telescopes for the study of quasars, mysterious celestial bodies that seem more than twice as distant as any other observable object, but radiate brilliantly in visible light and radio waves. Some of the new telescopes are capable of scanning the Southern Hemisphere.

The astrophysicists' concern is not limited to the far reaches of the universe. It is also turned to earth's home, the solar system. Advances in space technology have made it possible to study more directly how the planets were born.

From the Mariner unmanned space craft fly-by of Mercury and other observations it had been found that the planets circling the sun, from Mercury outward, decrease in density. That is, the farther from the sun a planet is, the less heavy are the materials of which it is composed. This fact is presumed to reflect the manner in which the sun and the planets were formed, in a process not yet fully understood.

Now the close passages of Jupiter by Pioneers 10 and 11 have produced data that have shown that the four large inner moons follow the same pattern. From the effect of each moon's gravity on the path of the space vehicles, it has been learned that the densest of Jupiter's moons is the innermost, and the others are progressively less dense as their distance from Jupiter increases. It is thought that Jupiter in its youth was almost a star. Now Jupiter and its moons will be studied as a small-scale model of the solar system.

In the sixteen-seventies, Ole Roemer, at the Paris Observatory, used the eclipses of Io, innermost of the large Jovian moons, as it vanished behind the planet on each of its orbits, to make the first determination of the speed of light. Assuming Io's average orbital speed to be constant, he noted that the eclipses, in terms of a timetable based on observations when the earth was closest to Jupiter, appeared to be 22 minutes "late" when viewed with the earth on the opposite side of the sun from Jupiter. The delay, he assumed, represented the amount of time required for light from Io to travel the extra distance of 186 million miles. His finding for the speed of light, some 180,000 miles a second, was reasonably close to the modern figure, about 186,282 miles a second.

With the new radio and optical telescopes and other sophisticated electronic image amplifiers, it may be possible to extend man's vision sufficiently to determine the nature of the universe, whether it is infinite or closed, doomed to expand forever or fall back together again.

Last month, astrophysicists met in Dallas to discuss current evidence on those questions. There was no consensus. And indeed, much of what can now be observed in the distant heavens, such as quasars, and other bodies radiating enormous amounts of energy, have no accepted explanation.

At the other extreme of observation, probing the inner constituents of matter with atom smashers, new discoveries of recent months have been equally perplexing.

Is some synthesis almost within reach? Will the forces related to such exotic entities as the theoretical "quark," a subatomic particle the proof of whose existence has so far eluded physicists, or other hypothetical building blocks of atoms, provide answers to the large-scale questions of astronomy? In the detective story, the author promises to unravel the mystery at the end. In science, one can only probe, and hope for answers. And there are, after all, those who still believe the full explanation will forever lie beyond reach.

Don't Hold Your Breath, Harry

harry bruce

As a benchmark of the times, Jean Marchand's admission that Canadian transportation is in a mess may not rank with Richard Nixon's I-am-not-a-crook, but at least it's honest.

Yes, says the minister responsible for transportation in Canada, transportation in Canada has been in a mess ever since Confederation. And wow, he seems to be saying, it sure was in one heck of a mess yesterday. And look at it today. A real dog's breakfast. Yech, what a mess, Phew.

He said so then, and he'll say so again. And who would know better than Marchand anyway? After all, he is our transport minister, isn't he?

The Trudeau Liberals do like to suggest that, really, certain problems are beyond human solution. Only fools, rogues and Tories argue otherwise. Tories are crude and low. They want only to exploit incurable diseases for political gain.

Inflation is a gargantuan, international evil, don't you know? There's nothing Canada can do about it. Transportation is in a mess. Yes. But it was ever thus, now wasn't it?

Liberals, we are to understand, are cool, rational, sophisticated, intellectually tough. They alone can keep the country rolling with the fight hooks and slipping the left jabs from unconquerable heavyweight crises — and intelligent chaps must always recognize the wisdom of leaving Canada in their hands.

Shrug, shrug.

Tories call this attitude TLA or "Typical Liberal Arrogance" and it never fails to make them snarl, froth and bristle. Right now, some think Marchand should haul his world-weary presence out of transport and into a job he can handle unmessily. (But as Marchand himself might say, Tories are devoid of positive suggestions.)

He has replied that the cabinet must think before it acts, and that its members are only human. My own feeling is that politicians should not make such statements unless they're prepared to back them up with solid proof: but that, with regard to his admission about the transportation mess, Marchand was nothing less than noble.

This was far more than one more shrug of TLA. It has a confessional tone to it, a quality of coming clean. Marchand may just be the reluctant harbinger of an amazing era in our political life. Have the masters of phoney frankness had their day? Is Jean Marchand the prophet of an age of genuine candor?

He has violated beloved traditions. Cabinet ministers simply do not admit government failings too straightforwardly. Even Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition may be secretly uneasy on hearing a cabinet minister blurt out that yes, the area of his responsibility certainly is in a helluva mess.

Under attack in the Commons, a cabinet minister traditionally defends the reputation of his department by gracefully agreeing to supply certain information, suppressing other information, snowing everyone in sight with blizzards of boring information, smiling confidently, smirking insultingly, ignoring the enemy, keeping his mouth shut and, finally, counter-attacking with nasty wisecracks and tedious assaults on the otherwise forgotten record of the opposition when it had been in office.

And we are encouraged to believe that this verbal sparring, the oratorical knives, needless, hammers and cannons — and a certain amount of dissembling — are all essential to parliamentary combat in the finest system of democratic government known to civilized mankind.

But Marchand suddenly got tired of playing, and I hope others follow his lonely example. Far ahead, I see the glow of a golden axe and, in that rare and radiant time, cabinet ministers will feel free to rise and say:

"Well, Mr. Speaker, my honorable friend certainly has a point. Indeed, the mess in my department is even more sickening that he imagines. Mr. Speaker, we've got a mess in there that's so sticky, so stupid, so stinky it's going to make the Gerda Munsinger mess look like the indiscretions of kid who cheats on his bowling score.

"And the money, ouch! Well, I have to tell you. Billions of it, and there's zilch left. Absolutely zilch. And listen, here's the crazy part. We know less about where that went than we do about the lost continent of Atlantis.

"Mr. Speaker, if my honorable friends will concur, I'd like to move that, as a matter of urgent national importance, this house debate the mess in my department right now.

"It's about time we left a little fresh air and shunshine into that reeking cesspool of corruption, bungling and grossly over-paid know-nothings, 'do-nothings, punks, perverts and pusillanimous poltroons.

"We owe it to the people of Canada, sir. We owe it to the historic example set by the Hon. Jean Marchand in the winter of 1975."

Deadly 'Binary Bomb' Bid

WASHINGTON (WP) — The U.S. navy and air force want to develop a new "binary bomb" containing deadly nerve gas which would be used in retaliation for any similarly lethal chemical warfare attacks on U.S. military forces.

These so-called binary munitions — in which two non-toxic chemicals become a deadly combination when mixed together — have been a major source of controversy in Congress for the past year.

That controversy, however, revolved around the army's efforts to start production of artillery shells loaded with the new binary nerve gas.

Though the Congress killed the army's request for funds last year, the new military budget that went to Capitol Hill this week contains not only a renewed army request for money, but a navy and air force request to start development of bombs that would also carry the same gas.

First disclosure of the new bomb request came in a 202-page annual report on the overall U.S. military posture submitted to Congress last week by Gen. George Brown, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

"The navy has included a budget request for the development of a binary bomb which also will be used by the air force," Brown reported.

Military sources say about $2 million is included in the new budget for the project.

Another $12.3 million is included to support renewed army plans to begin building a production facility for the gases and to continue research.

Under the 1925 Geneva Protocol, which the U.S. Senate finally ratified last December, the United States joined with the other militarily important countries of the world in renouncing the "first use" of deadly chemical weapons; this, however, does not make it illegal to continue research and production of these weapons as means to retaliate against chemical attack or, as the Pentagon argues, as a means to deter any would-be attack.

The United States, according to unofficial estimates, over the years has stockpiled some 50 million pounds of chemical munitions, much of it conventional nerve gas, which kills instantly.

The existing type of nerve gas is essentially a single chemical and the Pentagon has argued that this gas — both in storage and contained in artillery shells — is much less safe than the new binary chemicals would be.

In the binary technique, two relatively harmless chemicals are kept separate inside the artillery shells.

They only become lethal when they are automatically mixed together by the spinning of an artillery shell in flight.

In the case of the newly-proposed bomb, project sources claim the two chemicals would be mixed only by the falling of the bomb from a plane and not by the motion of navy planes taking off from aircraft carriers or air force planes taking off from runways.

The army, thus far unsuccessfully, has been attempting to replace its existing stockpile of nerve gas artillery shells with the binary versions on the basis that they are safer.

Also, the Pentagon contends that the Soviet Union is the most well-equipped military force in the world when it comes to chemical warfare, and the United States needs to keep pace in order to deter such an attack or to respond in kind.

But critics have thus far out-pointed the Pentagon with a variety of arguments. They point out that any nation, such as the Soviet Union, that has a heavy investment in such weapons also has equipped her forces with defensive equipment against counter-attack, which makes chemicals a poor choice for a counterattack.

Aside from the unliklihood of a nerve gas attack, opponents argue that any use of such weapons would be a sign of desperation, quickly leading to the use of nuclear weapons.

SOVIET MISSILE TESTED

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union is battle-testing an improved version of its SAM ground-to-air missile that played havoc with the Israeli Air Force during the 1973 Middle East War, western defence sources said today.

The missile — an updated version of the SAM-7 — is being used by communist forces in South Vietnam, where government officials say its impact has prevented the U.S. supplied South Vietnamese Air Force from playing a major part in recent fighting.

Defence experts said the improved SAM-7 can be carried by soldiers, is heat-seeking and can hit a target at heights of 15,000 feet.

The experts said the missile's effectiveness is enhanced by comparatively easy handling of the rocket. It can also be moved easily and therefore is more difficult to detect and combat.

Vietnamese officials have ascribed their recent air losses largely to the advent of SAM-7s recently supplied by the Soviet Union to Hanoi.

In the October, 1973, Middle East War, earlier types of SAMs were used by the Arabs with marked success against Israeli planes. SAM-6 ground-to-air missiles played the key part, but some SAM-7 types apparently also had been supplied then by the Soviet.

Reds Only Mark Time As Tet Holiday Near

SAIGON (AP) — Only small-scale Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks were reported in the Saigon area today on the eve of the four-day Tet festival, the annual celebration of the lunar new year.

The South Vietnamese military command reported that a Viet Cong mine blew up a sampan Sunday in the Mekong Delta, killing 15 persons.

The only major ground action was reported near the northern coast below Da Nang, where government troops are trying to retake high ground to check a North Vietnamese push into the populous coastal lowlands. The command said fighting continued there for the third day, with 35 more North Vietnamese and four more government troops killed.

This raised the total North Vietnamese dead claimed by the government to more than 200.

In the Saigon area, Viet Cong forces wounded two militiamen at a police station seven miles northeast of the city, blew up a culvert five miles northeast of the city and planted land mines that closed one of the lanes on the Saigon-Tay Ninh highway northwest of the capital.

Military analysts say they do not expect the holiday this week to bring a major attack, but hundreds of additional government troops have been brought into Saigon as a precaution.

Also in Saigon, more than 20 members of the National Assembly and Senate began a 24-hour hunger strike in front of the assembly building to protest the "corrupt, inefficient and oppressive administration" of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Tet 1975 will be one of the most frugal new year celebrations in years because of inflation, unemployment and the war's drain on the economy.

Sales are off as much as 50 per cent although Tet traditionally is a time for spending lavishly on food and clothing, paying off debts and holding family reunions. Most businesses will be closed during the four-day period.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command reported nine rockets hit the airport, a government post 13 miles west of the city repulsed a night attack, and government forces made counterattacks north and southeast of the city. No casualties were reported.

A United States official said the wives of six American embassy men still in Phnom Penh would be evacuated on regular flights during the week because of growing shortages of food and fuel. More than 150 French citizens and the families of Japanese embassy personnel also are to leave.

CRAZY CAMEL KILLS MAN

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — A camel apparently went berserk at the Slater Park Zoo today, broke from his cage and stomped an elderly night watchman to death.

When police arrived they were able to distract the animal long enough to drag the body of Vincent Doyle, 60, from the cage. They then shot the camel.

Cosmonaut Landing Smooth

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonauts Alexei Gubarev and Georgy Grechko have returned to earth in good health after establishing a Soviet record of 30 days in space, Tass says.

The two spacemen withstood the long flight well, the official Soviet news agency said. A medical examination was conducted after the landing Sunday on the Kazakhstan steppes.

Tass said their Soyuz 17 spaceship landed smoothly although there were high winds, low clouds and limited visibility at the landing site 75 miles northeast of the town of Tselinograd.

Gubarev and Grechko, both 43 and on their maiden space flight, "successfully accomplished" their mission, Tass said. They docked their spacecraft with the orbiting Salyut 4 laboratory and conducted experiments for nearly a month. The new Soviet record fell far short of the 84 days the U.S. Skylab 4 crew stayed aloft last year and the 59 days for the Skylab 3 crew. There was no indication that the Soviets had planned to try to beat the American records.

TEST HUMAN REACTION

Tass said the work done by Gubarev and Grechko included research on the sun, planets and stars; a study of the earth's surface and atmosphere, and medical and biological experiments to study the effect of space flights on humans.

Soviet sources said earlier that the flight was not connected with the joint Soviet-American flight planned for July. The Soviets had already carried out a dress rehearsal to test docking mechanisms for that venture.

Gubarev and Grechko were shot aloft on Jan. 11 from the Baikonur space centre. They docked with the four-chamber Salyut 4 station the next day.

The previous Soviet record for space flight was 24 days in 1971, set by the three cosmonauts who established the world's first orbiting space laboratory aboard Salyut 1. But the three men died on their return to earth because of a fault in their Soyuz ship.

Salyut 4 continued its flight in orbit, but there was no indication if another crew would be sent up to board it.

JEWISH BANKS 'BLACKLISTED'

LONDON (Reuter) — Arab governments have blacklisted major European banks led by Jewish families in an attempt to squeeze them out of the international loans business, banking sources said Saturday.

One of Britain's leading merchant banks said two banks, S. G. Warburg and N. M. Rothschild and Sons, have been excluded from underwriting a recent loan for the Japanese group, Marubeni.

Robert Henderson, deputy chairman of Kleinwort Benson, said the two companies have been excluded because of Arab interests involved in the loan.

Banking sources said that Rothschilds and Warburgs also have been excluded from underwriting a recent $60-million loan to the European Investment Bank. The two companies have been regular underwriters for the bank.

Other reports say a leading French merchant bank, Lazard Freres, has not been allowed to join in the underwriting of a $25-million loan raised by the state owned Credit Lyonnais for Air France and in a $25-million issue raised by the Banque de Paris et Des Pays Bas for the Compagnie Nationale du Rhone.

Gun Men Protest Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — Representative from gun and hunting clubs from Quebec to British Columbia gathered here Saturday to oppose gun control legislation now before the Senate.

The representatives from a dozen national and provincial associations, claiming to speak on behalf of three million Canadians, specifically opposed registration of sporting guns, which they said would not stop killings.

They also demanded to be consulted when gun control legislation is being formulated.

At a news conference called by Firearms and Responsible Ownership Inc., FARO, a national gun association, the representatives, who outnumbered the news media 22 to four, assured reporters they were present on their own financing and received no help from the gun industry.

Centre of their attack was a bill that Senator Donald Cameron of Alberta is trying to get through the Senate for a third time. It has received second reading, approval in principle, and is awaiting discussion in committee.

Among other things the bill would require registration of all firearms — including sporting rifles and shotguns now exempt from such treatment under the Criminal Code, a permit to carry all guns and training in the use of guns.

It also would make the ownership of handguns more difficult than it is now.

Arguments against one bill included:

—Registration of sporting and hunting rifles and shotguns would impose an unfair and restrictive burden on three million Canadians who own between five and seven million guns at present.

U.S. Destroyers Add to Growing Iran Arsenal

WASHINGTON (WP) — The steadily growing military arsenal of the Shah of Iran will include six new American destroyers containing more modern anti-aircraft air defence equipment than similar vessels being supplied to the U.S. Navy.

U.S. Navy spokesmen explained that the Iranians will use their new vessels in a different manner from the U.S. Navy, and thus require greater air-defence capabilities.

The ships involved are U.S. DD-363 destroyers, 30 of which are being built for the U.S. fleet by Litton Industries. These vessels have been the center of considerable controversy on Capitol Hill in recent years, principally because the cost has skyrocketed from an estimated $35 million to the current price tag of $110 million each.

In the new military budget for fiscal 1976 that was sent to Congress last year, the navy included a request for $771 million just to cover the costs of higher-than-anticipated inflation and other overruns in prior years on these vessels.

The agreement to sell Iran initially two and then four more of these ships was concluded on Aug. 27, but the transaction had gone virtually unnoticed, though large sales to Iran of U.S. jet fighters, helicopters and other arms have been reported.

Rep. Les Aspin, (Dem-Wis.), raised the issue of the ship sale Sunday, claiming that the navy, in its quarterly report to Congress, had deleted the number of ships in the deal and also had confirmed that the Iranian vessels will have "additional anti-aircraft warfare capability" beyond that of the U.S. vessels.

Navy spokesmen say the U.S. vessels, designed mostly to protect fast-moving task forces, are primarily anti-submarine warfare vessels.

AEROSPACE STRIKE CUTS JET OUTPUT

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Nearly 12,000 aerospace workers today struck the McDonnell Douglas Corp., seriously curtailing jet fighter plane production at the St. Louis plant.

Picket lines were set up at the aircraft manufacturing complex shortly after the midnight strike deadline passed.

The union said it had a commitment from 11,000 United Auto Workers and 7,000 members of the International Association of Machinists at the company's six California plants to join picketing at midnight Pacific time but Los Angeles, UAW officials said no walkout was planned.

The Beach at Tijuca— Memory for a Cold Day

I really meant to put down a few words today on an entirely different subject, but when the weather is bad, as it is this moment, I get an irrational homesickness for Rio de Janeiro that squeezes out every other thought.

All it takes, really, is a bleak winter's view, and God knows the view at this writing is as bleak as it can be. Then I start pining for that preposterous town down yonder. If I call it an occupational hazard that'll give you an idea of just how crazy this job can be.

I say "irrational homesickness" because, in many ways, the year-and-a-half that we spent in Rio was as mean as any I remember, professionally, in my time as a newspaperman. The military thugs who ruled Brazil, and still do, had me high on their hate list. They regularly threatened my expulsion. Our phone was tapped. Swarthy little men kept following me. There always seemed to be somebody looking over my shoulder.

Curiously, that unhappy memory now takes second place to the happier memory of the bone-penetrating heat that I learned to love. Even in the summer months from October to March when the humidity was so great that you slept naked, uncovered, I reacted like some contented lizard in a more-or-less constant sun. Forty-odd years of life in a northern clime were being baked out of me, as I like to think of it now. I never got enough of it. The guide books talk of Rio's weather as "hot, humid and healthful." That's just the way it is.

We lived then in an apartment on Republico dos Peru no more than 50 paces from the great sweep of Copacabana Beach. It is probably the most over-rated famous beach in all the world. The sand is dirty and thick with fleas. The water is cold, polluted and dangerously tidal. Yet almost all my free hours were spent on that mighty giant curve of the South Atlantic, often with a bird-shaped kite which were sold by wandering hawkers and invariably blew away in the direction of the Christ-figure atop Corcovado in the stiff breeze.

On week days Copacabana Beach was almost deserted. You could walk the two or three miles along the surf toward Sugar Loaf Mountain and encounter no more than a dozen health nuts, doing their lonely exercises.

But on holidays and on weekends as many as a million sun-worshippers would be crowded from the mosaic swirl of the sidewalks of the Avenida Beira Mar to the water's edge. Many of these people, as I came to know, were young men and women from the shack-town favelas on the hills behind Copacabana's towers. The brief, white shorts on the men and the string-bikinis on the girls were the great levellers in a society divided by outrageous economic classes.

The young men, wonderfully muscled and brown, would strut along the shore, always expertly dribbling a football. The young ladies, beautifully postured, peacock-proud, would saunter self-consciously in their exquisite nakedness, Cinderellas from the most squalid slums imaginable. You could lie there in your little wedge of dusty sand, semi-comatose, as toasted as a wiener ready for the bun, and watch the endless show of humanity.

If it became simply too hot you could make your way down to the sometimes vicious surf, fight your way through the melon rinds and potatoe peelings and worse, avoiding the body-surfers, and cool off in the foam.

For most of that time we had a cook-housekeeper named Maria, a woman of great wit and charm and a magnificent, sustained alcoholic. Maria was a specialist in the preparation of Feijao, the all-encompassing word for black beans, brown beans, red beans, white beans, navy beans or any kind of beans there are. Her specialty was a dish called Farofa, made with manioc flour which may explain why, when I left, I was 40 pounds overweight.

Maria had a fatherless son named Ricardo, aged 10, a fiend from hell who often accompanied me to the beach and, in fact, introduced me to Ipanema, famous for its beautiful girls. Like most Brazilian males from the age of about four years, he wanted every woman in the world and was already a connoisseur of pulchritude.

It was Ricardo who told me about the beautiful beaches beyond the Tijuca and Gavea hills and one Sunday my brood and I went out there on a rickety bus. It was full of boys with long, bamboo fishing rods stuck out the windows. Somebody started beating out a samba rhythm on the side of the bus with the palms of his hand and soon everyone, including the driver, had joined in. I have seldom been so happy.

The beach at Tijuca turned out to be everything that Copacabana was not. We had it almost to ourselves. The sand was pure white and perfectly clean. Dunes fell away into deep, green, clear water so that you could dive directly from the shore. Dolphins cavorted along the tide-line.

We spread a cloth on the sand and ate barbecued chicken and crusty rolls with a red, Chilean wine and lay, like great, prehistoric creatures, in the blazing sun. Oh, my, I wish I were back there on this cold, rotten day.

DROP-IN TECHNIQUE is used to lower concrete slab form into place on B.C. Tel's new microwave tower which will stand 75 feet high on Smith's Hill near the old city reservoir at the top of The Rise. The tower will be used to send microwave "shots" to Nanaimo and replaces Blanshard Street facilities. Tower is expected to cost about $900,000 when completed this summer. There will be no lights on tower except for clearance beacons.

8 Escapers Nabbed

Police said the eight were apprehended at Vancouver Island centres after the largest break from the home in 30 years.

They said one pair stole a truck and committed a burglary in Victoria before being caught in Duncan. Two others also were caught in Duncan when police answered a burglary call there. Two more were nabbed in Nanaimo and the first two were caught in Victoria less than two hours after the escape Saturday night.

The youths were all returned to the home.

Robbery Victim Heeded Advice

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

About a week ago 17-year-old Roger Erhardt Schlag, a part-time clerk at Mac's Convenience Store, 265 Menzies spotted an article on what to do in the event of a robbery.

"I picked it up and asked myself, should I read it?" he said in an interview this morning before heading to classes at Central junior high school where he is in grade 10.

The article gave suggestions and advice, issued the caveat "Don't Resist," and urged victims to concentrate on getting a good description of the robber, rather than play the hero.

"Surely it will never happen to me, I thought." But he read it nonetheless . . . and today he's thankful he did.

At 8:24 p.m. Sunday a man entered the James Bay market and flashing a knife scooped $295 from the till.

Roger at first thought it was a joke when the man, dressed oddly wearing a brown peaked cap, two sets of clothes and with a bandage on his nose, came up to the counter and said, "I'm going to rob you".

But then he looked down and saw the man was holding an eight-inch long kitchen knife.

"He looked dangerous . . . I mean really dangerous," Roger said.

The man, described as about five feet, seven inches tall, thin, with dark collar length hair and in his late 20's started around the counter and demanded, "Put the money in a bag."

"No," Roger said he replied. "I'll open the till and you help yourself."

He said he sat back on a stool with his hands on the counter when the man suddenly lashed out "Take your hands off the counter or I'll kill you."

"What made me mad was when he left I tried to phone police and couldn't get through," Roger said. "The phone rang eight times, so I hung up and called the operator.

"The police were here three or four minutes later."

Man Fair After Fire In Duplex

He was found by Victoria firemen on an upstairs bedroom floor.

A Victoria fire department spokesman said the fire started at about 1 a.m. in the downstairs kitchen. It quickly spread to the upper floor and attic, the spokesman said.

Damage is estimated at $20,000.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

In another fire early this morning the six members of the D. K. Reed family were forced outside when smoke started to fill their home at 596 Peto Place.

Saanich firemen received the call at 3 a.m. and had the fire quickly under control, confining the blaze to a rumpus room in the basement.

Damage was estimated at $2,000.

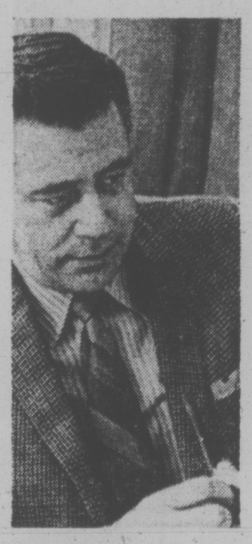
Recycling Depot Lockout 'Stupid'



COUVELIER

The lockout of the recycling depot on Borden threatens to be a hot issue at Wednesday's meeting of the Capital Region Board.

Saanich Ald. Mel Couvelier said today he intends to try and get chairman Jim Campbell to reconsider the decision to close the depot.

"I've talked to a lot of elected officials," Couvelier said, "and there's not one that doesn't think the move was absolutely stupid.

"It doesn't contribute to the over-all bargaining positions of the municipalities and it's a major inconvenience to our ratepayers."

Couvelier said the regional district was guilty of making a "blanket decision" without any thought being given to individual situations.

He said he would bring all the pressure to bear he could to get the depot reopened.

"But even if we get the regional district to reconsider their position, the situation still isn't that simple," Couvelier said, "We will still have to get the union to cooperate."

Couvelier said it was unfortunate the depot was on municipal property.

"The pickets are right on the street on Borden. We would have to persuade them to move the pickets closer to the gates of the municipal yard so people won't have to cross the picket line," he said.

He added, "This (the lockout) doesn't make any sense at all. there has to be some general debate on Wednesday."

Cold Stays, Snow Leaves

Clear, chilly weather is expected in Victoria tonight, and the airport weatherman recommends mittens.

"We can expect temperatures of 30 to 32 degrees," he said. "It'll be kind of cool tonight."

The system that dumped snow on the Saanich Peninsula and up-Island Sunday has moved inland to powder interior towns.

Minor clearing is the trend for Victoria, now engulfed in moist, unstable air. That could mean snow flurries Tuesday, said the weatherman.

Chess Champ From Central

Second was Jeff Reeve of Lansdowne junior secondary, whose only loss was to Wong. Third was Tony Adlkirchner of Colquitz.

Grade 9 winners were Dale Copeland of Oak Bay in first place, Brian Burger of Mt. Newton in second, and James Young of Central in third.

Jack Wong of Central took first place in the Grade 8 competition, followed by Andrew Barker of Central and Andrew Weaver of Oak Bay.

In the elementary competition, Clive Saunders, Grade 7 student at Royal Oak, came first. Second was Nancy Goodchild, Grade 5 student at Cloverdale, and third was Glenn MacKay, Grade 7 student at Sundance.

More than 90 children competed in the championships.

Nanaimo Date For Symphony

The Victoria Symphony will give a concert in St. Peter's Church in Nanaimo Thursday evening.

Boyde Hood, principal trumpet with the symphony, will be soloist, playing Haydn's Trumpet Concerto and Concerto for Trumpet by Riisager.

EDUCATION STUDY COMPLETION JULY

The report of a special University of Victoria consultant team currently studying research and development in the department of education should be completed by July 1.

University of Victoria Dean of Education George Pedersen, who heads the team, said today there are three stages to the study.

The team is currently conducting a survey of the practical aspects of research and development in various government agencies, along with similar setups in the private sector.

Pedersen said consultants are testing the feasibility of a wide variety of models currently being used in the province and elsewhere.

On completion of the report, Pedersen said the team is willing to assist the education department in implementing the preliminary stages which will be outlined in the group's report.

Pedersen said the job outline of the team goes beyond study of the department of education's research and development division and could include models for other government departments.

The team was appointed by Deputy Minister Jack Fleming after the firing of former research and development director Dr. Stanley Knight.

Ask The Times

Q: Can you tell me how the mailing code works, e.g., does every house have a different code, and every tenant in an apartment block? R.S.B.

A: In most residential areas of Victoria each side of each city block has its own code number, though one number may stretch as far as three blocks in some places. Any house or business receiving an average of 50 letters per day or more has its own number. An office building or apartment block with more than 50 offices or apartments also has its own code. In smaller communities such as Brentwood Bay, all residents go by the same code number.

B.C. Pays Funeral Expenses

Funeral expenses of $500 were given the husband of an Esquimalt woman recently stabbed to death, one of 11 criminal injury awards made in January by B.C.'s Workers' Compensation Board.

An award of $327 was made to a 57-year-old Sidney man as part of the same program, after the man was attacked by a masked knifeman and received lacerations.

The program is one covered by the Criminal Injuries Compensation Act, under which anyone who is a victim of crime in B.C. may apply for compensation.

Last month's awards totalled $14,170.

Firm Asked To Pare Bid

Farmer Construction Ltd. is being asked to pare its tender bid for University of Victoria's new addition to the student union building.

The construction firm's bid of $954,968 was the lowest of three received by the university but went over the budget allotment of only $500,000 for the addition.

A UVic spokesman said today contract decisions for the addition are "still up in the air." Construction on the addition was to have begun this spring for completion a year from now and is to include a games room, office facilities and other student-oriented accommodation.

Other bids were from Dura Construction Ltd., $962,790, and H. E. Fowler and Sons, $1,480,400.

Association Elects Lum

Lum succeeds Mayor William Moncrief of Cumberland.

Authors Protest Ruling

Immediate amendments to the copyright act are essential to prevent the sale of cheap copies of Pierre Berton's book The Last Spike without paying Berton royalties, a local authors' group says.

The Victoria and Islands branch of the Canadian Authors Association has wired Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner protesting recent court ruling allowing the sale.

Berton's publisher, McClelland and Stewart, had asked the Supreme Court of Ontario for an injunction preventing the flooding of the Canadian market by Cole's Book Stores with cheap copies of Berton's book.

The court refused the injunction.

"This ruling deprives Berton of his royalties and undermines the market for his regular editions in this country, and in effect threatens the rights of every Canadian writer," said CAA branch president Margot Osborn.

"It may deprive famous authors of $50,000 to $75,000, and strikes at the very roots of Canadian publishing."

Wharf Work Contract Let

Greenlees Piledriving Company of Vancouver has been awarded a $170,371 contract to increase wharfage facilities at Fishermen's Wharf at the foot of Erie.

A company spokesman said work will begin March 17 and should be completed by mid-July.

An approach, 216 feet by 17 feet, and a new timber wharf with a concrete deck will be built.

The new wharf will measure 93 feet by 40 feet, requiring 11,450 linear feet of timber piling, 29,000 feet of treated timber (board measure) and 225 cubic yards of reinforced concrete.

Plans for the improvements were prepared for Environment Canada by the federal public works department.

Greenlees' bid was the lower of two received. The other bid was $210,613.

Study Shows B.C.-Based Stocks Will Be Slower to Bounce Back

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

Stocks of British Columbia-based companies, with only a few exceptions, will lag behind the recovery under way in other North American markets, according to a study by Odlum Brown and T. B. Read Ltd.

The company says the depressed mining and woods products industries will get little sympathy or assistance from the provincial government in their efforts to improve market conditions.

"The general impression in the business community is that the provincial government has no interest in the survival of the (mining) industry in its present form, let alone in its further growth and development," the study says.

"As a result, those B.C. mining companies that are looking to future expansion are concentrating their efforts outside the province, while others have adopted a wait-and-see attitude and have brought their exploration programs to a halt."

Meanwhile, the B.C. forest industry faces increasing costs because of government regulations, such as a higher minimum price paid for chips. In addition, the industry faces a new round of labor negotiations this year, involving 50,000 workers.

Mining and forest companies based in B.C. did poorly on the stock exchanges in 1974. The study shows the prices of B.C. "metal stocks" fell 53.4 per cent (compared to a decline of only 38.6 per cent for Toronto metal stocks).

Shares of B.C. forest companies fell 34.7 per cent (compared to a fall of 25.2 per cent in the Toronto forest index).

The exceptions, according to the study, may be Cominco and Bethlehem Copper among natural resource stocks and Cornat Industries, Daon and BBC Realty among industrials.

Although industrial shares are not affected directly by the resource downturn, the business community is concerned about government interventions, such as the move by Premier Dave Barrett to delay merger talks between Block Brothers and First City Financial, even though the talks were later terminated by the companies themselves.

This type of government intervention tends to discourage investors, the study said.

While private enterprise has been in difficulties, government enterprises have prospered in B.C. so far, according to the assessment by Odlum Brown and T.B. Read Ltd.

"Among the newly-created provincial agencies, the B.C. Petroleum Corporation is expected to show a profit well ahead of expectations in the current fiscal year. The problems of the Insurance Corporation of B.C. are no greater than might have been expected."

The B.C. Development Corporation since June has made 25 loans totalling $2.75 million to a variety of enterprises and has assembled land for industrial parks in the lower mainland and Prince Rupert.

In addition, the government has investment holdings in B.C. Tel, Westcoast Transmission and the Bank of B.C.

A and P Stores Closing

NEW YORK (Reuter) — J. L. Scott, chairman of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A and P) told a news conference Thursday that the chain plans to close many of its stores this year with a single write-off.

While Scott refused to specify how many of the A and P's 3,500 retail outlets will be closed, he said it will be more than in any recent year. A company spokesman said as many as 400 stores have been closed in a single year.

Scott said the closings will be soon and indicated they will affect a "lot of smaller outdated stores."

Scott said he was not in a position to make earnings projections, but added the year was "not gooing to be as satisfactory as we would like."

In the first nine months of its current fiscal year, ending Nov. 23, A and P earned 88 cents a share compared with one cent in the nine-month period the year before.

For all of fiscal 1974 its earnings were reported to be 49 cents a share.

Tokyo Firm's Profits Dip

TOKYO (CP) — Arabian Oil Co.'s sales in 1974 more than trebled compared with the previous year but its net profits decreased by 13.5 per cent from 1973.

The Tokyo-based Japanese overseas oil producer, in its financial reports, said the 1974 sales totalled $1,387 million, or up 331 per cent from 1973.

After-tax profits in 1974 decreased 13.5 per cent from the previous year to total $15.8 million.

The decrease in profits was due to increases in the participation ratios of the Kuwait and Saudi Arabian governments in the management of the company, which operates in a neutral zone between the two Arab countries.

Vacancy Rate Up In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The office vacancy rate in Metropolitan Toronto rose to 7.2 per cent in 1974 from 6.3 the previous year, a survey by A. E. LePage Ontario Ltd. shows. Vacant office space totalled 3.24 million square feet up from 2.64 million in 1973 because of the completion 3.5 million square feet during the year. Rental rates in the downtown area ranged from $16 a square foot to $7.50.

Lake Ontario Cement

Lake Ontario Cement has awarded two Ontario firms contracts in connection with its $16.5 million kiln expansion program at the Picton, Ont., cement plant. Plibrico Canada Ltd. of Toronto has been awarded a $521,257 contract and Dahmer Steel Ltd. of Kitchener has received a $530,000 contract.

Finning Tractor

Finning Tractor and Equipment Co. Ltd. reports record consolidated net earnings of $7,286,023 for 1974 up 33 per cent from earnings of $5,474,914 in 1973.

The company said per share earnings were $1.85 in 1974 compared with $1.40 in the previous year.

Revenue was also at a new high of $162.1 million, up 9.4 per cent from $148.2 million in 1973.

Finning sells and services heavy equipment in B.C. and in the Mackenzie Valley in the Northwest Territories.

Hy's of Canada

Hy's of Canada Ltd. reports net earnings of $690,000 or 79 cents a share for the year ended Sept. 30, 1974. This compares with earnings of $559,000 or 64 cents a share for the previous year.

Hy Aisenstat, president of the company, said that sales and other income were $12,551,000 during 1974 compared with $9,136,000 during the previous year. He said expenses were also higher and amounted to $11,396,000 last year compared with $8,096,000 during 1973.

Aisenstat said the company encountered difficulties in the beef market. He said beef futures have been purchased to hedge against price increases and other safeguards have been undertaken to provide relief for the company if there is an eventual shortage of quality beef next year.

The company employs about 800 people and operates 18 restaurants.

Roughriders Show Deficit

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughrider president Allan Sangster has reported that the Western Football Conference club had a frustrating season last year, culminating in its first deficit since 1960.

High salary increases for players, an unusual number of injuries and lost ticket sales because of a players' strike combined to produce a deficit of $86,911.

Stampeders Are Losers

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders lost $58,775 last year, compared to a profit of $69,134 in 1973, mainly because the Western Football Conference club "spent whatever money necessary" to prepare for the 1975 Grey Cup.

Outgoing president Tony Anselmo said despite a dismal beginning, Stampeders "came alive in the last half of the 1974 season, compiling a five-win, three-loss record, the best in the Canadian Football League."

First Tour Win For Mexican

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (AP) — Paul Ramirez, Mexico's No. 1 player, scored his first triumph on the World Championship Tennis tour Suday by beating Roscoe Tanner in the final of a $50,000 tournament. The score was 6-0, 1-6, 6-2.

The sixth-seeded Ramirez, 21, blitzed Tanner in an 18-minute first set, but the American took the momentum in the second and won it in only 22 minutes. Ramirez turned it around again in the third set when he returned Tanner's deadly serves and made accurate placements on strong volleys.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chris Evert, ranked No. 1 in the world of women's tennis, beat Margaret Court at the baseline and won $15,000 for her 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 triumph in the final of the women's tennis circuit tournament Sunday.

Mrs. Court, the 32-year-old Australian who has been back in action only six weeks since a year's absence to give birth to her second child, wasn't sharp enough to force Miss Evert to the net or to play her own rushing game, a tactic that eliminated Miss Evert from a tournament last week in Washington, D.C.

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Billy Martin ousted fellow Californian George Hardie Jr. 6-2, 7-6 Sunday to win the $25,000 Arkansas international tennis tournament.

SANDRA PUTTS TO VICTORY

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Sandra Haynie won a $40,000 Ladies' Professional Golf Association tournament Sunday when she sank a 14-foot putt for par on the final hole.

Miss Haynie, who collected $5,700 for the victory, birdied four holes on the back nine and finished with a four-under-par 68 for a 54-hole total of 211, five under par.

Northwest Skier Victim of Officials

OSOYOOS (CP) — Peter Dodge, 19, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., was declared the men's winner Sunday in the Can-Am ski series.

Race officials made the decision following the last giant slalom event at Mount Baldy. Both Dodge and Scott Schimelfenig, 22, of Leavenworth, Wash., had 139 points over-all before Schimelfenig's performance in the last event was disqualified. Schimelfenig had initially been declared the winner.

Officials said the Washington skiier was disqualified because he missed the last gate on the final run. The gatekeeper did not notice the mistake at the time.

"As far as I know, I hit it (the pole) square with my ski," said Schimelfenig. "I was concentrating on going on to finish."

Russell Goodman, 21, of Montreal was third over-all with 131 points. Goodman returned from the World Cup circuit in time for the Mount Baldy.

In the giant slalom Sunday, Pete Patterson, 18, of Sun Valley, Idaho, finished first with a time of 3:07.15. Jerry McNealus, 18, of Pwlett, Vt., was second with 3:08 and Goodman was third with 3:08.13.

Sixteen-year-old Leslie Smith of Killington, Vt. won the women's giant slalom event Sunday with 1:39.6, only four one-hundredths of a second ahead of second-place Lyndall Heyer, 19, of Stowe, Vt., to clinch the Can-Am women's over-all title.

Jamie Kurlander, 17, of McAffee, N.J., came third at 1:40.61 in the 52-gate race where four Canadian women placed in the top 10.

Kurlander and another American, Maggie Crane, 17, of Plymouth, Mass., were late in starting and were disqualified. However, their coach protested that the girls had raced and after the event a decision by race officials annulled the disqualification and allowed the girls' time to stand. Crane came fifth with 1:41.36.

Laurie Kreiner came seventh in the Baldy event with 1:42.35. She also took the women's Can-Am downhill title, one of three Canadian women who placed in the top 10 in this category.

The other Canadian women who placed Sunday were Joan Wilson, 16 or Port Hawkesbury, N.S., fourth with a time of 1:40.81; Susan Aslett, 17, of Toronto, ninth in 1:42.94 and Jane Tidball of Vancouver, 10th in 1:43.29.

Play in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Jim Nettles and Bernie Williams, former major league baseball outfielders, have arrived in Japan to play for Japanese professional teams during the 1975 season, opening in April. Nettles formerly played with Minnesota Twins and Williams with San Francisco Giants.

UBC Tops Volleyball At UVic

University of British Columbia won top honors Saturday in the University of Victoria's invitational men's volleyball tournament.

UBC won all three games in its section of the round-robin preliminaries, then defeated Vancouver Volleyball Club and Victoria's Vikings in the championship round-robin. Vancouver finished second with a 1-1 record while Vikings wound up third.

The freshmen-laden Vikings, coached by Allan Scott, reached the final round by winning all three preliminary games. Vikings defeated Oregon State, Washington's Huskies and Syndal's Suns of Vancouver.

Hotelmen Win Title

DUNCAN — Mike Taafe scored 25 points, John Lauvaas 22 and Tom Hatcher 20 to lead Hotel Douglas to a 108-49 triumph over James Bay Athletic Association in the championship final of the Duncan invitational men's basketball tournament Saturday.

The win completed a three-game sweep by the Hotelmen in the four-team, double-knockout tournament. Earlier, the champions downed Chemainus 72-64 and James Bay 67-59. Duncan was the fourth team in the tourney.

Stockers Draw First Blood In Semi-Final

Stockers North Americans edged James Bay Athletic Association Canadians 8-6 Sunday at Lake Cowichan Arena to win the first game of their best-of-three South Island Big Six Hockey League semi-final.

Errol Golden and Les Bergman sparked Stockers with two goals each with singles coming from Baden Robinson, Bob Merluk, Gerry Blanchette and Brent Patterson.

Stockers led 6-3 after the first period and 7-3 after the second.

England Gains Huge Margin In Test Play

MELBOURNE (CP) — England took a stranglehold on the sixth cricket test against Australia today, smashing 529 runs to hold a first inning lead of 377 over Australia.

At the close, Australia was 32 for no wicket in the second inning — 345 runs behind.

The last six wickets fell for only 22 runs, enabling Australia's opening bowler, Max Walker, to gain his best ever figures of eight for 143 off a marathon 42 overs.

THE BOARDROOMS OF CANADA DON'T HAVE MANY WOMEN.

WHY NOT?

Policy decisions made in Canada's boardrooms have a tremendous influence on our lifestyles. They affect the price of our food, the style of our clothes, the design of our homes, the quality of the goods we buy. Yet most of the women you see in Canada's boardrooms are serving coffee to the men who make those decisions.

The strange thing is that, so far as we know, no company has a charter forbidding women to sit on the board of directors. And there is no legal barrier blocking the way.

So why aren't more of us reaching the boardroom? Why aren't there more of us at the mid and upper management levels? Are we so conditioned into believing that only men have careers that we automatically hesitate when we reach the fifth rung on a ten-rung ladder? Or is the ladder pulled out from under our feet if we take one step too many?

Perhaps the answer lies with us. Perhaps we should all look upon every job we tackle as being a career. Being a housewife is a career and a demanding one. Being a mother is a career and a rewarding one. But, if we want to be bankers or brokers, carpenters or caretakers, printers or politicians, why not? Why don't we refuse to accept prejudicial barricades? Why don't we follow the examples of those who have proven it can be done?

Maybe we've all been conditioned into not caring enough. Maybe. But, if a law, a precedent or a prejudice stops any one of us from pursuing any career we choose, then we should try to change it. We should make our voices heard. We should talk to each other and to those whose influence we need. Politicians, husbands, friends, teachers, newspaper editors.

And we should talk to the men on the boards of directors. As equals.

Split With Cats Keeps Bruins Fidgety Fourth

New Westminster Bruins' coach Ernie (Punch) McLean feels a shade better this morning than he did early Sunday, but he's still casting a nervous glance over his shoulder.

Blame Edmonton Oil Kings.

The Bruins snapped a four-game Western Canada Hockey League losing streak by defeating Victoria Cougars 5-4 Sunday in New Westminster, but the Oil Kings continued to apply nervous pressure on McLean's team.

The Oil Kings swept a pair of weekend games to close within six points of the Bruins, the fidgety occupants of the fourth and final playoff berth in the Western Division.

The Kings helped themselves by defeating Winnipeg Clubs 8-4 Saturday night and Regina Pats 4-1 on Sunday.

Centre Rick Shinske sparked Bruins to only their second victory over Victoria this season by scoring three goals Sunday. Kelly Secord and Mike Sleep counted the others.

Cougar winger Dan Lucas scored twice Sunday along with a pair Saturday to boost his goal-scoring total to 45. Peter Morris and Eric Sanderson also scored Sunday while Morris and Jim Gustafson, with two, rounded out Saturday's total.

Cougars, trailing 3-1 after two periods, opened with three straight goals in the third period to grab a 4-3 lead. Shinske and Sleep scored to give the Bruins the lead again.

Rogers made 46 stops to record his first WCHL shutout.

The weekend games completed Victoria-New Westminster rivalry for the regular season. Cougars won five, tied one and lost two of their eight meetings against the Bruins.

Cougars, who face Kamloops Chiefs in the Arena on Tuesday, maintained a nine-point hold on the Western Division when second-place Medicine Hat Tigers split a pair of weekend games.

The Tigers were upset 6-4 by Brandon Wheat Kings on Saturday but rebounded Sunday to edge Lethbridge Broncos 3-1.

Brandon tied Calgary Centennials 3-3 and Saskatoon Blades trounced Flin Flon Bombers 9-1 in other Sunday games.

Miller Best? 'I Might Be'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Now, perhaps more than anyone ever has before, Johnny Miller has thrown down the challenge to Jack Nicklaus.

"Right now I might be No. 1," said Miller, after scoring his third golf victory in four starts this season.

This one came by a comfortable three strokes in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic, and put Miller ahead of last season's pace when he scored eight victories, acquired Player-of-the-Year honors and collected a record $353,021 in prize winnings.

Nicklaus, who has dominated pro golf for the past decade, did not compete in this five-day 90-hole grind.

"Jack has been No. 1 so long, people are wanting someone to challenge him," Miller said after posting a last-round, four-under-par 68, for a 339 total, 21 under par.

"I think just because they want to see somebody else up there, they're beginning to say I'm No. 1," Miller said. "Right now I might be.

"But Jack has the ability to be better," said Miller.

"He has the potential. He's stronger than I am and more experienced. But he's not playing up to his potential, and I am.

"Maybe I'm better right now, but he could be."

"I'm not going to talk about winning four majors in a year," Miller said of the unaccomplished grand slam. "But I want to win one of the majors. After I win the first one, then I'll talk about the next one."

He now has won 11 American tournaments in the last 14 months.

The $32,000 he collected from this tournament pushed his winnings for the year to $108,343. That compares with $100,943 at this stage a year ago — when he set a record — and he's planning on playing a little more this year.

"I played good enough to win most tournaments," said Jerry Heard, second to Miller in Phoenix and third in this one.

STRONG REBOUNDING by Scorpions played prominent role in Victoria team's 121-109 victory over Burnaby-New Westminster Broncos Sunday. Partially-hidden Tom Holmes grabbed this one while Bronco players Dereke Sankey (4) and Bob Cooper (14) reach in vain. Also on job is Victoria's Chris Hall (13). Victory moved Scorpions into Dogwood Senior "A" Men's Bosketball League final against Vancouver Capilanos.

Basketball: It's Bob's Best Game

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

A passing opinion on Bob Burrows' talents was ventured Sunday by a father.

"Of all his games," said Robert H. Burrows, "I think Bob's best is this one."

"This one" is basketball.

The way Bob Burrows played it at the weekend, Burnaby-New Westminster Broncos left town wishing he had stuck with his other sports. They include baseball, which he played professionally, and softball, a game which he took up last spring and, by August, played well enough to be acclaimed as the all-Canadian catcher.

The six-foot-four Burrows scored 46 points Saturday in a 111-99 victory and added 37 Sunday in a 121-109 decision that gave Victoria the best-of-three series, 2-1. The Broncos upset the league winners 103-102 in the series opener at Vancouver the previous weekend.

The Howie Tooby-coached Scorpions now face Vancouver Capilanos in the best-of-five league and British Columbia final, starting at Central Junior High next Saturday.

Capilanos, defending national champs, won their way into the final by defeating Richmond Ramblers in two straight.

Tooby relished Burrows' performances but couldn't forget success stemmed from "two pretty good team efforts." Brian MacKenzie, with 35 points in two games, Dave Morgan, with 40, and Tom Holmes, with 20, also contributed mightily.

Although laden with talent, Scorpions lack a big man. Holmes and Gord Hoshal, both six-foot-six, are the tallest.

Burrows helps make up for the absence of a skyscraper. Bob jumps a mile, as evidenced by the game-topping 16 rebounds he collected Sunday.

"I've never seen anyone like him," was the compliment thrown at Burrows by Morgan. "If a team contains him on the inside, he can gun 'em from the outside.

"A team has about a five per cent chance of stopping him from scoring."

The Broncos used up their percentage twice Sunday. They were down by 13 points at one stage in the first half, 66-59 at the half, and down by 16 in the third quarter.

Burnaby bounced back because it was able to stop Scorpions from getting the ball to Burrows. Broncos actually went ahead, 105-104, with about four minutes remaining but nine successive Victoria points put Scorpions in command again.

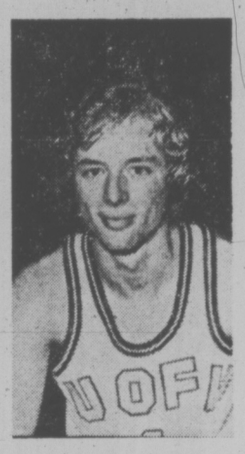
Vikings Revived by Jayvee Grads

A couple of graduates of the University of Victoria Jayvees have put the Vikings back in the thick of the Canada West University Athletic Association men's basketball race.

Vikings scored a thrilling 64-63 overtime victory against UBC Thunderbirds Saturday at War Memorial Gym in Vancouver, the first time ever UVic has won there. It was Jayvee grad Bert Zethof who was the hero, sinking two foul shots with 36 seconds remaining in the extra period to wipe out a UBC lead and give Vikings a split of their weekend series.

That wasn't all Zethof accomplished, though, but he needed help from another Jayvee, coach Jack Newnham who was filling in behind the bench for Gary Taylor, away on a weekend teaching administrators' meeting. Taylor is vice-principal at Lansdowne Junior High.

Vikings had to figure out some way of stopping Thunderbirds' Blake Iverson, who pumped in 16 points in the first half and was threatening to lead UBC to a weekend sweep that would have squelched UVic's title hopes.



BERT ZETHOF
. . . superb checking

Newnham came up with the solution. He put Zethof on Iverson in the second half and Bert's superb checking held the UBC star to only three points over the last 20 points.

Similarly, Vikings' Evan Jones and Pard Hogeweide combined their checking talents to hold UBC star Steve Pettifer to 17 points.

It was a team effort that won it for the Vikings. Down 57-50 with 60 seconds left in regulation time, UVic staged a furious full-court press that enabled them to tie the game 58-58 and force the overtime.

Dave Mulcahy, who led Vikings with 18 points and 11 rebounds, rookie Dale MacDonald and Zethof took care of the overtime scoring. Lee Edmondson and Robbie Parris each contributed 15 points for the winners and Parris again was a standout on defence.

In a Canada West women's game Saturday at Vancouver, UBC Thunderettes all but elinched the league championship by beating UVic Vikettes 40-38.

The loss mathematically eliminated Vikettes, who now trail UBC by four points with two games remaining—at home to Saskatchewan Huskiettes Feb. 28 and March 1.

Even if Vikettes win both and Thunderettes lose all four of their remaining games, UBC would be awarded first place because they beat Vikettes three out of four games this season. There is no playoff in the women's league.

There is in the men's league, though, and it will take a minor miracle to knock out the Vikings, provided they beat Saskatchewan Huskies twice at the McKinnon Building this Friday and Saturday. Top two teams play a best-of-three final.

Two more wins would leave Vikings with 28 points and there would be no way UBC could catch them. Even if Thunderbirds won all four of their remaining games—two against Calgary Dinosaurs and two against Saskatchewan—they would tie UVic in total points but Vikings would get the nod because of a 3-1 season edge over the Thunderbirds.

Alberta Golden Bears could finish first but would have to beat Lethbridge Pronghorns twice this weekend and Calgary twice the following weekend. That would eliminate Calgary.

Calgary still has a slim chance of finishing first but would have to beat UBC twice this weekend and Alberta twice the following weekend, a nearly impossible task.

Saskatchewan damaged Alberta's chances Saturday with a 74-71 upset victory over the Bears in Saskatoon. The Dinos, meanwhile, completed a weekend sweep in Calgary by downing Lethbridge 73-62 to move into second place behind UVic.

In other women's games, Saskatchewan moved into second place ahead of the Vikettes by beating Alberta Pandas 58-43 while Calgary Dinnies defeated Lethbridge Pronghorns 52-41.

UPSET IN BADMINTON

Second-seeded Mike Epstein of Vancouver scored the major upset of the three-day Vancouver Island Open badminton championships Sunday at Cordova Bay Community Club by beating top-seeded Bruce Rollick, also of Vancouver, 15-6, 15-3 in the men's singles final.

In women's singles, Jane Youngberg defeated Sandra Stevenson 11-6, 11-3 for the title. The Youngberg-Stevenson duo won the women's doubles crown with a 15-9, 14-17, 15-4 win over Judi Rollick and Mimi Nillson.

Rolf Paterson and Bruce Rollick, teamed to take the men's doubles, 15-6, 18-3, over Geoff Harris of Courtenay and Greg Harris of Vancouver.

The mixed doubles championship went to the Paterson-Nillson duo with a marathon 12-15, 15-4, 17-16 victory over Bruce and Judi Rollick.

City Boxer Captures Crown

Coached by Mike Caird and representing London Boxing Club, O'Sullivan was runner-up in voting for the senior Silver Boy Award.

Cloverdale was voted best club of the two-day meet.

Bill Can Still Hit the Strike Zone

Control was one of Bill Prior's assets during his career as a professional baseball pitcher, but he may never have had his tosses in the strike zone more consistently than he did Sunday at Mayfair Lanes.

Competing in the singles event of the 35th annual Victoria tenpin bowling championships, Prior ran off strikes in strings for his best-ever triple and wound up the big winner of cash awards and the new holder of two tournament records.

Big Bill rattled the pins for a record three-game total of 691 to grab the scratch singles crown and his handicap of 22 pins per game gave him a series handicap tally of 757, also a new mark.

Earlier, Prior had fired his curve into the pocket often enough to chalk up a 534 count in the team event and 532 in doubles. Those two scores, along with his whopping 691 singles tally and nine-game handicap of 198, gave him the handicap all-events title with 1,955.

Ken Grexton, notching 632 as he helped Juicy Prunes to a second-place finish behind Ocean X the previous weekend in the team event, added another 613 pins in the doubles contest and 530 in singles to win the scratch all-events championship.

Prior got away to a blistering start in singles, running off seven straight strikes on the way to a first-game count of 245. He was slower out of the gate in the second game, but settled down quickly to rattle off another seven-timer and rack up 256 pins.

Bill had even more trouble at the start of his final game, but got it going again in the middle frames, hitting a three-timer and breezing home for a 190 and his record-setting 691 series.

A CLASSIC MEETING BUT WHERE TO PLAY?

University of Victoria Vikings and London Boxing Club pulled ahead as the top teams in the Premier Division of the Vancouver Island Soccer League on Sunday.

The leading Vikings and the second-place Boxers, with only a point separating them, are scheduled to meet in two weeks' time.

It would be an obvious attraction at Royal Athletic Park, but the current labor problem involving civic outside workers makes the availability of that field doubtful.

League officials said Sunday the site of the "showdown" will depend on the strike situation. It will be played, but the executive will hold back on the question of where until later.

Vikings retained their slim hold on first place by lacing Prospect Lake 6-1 Sunday while the Boxers found unexpected stiff opposition from Oak Bay Wanderers before finally prevailing, 4-3.

Beutle Rink Tackles Wood

Rinks skipped by Vic Wood of Vancouver and Frank Beutle of Penticton open a best-of-three series in Prince Rupert today to determine the provincial men's curling champions.

Beutle, third Ray Jones, second Don Wood and lead Bob Partidge captured the B.C. Curling Association title Saturday by defeating Don Seekinsof Mackenzie, 9-7.

Tom Reed of St. Albert, supported by Kevin Byrne, Tony Rankel and Lorne Reed, captured the Alberta men's championship Sunday with a deciding 10-7 victory over Roy Talbot of Red Deer. Reed won all five of his games in the round-robin playodowns in Edmonton.

In Rosetown, Sask., Larry McGrath of Kindersley and Saskatoon's Merv Mann captured the two Northern Saskatchewan spots in next week's provincial playdowns.

A Nanaimo foursome skipped by John Foster bounced back to beat previously-unbeaten Steve Williams of Duncan in two games Sunday to capture the Vancouver Island schoolboys' curling championship.

The victory sends Foster, third Dave Elgie, second Kelvin Malone and lead Ken Morzocco into the provincial finals, scheduled Feb. 20-23 at Prince George.

Williams, supported by Don McKinley, Vic Gamble and Murray Blom, came within one game of the B.C. finals when he defeated Victoria High's Kelly Oulton, 6-2, to capture the "A" side in the four-rink, double-knockout series.

But Foster, knocked into the "B" side after a 13-8 loss to Williams on Saturday, forced a deciding game by edging the Duncan quartet 7-6 after stealing two on the last end.

Foster defeated Williams 12-8 in the sudden-death finale.

Also with the schoolboy set, Jim Quinn of Flin Flon defeated Neil Okumura of Winnipeg 6-4 Sunday to capture the Manitoba championship and advance to the national finals at Edmonton March 9-14.

★ ★ ★

A rink skipped by Don Edl and including third Gord Hooey, second Don Jones and lead Marvin Heap will represent the Lower Island district in the Royal Canadian Legion's provincial finals at Merritt, Feb. 21-23.

The Island's other representatives in the provincial playdowns are Port Alberni's Clarence McLean, John Hartt, Glen Larson and Jack Klassen, who won the north Island honors, and a Duncan rink skipped by Howie Valleau, the Central Island champions.

In Winnipeg, Roy Gislason of Winnipeg defeated defending champ Bob Flock 7-4 to win the Manitoba police championship. Gislason's RCMP foursome includes one-time Victoria resident Wayne Buck at third, second Ken Allan and lead Garry Finley.

HALL OF FAME spot was awarded to Bill Russell (above), coach of Seattle SuperSonics who revolutionized basketball with his defensive wizardry when he played for Boston Celtics. He led Celtics to eight straight National Basketball Association titles and 11 in 13 years after joining team in 1956. Also voted to hall of fame were Joseph Brennan, Emil Liston and Robert Vandiver.

Rugby Ambush By Military

CFB Esquimalt won only its second game of the season in the second division by tripping Castaways 18-16 at Carnarvon Park.

At the same time, the cadets of Royal Roads knocked James Bay out of a share of second place with a 6-4 upset.

In exhibition games, Vancouver Rowing Club defeated Oak Bay Wanderers of the first division 19-11 and Cowichan's under-29 select edged Ebb Tide, Victoria's over-40 team, 22-21.

Another exhibition between University of British Columbia Thunderbirds and James Bay's first division team was cancelled because of injury and illness to players on both squads.

Now... more than ever the RCMP offers a rewarding career

If you've ever considered a career in law enforcement, now's the time to talk to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The opportunities have never been greater.

For instance, the RCMP is accepting applications from both men and women, married and single. And the salary scale has increased considerably. It starts at $10,794. per year ($207 weekly) with regular increases to $14,150 ($272 weekly) in the first four years.

If accepted as a member of the Force, you'll receive intensive training in all aspects of police work such as law, investigation, first aid and community relations. Then you'll be posted to a detachment where there's every chance to put your knowledge and talents to work; to earn promotion and, equally important, be proud of what you're doing for yourself and for Canada as a member of one of the finest police forces in the world.

So if you're a Canadian citizen 18 or over, in good physical condition and have completed Grade 11 or equivalent, think about a career with the RCMP. Call or write your nearest office or use the coupon. We'd like to tell you more.

Toros Feeling More at Home

By The Canadian Press

But Coach Bob Leduc wasn't entirely satisfied with his team's performance Sunday night, despite a 7-5 victory over Indianapolis Racers in a World Hockey Association game.

"If Gilles (Gratton) hadn't made some key saves early in the second period we'd have been down two or three goals and would have had a hard time coming back," said Leduc after Toros registered their fifth win in succession on home ice.

In other WHA games Sunday, Phoenixc Roadrunners defeated Edmonton Oilers 6-1, Winnipeg Jets nipped Chicago Cougars 3-2, Houston Aeros beat Cleveland Crusaders 4-1 and Vancouver Blazers trimmed New England Whalers 3-1.

In Saturday's action, baltimore Blades upset Houston 6-1, Chicago beat Winnipeg 6-3, Quebec Nordiques edged Phoenix 4-3, Vancouver defeated the Whalers 4-1, and San Diego Mariners topped Minnesota Fighting Saints 8-4.

"I'm happy that we got two points, considering we didn't play so well," said Leduc. "We gave up five goals against a team that on the average scores two. The first period was probably the worst we've played all season. It was just terrible."

Despite a 3-0 goal advantage in the second period, it wasn't until Paul Henderson scored his 27th marker of the season at 18:52 of the third period that the Toros were really in the clear.

Rick Cunningham and Jim Dorey each had two goals for Toronto, which remained eight points behind the Nordiques, leaders of the Canadian division. Tom Martin and Pat Hickey added single goals.

The weary Whalers, who were playing their third game on the road in less than 72 hours, were unable to match the speed of the Blazers, who beat the New England club for the second time in two days. The double victory during the weekend moved the Blazers into a tie with the Oilers for third place in the Canadian division.

Goaltender Don McLeod played a heavy role in Blazers' win Sunday by earning the two assists. He lost his shutout bid at 14:17 of the third period, however, when he yielded a goal to Ron Earl.

The Jets led 2-0 on goals by Anders Hedberg and Danny Gruen, then needed one by Danny Johnson midway through the second period to overcome the stubborn Cougars, who got goals from Frankie Rochon and Mark Lomenda.

Team captain Ted Taylor set a good example for Aeros by scoring two goals against the Crusaders. Gordie Howe managed one and his son, Mark, registered his 16th of the season. Richie Leduc scored for Cleveland in the third period.

"We started off like the organist—off key," said Cleveland coach and general manager Jack Vivian. "We were flat, that's all there is to it."

Even Foes Take Pity on Capitals

By The Canadian Press

Pity the Washington Capitals. Even the opposition players that have been beating them with some consistency do.

"It's awfully tough for them," said Derek Sanderson of New York Rangers Sunday night after scoring two goals to lead the Rangers to a 7-3 win over the Caps in one of seven National Hockey League games.

"They work hard, but until they develop a system, they'll continue to have troubles. The years will be lean for them until they get players to compliment their system."

The Capitals dropped their 28th road game of the year in New York, leaving them with a 4-45-3 record for 11 points. All 11 points gained have been at their home rink in Landover, Md.

But while the Capitals continue to have problems away from home, the same cannot be said for Montreal Canadiens.

The Canadiens, leaders in the Norris Division, set a league record in Buffalo as they fought the Sabres to a 4-4 tie to run their road unbeaten streak to 16 games.

In other games Sunday, Los Angeles Kings edged Chicago Black Hawks 2-1, Detroit Red Wings topped Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3, Minnesota North Stars edged Atlanta Flames 3-2, Boston Bruins clipped New York Islanders 5-1 and Kansas City Scouts defeated California Seals 2-1.

Saturday, Montreal blasted the Rangers 7-1, Toronto and St. Louis Blues battled to a 3-3 tie, Minnesota blanked Philadelphia Flyers 5-0, Boston outscored Detroit 8-5 and the Islanders clipped the Caps 5-1.

"We've been going good in the last six or seven games," noted Washington coach Jimmy Anderson of the worst club in recent NHL history. "We have a good attitude. We have been 100 per cent better in the second half of the season."

At Buffalo, Guy Lafleur scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season as Montreal gained its first point against the Sabres in five games this season.

The Canadiens trailed 3-1 at one stage in the second period but rallied to tie the score before the session ended.

Lafleur shot them into a 4-3 lead at 4:22 of the final period but Fred Stanfield, recently acquired from Minnesota, tied the game at 6:05 with Buffalo's third power-play goal of the day.

Mike Murphy's 19th goal of the season gave the Kings the win at Chicago, allowing Los Angeles to snap its three-game losing streak.

The win snapped a five-game Detroit losing streak and was the 200th lifetime win over the Maple Leafs in the 49-year season series. The Leafs have 199 wins and there have been 75 ties.

UVic Athletes Shine In Track and Field

The double winner was runner Joyce Sadowick Yakubowich, who captured the 50-metre dash in 6.3 seconds and the 400-metre run in 55.6 seconds at the Golden Bear invitational meet at the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

The second-place finish went to a high jumper Debbie Brill, a transfer student last year from University of British Columbia. She finished behind winner Joan Huntley of the Pacific Coast Track Club in the Los Angeles Times indoor meet in California. Miss Brill cleared six feet, which was 2½ inches short of the winning leap.

Other UVic athletes fared well in Edmonton.

Bev Cox was second over 400 metres in 58.5 seconds and second over 800 metres in 2:16.3. Tim Page logged a third in the 50-metre hurdles in 7.1 seconds. Tom Gallagher was fourth in the same event in 7.3 seconds followed by Randy Plum, fifth in 7.6. Rienold Zimmer was fourth at 21 feet, six inches in the long jump in which Alberta's Barry Boyd set a Canadian open mark of 25 feet, one-half inch.

Kerry Short of UVic was fourth in the high jump at six feet, two inches. Team-mate Robert Dolan was fifth over 200 metres in 23.7 seconds and John Gage of UVic was fifth in the 400 metres in 51.8 seconds.

Trio Leads Bays to Win In Kelowna Hoop Tourney

Larry Dalziel, Steve Pescod and Charles Fisher teamed up to lead Oak Bay Bays to the championship in the Western Canadian senior high school boys' invitational day in Kelowna.

Dalziel and Pescod each scored 16 points while Fisher added 15 as the Bays, last year's B.C. high school champions, downed Kelowna Owls 62-61 in the final.

Oak Bay, meanwhile, won the Belmont-Fisher invitational junior boys' high school tournament Saturday with a 41-34 victory over Cedar Hill in the final. Ken Kirzinger with 13 points and Blair Boland with 12 paced Oak Bay.

Cedar Hill finished second while Belmont-Fisher took third with a 60-58 win over Dunsmuir. Tom Lequesne scoring the winning basket in the last three seconds. Lequesne had 14 points and Ian Evans 16 for the host school.

John Barsby of Nanaimo finished fourth in the eight-team tourney followed by Dunsmuir, Nanaimo Woodlands, Langley Brookswood and Edward Milne of Sooke.

Rick Jeffreys of Dunsmuir was voted the tournament's most valuable player and was named to the first all-star team along with Tom Sinnott and Kirzinger of Oak Bay, Evans of Belmont-Fisher and Garth Nye of Cedar Hill. Second-team all-stars were Richard Avery of Cedar Hill, Bill Hotzon of Brookswood, Neil Squire of Barsby and Lequesne and Bob Schroeder of Belmont-Fisher.

In senior high school boys' exhibition play Saturday at Parkland, Cowichan Thunderbirds defeated Parkland Panthers 73-66, Ross McCauley counting 29 points and Andy Riley 16 for the winners. Richard Nyren scored 24 points and Stuart Montgomery 16 for Parkland.

In a junior high school exhibition series at Royal Oak, Courtenay teams swept to four victories over the host school.

Paced by Greg Squire's 10-point effort, Courtenay beat Royal Oak Raiders 40-11 in the midget boys' game. Gail Omelko counted 11 points to lead Courtenay to a 28-12 win in midget girls' play.

Royal Oak made it close in a pair of junior games, the boys losing 38-36 to Courtenay and the girls bowing to their Courtenay counterparts 14-7.

UVic Rugby Sides Belt Washington

SEATTLE — University of Victoria Vikings got off on the right foot in the Pacific Northwest intercollegiate rugby season Saturday with a pair of one-sided victories over University of Washington.

Norsemen were led by Alistair Palmer with four tries while Bob Wright added three. Rod MacDonald and Ken MacRae two each and Ian Bruce, Bob Strachan, John Sheridan, Don Carson and Alan Rees one each. Rees added five converts and Peter Rhineholdt four.

Curling Captured By Prairie Schools

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta counted three on each of the second and fifth ends to defeat Calgary 9-2 in the final round of the Canada West University Athletic Association men's curling championships Saturday.

The win gave Alberta the Canada West title with a 4-0 record in the five-team round-robin competition. Calgary was second with a 3-1 record, while UBC was 2-2, Victoria 1-3 and Lethbridge 0-4.

Alberta failed to make a sweep of the competition when Skip Ruby Sowinski was six inches short during her last-rock draw attempt to the four-foot as Alberta lost 10-8 to Saskatchewan in the women's Division.

The win gave Saskatchewan a 5-0 record for first place, Alberta and Calgary were tied with 3-2 records, but Alberta won second place, having defeated Calgary during the six-team round-robin competition. UBC similarly was given the nod over Victoria for fourth place after they each ended with 2 - 3 records. Lethbridge was winless in five games.

JOINING Atlanta Falcons as offensive backfield coach for the 1975 National Football League season is John Rauch, former coach of Toronto Argonauts. Head coach at one time of Oakland Raiders and Buffalo Bills of NFL, Rauch served as Argo coach in 1973 and part-way through last season before he was let go.

JUVENILE SOCCER

Weather conditions forced postponment of Saturday's entire schedule and another six games Sunday in the Lower Island Juvenile Soccer Association.

All postponed games will be played this coming weekend at exactly the same times and locations, weather permitting.

Rose Accepts Contract Terms

CINCINNATI (AP)—Outfielder Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds has agreed to a contract for the 1075 season.

The National League baseball club declined to discuss terms of the contract of the 12-year veteran who has won six league batting championships and played in seven all-star games.

Rose reported earlier that he had been asked to take a cut in his $160,000-a-year salary and had threatened to take the case to arbitration.

Men's Field Hockey Showdown Coming Up

In the six years the Vancouver Island Men's Field Hockey Association has been in operation, no team has finished the season unbeaten. But that could happen this year.

With three games remaining in the regular schedule, two teams have yet to taste defeat — Castaways and Rebels I. Both are tied for first place with nine victories, no losses and two ties each.

One of them could bite the dust next Sunday at Beacon Hill Park when they clash in an 11 a.m. fixture.

Both teams won Sunday. Castaways beating Rebels II 3-2 and Rebels I downing Oak Bay 4-2. Mike Paget, Dave Auld and Alistair Glegg scored for Castaways while Tom Renton with two, Noel Pepin and Craig Wilson were the Rebels I marksmen.

The Heat's On

Lake Cowichan is applying the pressure.

The fifth-place Lakers edged within two points of Fuller Lake, holding the fourth and final playoff berth in the Lower Island Junior "B" Hockey League, by upsetting Juan de Fuca Gulls 6-3 Sunday.

The Lakers also have three games in hand on Fuller Lake.

Scott Morrow with two, Ken Calder, Mike Forrest, Fred Swain and Don Peterson scored Cowichan's goals. Norm Baker fired a pair for Juan de Fuca and Tim Clarkson added the other.

At Nanaimo, Garth Cunningham and Larry Hansen each scored twice as Victoria Nixons edged the Buccaneers 9-8 in an interlocking game with the North Island League team.

Starting Feb. 15 "Why do I have to pay 25¢ for Directory Assistance?"

If the number you need does not appear in your current local directory — there will be no charge.

You will be charged 25 cents if the number you need is listed in the directory — which is provided each year to all customers.

The 25¢ charge will not apply to calls to Directory Assistance from hotel-motel telephones, coin telephones, hospitals, radiotelephones, or from persons who are blind, handicapped, or calling for emergency numbers.

Please advise the operator in these instances.

More than 60 per cent of the 43 million calls handled by Directory Assistance in 1974 were for numbers already listed in the directory.

The charge is designed to discourage those who dial 113 unnecessarily — because the high cost of Directory Assistance has so far been borne equally by all customers, whether they used the service or not.

"You don't."

Seams Loosening, Pep Zooming?

(This is the thirteenth in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman, author of WHY GROW OLD? and leading authority on health and beauty, tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. You may want to save these menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.)

How is the battle going? Are the pounds retreating? I am sure that many of my BIP followers are beginning to feel proud of themselves, and they should! The curves are appearing, the seams are loosening and pep is zooming. As a matter of fact I am hearing from a few of them.

One says, "It takes a pound less butter a week at our house and I take a size 36 instead of a size 40 dress. A friend who had not seen me for some time until recently mistook me for my sister who is 10 years younger than I am."

There is one calorie trap I failed to mention last week and those of you who are at this point in my course are apt to be tempted to fall into it unless you are careful. When a woman has lost 8, 10, or 12 pounds, she feels so happy and so successful that she may lessen the pressure a bit. She may indulge herself a little here and there. This is no time to become careless. Keep your thoughts on the goal ahead.

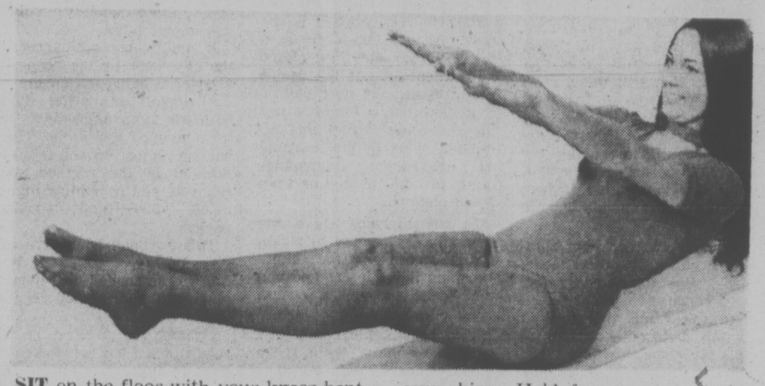
While most of the women who follow BIP wish to lose weight this is a self-improvement program. You should be prettier in every way at the end of your eight weeks. We must not forget your hair and complexion. If you have been giving them hit and miss care in the past really concentrate on them now. You diet and exercise regime will improve them but they deserve some local care also.

Your skin, particularly, needs special attention. If your epidermis is dry, this is absolutely vital. Use a softening body lotion daily after your bath and use a bath oil. Use cleansing creams, moisturizers and emollients generously. The skin of both the face and the body must be kept pliable so that it can adapt attractively to its new proportions.

If your complexion is oily use soap and water for cleansing. Leave the soap on your face for a short time before rinsing it off. Then apply an astringent. If your face is extremely oily, wash it several times a day if you can. Take some of the little pads to work with you to use in wiping off excess oil.

Your hair will respond to regular care as readily as your complexion. Treat it to scalp massage each night, spreading your fingers over your head and rotating your hands until you have covered your entire scalp. If it is dry, give it some conditioning treatments during the next few weeks. Use cream rinses or cream shampoos. If it is oily wash it as often as necessary, even if it is every day. Shampoos are available which were formulated for both the dry and the oily scalp. Take advantage of them.

Dermatologists do not recommend vigorous brushing if your hair tends to thin. In fact they urge you to handle it gently and no more than necessary in order to keep it clean and well groomed.



SIT on the floor with your knees bent and your feet on the floor, arms raised forward at shoulder height. Straighten your legs as you lean back until your weight falls over the largest part of your hips. Hold for a count of six. Bend knees and roll forward. Arms remain in the same position. This requires strong abdominal muscles.

It is not too late to follow BIP. If you missed some of this course and would like to begin now for a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks, you may want my BIP Kit. This gives you complete directions and a unique wall chart on which you can plot your progress and watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. Your eight weeks will just end a little later. If you want the kit send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of the Times family desk, 2621 Douglas.

A number of readers have written to ask if Josephine Lowman's book, "Why Grow Old," is still available.

The distributors of the Lowman columns have advised there is a limited number of books still on hand. Copies may be obtained by sending $1.75 (which includes postage) to: Why Grow Old, c/o Register and Tribune Syndicate, 715 Locust Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50304, U.S.A.

These fruits unlike the plastic kind, look like porcelain and they're lightweight and fabulously fake. A bowl of them is sure to attract attention and they make great gifts.

1. Base for any fruit is a foam ball, with the exception of the banana, which is carved from a block foam. Foam balls come in various sizes and can be bought separately or in packages of 12. Craft and hobby counters sell both foam balls and blocks and gardening centers also sell some foam products.

2. Foam can be carved with a steak knife or single-edge razor blade.

3. The mache cover of the carved fruit is made of 1 inch wide, torn (not cut) newspaper strips. The strips are then saturated in wallpaper paste mixed to the consistency of wet mashed potatoes. Cover the entire ball with the strips. A second layer is not necessary. To glue the strips easily, cover the ball with a coating of paste before you start using the strips.

4. The mache fruit should dry slowly overnight. Rapid drying (placed on a radiator) may cause the paper to crack.

5. When dry, sand the entire paper surface with fine sandpaper.

6. Give the fruit a coating of white poster paint to cover the newsprint.

7. Paint fruit with poster paints. Add variations in color while the paint is wet. For instance, an apple will have areas of green blending in the reds and pinks, as well as lighter highlights.

8. When dry, insert a small section of dowel into fruit that requires a stem, such as apples, pears, or peaches.

9. Cut leaves from white paper and paint them with green poster paint.

10. Glue the leaves to the stems.

11. Give the fruit and leaves a coating of plastic-base finish or decoupage finish.

Apples, pears, and peaches have stems and leaves. Strawberries have match stick stems and star-shaped leaves.

Pomegranate has a wedge cut out of a large ball. Cut small ½-inch balls in half and glue them inside the wedge with white glue.

Lemons, limes, oranges, and grapefruit have a light scattered dot design to resemble the fruit's textured surface. Add a circle to the top of the orange and the grapefruit.

Grapes are made of several small size balls. Insert a length of wire through each ball, then twist the end to another wire. Cover each ball with mache keeping one extending wire free. Wire all finished grapes together to form a cluster. Add a large leaf.

Plums and berries are made from small balls.

Selling Game, From Phonos To City Tours

By ELIZABETH FORBES

He's been in "the selling game," as he calls it, all his life.

It's taken him from Ontario to Calgary, down to Portland, back to Vancouver and then to Victoria, where for the past 19 years, he's been selling tours (in summer from a desk in the Empress Hotel and in winter from Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot) for Greyhound Bus Lines.

That covers quite a few years, and as Percy Fitzsimmonns (Fitz to everyone who has known him) looks back over those years, he chuckles quietly and tells you: "I could write a book."

He was born in Brockville, Ont. in 1891. "That means I'm 81 now," he says, "but I don't feel it and I don't look it."

It was in Brockville when he was "a small kid" that he first got into the selling game.

"I used to meet the strangers going to and from the Thousand Islands and I'd peddle newspapers to the passengers."

When his family moved to Ottawa, Percy went along. And it was there, in his early teens, that he became a news agent aboard Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk trains, and also on the Intercolonial Railway, servicing the Maritimes.

A regular passenger on those trains was a manager of the Columbia Phonograph Company in Montreal. He was impressed with young Fitzsimmons' selling technique and asked him if he'd take over an outlet in Ottawa and sell the popular Columbia graphaphones.

Fitzsimmons remembers his answer was: "What? At my age?"

However, he did take the job and did sell graphaphones from a small store on Sparks Street, where the Mall is now located.

It wasn't long however, until his father, who was in the hotel business, again moved his family, this time to Calgary. Son Percy "pulled up stakes" and went along.

Curious as to whether Columbia machines were sold in that western cow town, he visited the well-known Kennedy store.

"Right away I spotted a whole row of machines on a back shelf but was told they were useless . . . wouldn't work."

The Fitzsimmons answer to that was "I can fix them." And immediately he found he had a permanent job.

That was in 1912 "just about the time Calgary staged its first Stampede."

Shortly afterward a letter from his brother Harry who was in Portland — and with whom he had perfected a tumbling act in Ottawa — set him travelling again.

"Harry wanted me to come down and go on the road with the tumbling act in what he called a circus . . . but when I got there and discovered it was only a small carnival, I bowed out."

Here again luck was with him. He discovered that in the Meier and Frank store in Portland they sold Columbia and Berliner machines and through his knowledge of the former, he got a job with them "at $10 a week and 10 per cent commission on sales."

Shortly after that his father was made manager of the St. Regis Hotel in Vancouver and he persuaded Percy to join him there as a night clerk.

He moved from the St. Regis to night clerk at the Empress Hotel here, then to a stint with the Royal Flying Corps during the First World War and to driving taxi in the gloomy days after that was "when the most you could get in a fare from town to Oak Bay was 75 cents or a dollar."

Marriage to Beatrice, daughter of Victoria real estate tycoon Fred Landsberg, was followed by a position in his father-in-law's firm, the Empire Realty Company, where he finally became managing director.

Landsberg's death, the Second World War during which Fitzsimmons was a veteran guard here, and a slump in real estate, eventually, saw that firm close and again he was out of work.

Walking along the street one day he met Rebel Mouat, the flamboyant Victorian who drove a Greyhound sight-seeing bus around the city for years. He suggested a visit to the Greyhound manager.

FITZSIMMONS
. . . could write a book

Result — Fitzsimmons got his present job.

"It's been most rewarding," he says. "I've met people from all around the world. They remember me. They write to me. Come back to see me. I love the work!"

Some years ago now, following his first wife's death, he married again and today lives quietly with second wife Isobel, in their comfortable home on Westall Street.

Fitzsimmons has three daughters, Erna in Toronto; Barbara in Victoria and Josephine in Vancouver. There are also seven grandchildren.

He's proud of the fact he's been a member of the Elks Lodge for 55 years, also that he was its Exalted Ruler on three occasions. "That's unique," he tells you.

A very special honor came to him in 1970 when the Greater Victoria Visitors Convention Bureau presented him with an award as the Victoria tourist man of the year.

Then, in 1971, the Greyhound Bus Lines made him an honorary president and gave him a special plaque in recognition of that fact.

NOTE: In my next column I'm going to tell you something of Percy Fitzsimmons' experiences in sports in this city. It includes baseball, hockey, soccer and even billiards and snooker.

Nutritionists Agree Fish is a Bargain

By MARY MOORE

More and more nutritionists are agreeing that we Canadians should eat more fish for several reasons: low cholestrol content; moderate price; low calorie content (that's why the big weight-reducing clubs recommend it to their clients).

Two 7-ounce cans of mackerel costing 39c each were put to the test of substituting for salmon in a salmon loaf and were successful.

If your budgets are badly bent after your holiday extravagance this will help to straighten things out.

BAKED MACKEREL LOAF
(Easy to make)

Two 7-ounce cans mackerel
1 c. fine whole wheat bread crumbs
2 large eggs
1 or 2 tbsp. paprika (yes tbsp. to give it color)
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. chopped chives or green onion or cooking onion
¾ c. milk

Turn the canned mackerel into a bowl, liquid and all, and break it up with a fork. Add all remaining ingredients and turn into a greased Pyrex loaf pan 8¼x4½x2½ inches, lined on bottom and ends with a 3-inch wide strip of greased foil (to ease removal). Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. Let stand 5 minutes before turning out on pre-heated platter. Peel off foil. Be sure to serve with:

HOT EGG SAUCE

While mackerel loaf is baking hard-cook 1 large egg. Cool and remove shell and chop finely. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, stir in 2 tablespoons flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon MSG to blend. Then stir in 1 1-3 cups milk until thick. Stir in chopped hard-cooked egg and reheat.

Mistaken Identity

DEAR ABBY: I used to be one of your most devoted fans, but not any more. How dare you say that people who don't iron their bedsheets, pillowcases and towels are just plain lazy!

Abby, haven't you ever heard of permanent press fabrics? When they came in, ironing bedsheets and pillowcases went out at my house. And nobody irons towels anymore. They just fold them.

A young relative put me on to the greatest time and money-saver yet: Have one set of quick-dry bedsheets and pillowcases for each bed. They can be laundered and put back on the beds in a few hours. The set I am using on my king-sized bed is in its ninth year and it's still good as new. (No cracks, please.) Ex-Abby Fan.

DEAR EX: You and a lot of other people have confused me with my twin sister—Ann Landers. You read that in HER column—not mine. I spoke with her a few minutes ago and she's reconsidered; she's now doing penance complete with sackcloth (UN-IRONED) and ashes.

DEAR ABBY: I need your help. I am 19, and I've been seeing this guy who is 30. I know he is too old for me. But that's not all. He's married and has two kids. How I got involved with him I'll never know.

This has got to end because there is no future in it for me. I have tried so hard to tell him, but he keeps calling me and calling me and he won't take no for an answer. I never should have started up with this guy, but he is a real fast talker.

I am not much of a talker, so I would like to write him a letter. That's where you come in, Abby. Will you help me write it? I want to get it across to him that I don't want to continue our love affair and to please leave me alone. Thank you. — Wants Out

DEAR WANTS: Don't put anything incriminating in writing! (You never can tell where a letter will wind up!) TELL HIM in plain English that you've seen him for the last time, and don't stick around for a debate. (P.S. If he calls you again, hang up on him.)

DEAR ABBY: Lately, my mother, who is 43, and my father, who is 44, have started to act like they just got married. I am 12 and have an older sister and two younger brothers who said they noticed it, too.

Mom and Dad read a book entitled "The Joy of Sex," and one night I heard my dad ask my mother if she wanted to try something new. I really thought this was disgusting. I am losing respect for them. Or am I wrong to feel this way. — Mixed-Up Kid

DEAR MIXED: You're wrong. You ought to be happy that your parents find each other so appealing. (Lots of kids have parents who fight instead.)

Soys Mix Well With Other Food

By HILDA BEASTALL

Soybeans have been used by western nations in animal and human diet for emergent situations of the past 70 years, and so successfully that animal nutrition still takes up a huge percentage of the total soybean production. Of the dried peas and beans, soy beans are still fortunately the lowest in price per pound, while providing the highest nutritive value in this legume group of foods.

Fortunately too, soys combine well with other foods, herbs, vegetables and grains, so that no two meals need taste the same though both contain soybeans as the principle source of nutrition.

This is one reason we like soybean suppers. One recipe makes enough for two days' meals, by serving the first one hot and freshly cooked; the second day when cold and firm it is equally delicious sliced to serve with hot homemade wheat bread or buns. Vary the accompanying vegetables from hot cooked to salads and you come out with a new taste treat each time.

Soybeans have a smooth delicate flavor, not the same as lima, or red beans, or navy beans. Each kind has its own taste.

Preparation of soys before cooking makes the initial acceptance of them by a family much easier; it also shortens the length of the cooking period.

Overnight soaking in cold water (in refrigerator) is the first step: one cup of dry soys to two cups water in a closed jar. Then put out the recipe ready to use the next day so that you don't forget about them soaking. I find this reminder helps in the morning as unexpected happenings occur to take more time than I had planned.

In the morning, take the few minutes needed to strain the beans from the liquid (keeping it for later) and run the beans through a coarse blade of moull grinder.

This breaks the beans just enough to make them more quickly cooked, and also takes away the obvious bean character in appearance. Grind some whole raw peanuts too and set aside. The grinding of the beans after soaking but before cooking is a clean, fast job but after cooking it results in the most sticky mess you can imagine. I did this just once, and spent an hour wiping everything in sight clean of the adhesive juices splashed around. But pre-cooking grinding needs only a quick rinse of the grinder parts with cold water.

Next, if you are away for most of the day, put the ground beans, the liquid, salt and garlic clove into a covered casserole, and leave in an oven just below 149 deg. C. (300 F.).

Beans will be ready to add other more quickly cooked ingredients later.

If you are home for more of the day, cook up the beans in a covered saucepan on top of the range, simmering them with the same ingredients as for the oven casserole. They will be almost cooked in 40-45 minutes by this method, and ready to add remaining ingredients for final cooking period.

This Soybean Dinner recipe gives plenty of satisfying texture to the cooked dish particularly if the suggested vegetables are used.

Chinese or Winter radish substitutes for artichoke for firm texture. The ginger flavor is barely noticed; curry is good when liked, so use your own taste as guide for this flavoring.

SOYBEAN DINNER

One-third cup dry soy beans
¾ cup cold water
1 whole garlic clove
1 tsp. salt
½ cup raw rolled wheat
¾ cup raw brown rice
¼ cup ground raw peanuts
1 tbsp. onion
½ cup diced celery and leaves
¼ cup diced carrot
½ cup diced Jerusalem artichoke
A pinch of fresh thyme leaves
½ tsp. ground ginger
1 tsp. dark molasses
1 tsp. or 1 tbsp. curry powder if liked
Homemade yogurt for topping when served

Cook pre-soaked and ground soybeans, and ground peanuts with salt and garlic until nearly tender, about 40 minutes gentle simmering. (This is the method if you are home to do the whole job in the shorter sequence.)

Pour into 3-pint casserole. Add raw rolled wheat and brown rice, plus all other ingredients except yogurt. Add half cup hot water if needed. Stir a little. Cover. Bring to near boiling on top of stove but don't let it boil over. It makes an awful mess.

Bake at low temperature of 149 deg. C. (300 deg. F.) for 2 hours if you are using oven for other baking; 1 hour is enough and vegetables will be crisper if you want to conserve use of electricity.

Serve with carrot slices steamed, then topped with shredded cabbage or kale and cooked for another 10 minutes. Top with yogurt or a good knob of margarine. The whole dish serves 4 generously.

This meal compares well in total nutrition with meat, at much lower cost, and there is no waste.

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

I recently read a release from the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology ("ophthalmo" referring to the eyes, "oto" referring to the ears, "laryng" referring to the voice box, and "logos" meaning the science of). The writer says that abnormalities of the eardrum are found in a good many children. Sometimes there are signs of infection in the ear, sometimes the canal leading into the ear is full of wax, and when that is washed out the child can hear again. Large diseased tonsils may have something to do with defective hearing. Sometimes the child will have had earaches.

The prevalence of hearing troubles tended to be greatest among children from families where income and parent education level were lowest. Obviously, in all these cases, an able ear specialist should see the child.

RUNAWAY HOUSES

I recently received a booklet from the national Institute of Mental Health, entitled "Runaway House; A Youth-Run Service Project," describing three such "runaway houses." These are designed to help youngsters who have run away from home, and are like group foster homes. the youngsters who come to them are often considered "trouble-makers" and failures, who have had trouble at school and have been expelled, and whose parents don't want them.

The group that runs the houses, called SAJA (Special Approaches in Juvenile Assistance), was formed in 1969. The youngsters helped are under 18 years of age and are willing to make an effort to better themselves. They have to abide by the rules of the house.

In the last three years more than 3,000 youngsters have stayed at Runaway House. Enough money to run the place has been obtained from several sources.

It is good news that several of the youngsters are now independent and supporting themselves; others have gone back to their families, and a few could not be kept because "they did not work out."

To hear of this very helpful group of people pleases me much, and I do hope that before long there will be a Runaway House in every city.

WHEELS

By MICHAEL LAMM

DEAR MIKE:

I'd like to install an engine heater in my 1973 Vega — one that would keep the engine warm in the cold weather ahead. The problem is that the Vega aluminum block has no drain cocks or frost plugs for an external tank-type heater. I understand that a lower radiator hose heater won't work either, because the element won't stay submerged and consequently burns up. I don't like the dipstick heater due to the hassle involved. Suggestions? — Frosty

DEAR FROSTY:

DEAR MIKE:

I've stopped telling people about the problem we're having with our 1971 Torino, because they think we're nuts. It's like seeing UFOs. The thing is: The Torino has a habit of starting all by itself! My husband and I got in it one day and, without putting in the key, the engine started up. We didn't know what to do, so my husband finally got out, lifted the hood, and pulled out the distributor wire. Another time, taking my sister to the supermarket, the engine again started by itself even before my husband could get the key out of his pocket. We now park the car with the distributor wire pulled out. What's going on? Is the car haunted? — Spooked

DEAR SPOOKED:

There's apparently something inside your steering column, behind the ignition switch, that's touching the contacts and making the engine start. Possibly it has to do with your neutral switch in your transmission. Actually this is a new one on me. If other readers have had similar experiences, please let me hear about them.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Tues., Feb. 11

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New Moon position highlights self-discovery, ability to love and be loved. You draw people to you with their problems. You gain respect — and allies. Some of your desires are revised, many will be fulfilled.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What you want to do becomes plausible and possible. One who pulls strings does some pulling in your behalf. Leo, Aquarius could be in picture. Be a self-starter where special project is concerned. Prestige will be on upswing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent is on long-distance communications. You are able to sense potential needs. Your intuition is on target. Follow through on what appears to be a hunch. Series of incidents are related — get in on ground floor!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Usual routine does not suffice. There is work procedure change. Leo, Aquarius could be involved. You will be asked to initiate a "different" policy. You will receive co-operation from those who perform special services.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Spotlight is on details associated with agreements, legal or otherwise. Now is time to get views on record, to articulate ideas, to be specific about needs. Much of what you request will be fulfilled — but you must ask in direct, frank mannner. You'll see!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): One who asks favors may be testing, probing. Know it and know when to draw the line. Another Virgo — and a Gemini — could figure prominently. Review methods, procedures. Get streamlining process under way. You are going to get answers to many questions!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): New Moon position coincides now with new lease on special project, unique relationship, affair of heart. Luxury item, sale or purchase, could be on agenda. One who knows plenty about gold and jewelry may be talking fast and using big numbers. Protect yourself!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Real estate, property values and appraisals seem to be in picture. See clearly, in light of facts instead of fantasy. Avoid fooling yourself. One who flatters may have ulterior motive. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You get answers to recent inquiries. You are enlightened concerning facts, figures and boundaries. Relative, very inquisitive, should be dealt with in humorous wayOlder individual advocates conservative course and could be right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis is on money and how it got that way. Finish project. Let go of losing proposition. Payments and collections may be featured. Aries, Libra are likely to be in picture. What you did in recent past will be part of present — to your credit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Lunar cycle is such that you thrive on challenge. Added recognition is due. Your powers of persuasion are highlighted. Get going on project which has intrigued you. Favorable response is due if you make contact with "live wire."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Aura of glamor prevails. Element of mystery is present. Important now to be discreet. Play cards close to chest. Don't tell all you know. One who taught you in past is likely to make reappearance. New Moon position "lights" areas previously obscured. You gain access to unusual files.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, a natural teacher, a person who eschews ordinary procedures and is successful via unorthodox methods. Aquarius, Leo persons play important roles in your life. September could be your most significant month of this, a year which should be outstanding. If single, you marry. If married, there may be an addition to your family. You go into business, you become more a master of your own destiny.

Portuguese Junta Boosts Powers

LISBON (WP) — The powers of the ruling National Salvation Junta were widely expanded on the weekend arousing fears that the revolutionary Armed Forces Movement (AFM) was taking a dictatorial course.

Composed of senior officials elected by the AFM and the chiefs of staff of the three services, the seven-man junta is headed by Gen. Francisco da Costa Gomes, provisinal president and commander in chief.

What drew attention to the junta's expansion of powers to include purging officials of the dictatorship ousted last April and eradicating the remnants of "the corporate state," was that it was literally legislated by the AFM's assembly of 250 delegates who met here on Thursday. The legislation, which has the force of a constitutional amendment, was passed by the military-dominated council of state Friday night.

One of the main topics on the agenda of the long and heated meeting was whether the AFM can "institutionalize" itself and become a revolutionary legislature. While the AFM's spokesman said that no final decision had been reached, it was clear the expansion of the junta's powers was the first step in that direction.

The weekly "O Expresso" which has been fined for criticizing the military, warned Saturday that while it agreed with the aims of the April revolution and the end of the right-wing dictatorship it feared "revolutionary legislation" which would "intervene arbitrarily in the life of every citizen."

Civilian politicians expressed private concern that the revolutionary officers were not only undermining the present coalition government, which includes officials ranging from Communists to moderate Social Democrats; but placing themselves above the constituent assembly which is scheduled to be elected by popular vote next April.

A senior military source said the AFM was still considering "a number of options." He did not exclude the possibility that the "AFM will decide to take over completely" but he said he thought this was unlikely.

What is certain, he added is that military will remain in power "either completely or in a supervisory capacity" for at least three years. He expressed the opinion that the AFM will vote to set itself up as a "sort of House of Lords."

LION DANCE to the beat of Chinese drum marked Chinese New Year celebration Saturday at Pearson College of the Pacific, part of an Afro-Asian Day held by the world college. Nearly 200 people showed up for the afternoon program, which included Japanese, African and Thailand dancing, a kung. fu demonstration and a performance on Japanese kotos by a Vancouver group.

ART THEFT FOILED

VENICE, Italy (AP) — An alarm system foiled an attempt during the night to steal paintings by Titian, Donatellow and other Renaissance masters from the Basilica of the Friars, the Venetian police reported today.

The attempt came four days after thieves took three priceless paintings by Raphael and Piero della Francesca from the Ducal Palace in Urbino, 70 miles east of Florence. Officials blamed that theft on the lack of an alarm system.

The target of the thieves in Venice was a chapel of the basilica containing 12 masterpieces, including an altarpiece of the Madonna by Titian and paintings by Donatello, Bellini and Vivarini.

The police said the burglars apparently had studied the basilica carefully and broke through two metal gates and two doors without setting off alarms. But when they tried to get into the chapel, they set off an alarm siren installed two years ago and all the lights in the basilica went on automatically.

The thieves escaped.

Meanwhile, Giovani Spadolini, the new cultural assets minister said he has urged the government to use the army to guard the country's many art treasures until modern alarm systems are installed in churches, museums and historical places.

Spadolini said the government will not pay ransom for the return of the three paintings stolen from Urbino — The Flagellation of Christ and The Madonna of Senigallia by Piero della Francesca and Raphael's La Muta — the Mute Girl — because it was "not prepared to negotiate with thieves nor to bow to blackmailers."

Urbino's Communist mayor, Oriano Magnani, said the town of 19,000 will not pay either. A telephone caller on Friday demanded three billion lire ($4.8 million).

800 New Police Provincial Aim

DUNCAN (CP) — The British Columbia Police Commission hopes to expand B.C. police forces by 800 officers in the next three years, delegates attending the association of Vancouver Island Municipalities convention were told at the weekend.

John Hogarth, commission chairman, said the commission has set a goal of 800 more officers by 1978 although that would still leave the province about 1,200 below national strength.

"We hope that with better training and better use of personnel we can make up the difference somewhat," he said.

He estimated it would cost about $22,000 a year to train, equip and pay each new officer. Initial cost for the planned expansion would be about $18 million, delegates were told.

Hogarth added that in order to solve the many problems now encountered in law enforcement, "both police and elected people must work together."

Delegates recommended that manpower be brought up to slightly more than minimum ratio of one officer for every 800 population, and that establishing regional police commissions be considered.

Another convention will be held May 9 and 10 at Courtenay.

Ethiopian Peace Sought

ADDIS ABABA (SP) — Sudan's foreign minister has come to Addis Ababa to try to negotiate a ceasefire in the war between Ethiopia's military government and rebel guerrillas in Eritrea province.

Foreign Minister Gamal Mohammed Ahmed was reported to have brought ceasefire proposals with him, but no details were released. However, the Ethioyian government has said repeatedly that it would never agree to the secession of Ekritrea, a former Italian colony which Emperor Haile Selassie annexed 13 years ago.

The Eritrean Liberation Front ELF has been waging a sporadic guerrilla campaign for independence since then, but for fighting was intensified with attacks Jan. 31 on government military installations in Asmara, the Eritrean province.

Government forces drove the rebels out of Asmara that first weekend, but the city of 200,000 has been virtually besieged ever since and there has been hard fighting in the countryside. Reliable sources estimate casualties in the last 10 days at more than 1,000 dead and another 1,000 wounded.

Evacuees from Asmara reported the city was ringed by about 20,000 government troops who in turn are surrounded by 6,000 insurgents.

The ELF's Cairo office warned the Ethiopian government that "violence breeds violence" and said it would not abandon the battle for independence.

The ELF appealed to "all peace-loving nations and international humane organizations" to provide aid for the people of Asmara. It said ELF units would co-operate with international agencies providing relief aid.

The government for a week refused requests from foreign diplomatic missions for aid to be sent to the population of Asmara. But on Sunday it allowed the Red Cross to send a plane with five tons of food and medicine.

The Red Cross said it would also investigate the living conditions of the civilian population.

An Italian evacuee said there was very little food or fuel left in the city. Drinking water is also scarce and electric power is available only at sporadic intervals.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

For failing to show up for trial two men and a woman were remanded in custody after appearing in Victoria provincial court Saturday charged with being unlawfully at large.

Lea Crowley, her common-law husband Allan James Crowley and Sidney Silas Ryan were arrested in Vancouer Friday.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said Ryan, 29, of Chase River, failed to attend court twice — in October and November, 1973 — for trial on charges of impaired driving and refusing to take a breathalyzer test, stemming from an incident in Victoria Aug. 24, 1973.

Judge Fred Green denied Ryan's request to be set free and remanded him to today for bail application.

Lea Crowley, alias Janak, 22, formerly of 425 Wilson, had been sought by police after she failed to attend court here Dec. 23 to set a date for preliminary hearing on a charge of robbery with violence.

Birkett also noted she did not show up for trial Jan. 16 in connection with two counts of soliciting for the purposes of prostitution.

He said the accused had a prior record of trafficking in and possession of narcotics.

Meanwhile Allan Crowley was remanded to the County Court. A warrant for his arrest was issued after he failed to appear for trial before Judge M. L. T. Drake on a narcotics matter last Dec. 13.

★ ★ ★

Seven days in jail was part-penalty for David George Andrews, 22, of 3810 Rowland, who pleaded guilty to impaired driving and refusing to take a breathalyzer test.

Birkett said the accused had a prior drinking-driving conviction, in 1972.

"Too bad you didn't learn something from that experience," Green said and placed Andrews on six months probation with the condition he attend the impaired drivers course.

Green also banned him from driving for six months and fined him $150.

Scary 'Spaceflight'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Soviet and U.S. spacemen took a breathtaking ride Sunday through swirling galaxies and shooting stars. At least one cosmonaut admitted to being a little scared.

The "spaceflight" was compliments of Walt Disney World as part of the cosmanauts' tour of Florida before settling down today to the first look at the U.S. spaceship they will meet in orbit.

"In our country, our doctors would have installed sensors to check heart beats and perhaps they would have said some of our cosmonauts would not answer the requirements," said Soyuz Commander Alexei Leonov after the Disney ride.

Flight engineer Valeri Kubasov, a spaceflight veteran, admitted to being "a little scared" when the ride began.

Leonov, the first man to walk in space, said the "space mountain" attraction at Disney World reminded him of a spaceflight simulator in which pilots are subjected to the sensations of flight. He and Stafford, the veteran Apollo commander, rode together in a "space capsule."

The spacemen met Mickey Mouse wearing a spacesuit and were given red, white and blue caps for their six-hour visit among thousands of tourists and dozens of newsmen at Disney's "Magic Kingdom."

Last Hurrah For Daley?

CHICAGO (WP) — This city is girding for what may be the last hurrah for the last big city boss — Richard J. Daley.

Daley, 72, is locked in a four-way Democratic primary battle set for Feb. 25 as he seeks an unprecedented sixth consecutive four-year term as mayor. The winner will face token opposition from Republican John Hoellen in a general election April 1.

The last contested Democratic primary was in 1955, when Daley, then the Cook County clerk, emerged the winner in a three-way race — with the help of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee, the formal name of the Chicago political machine Daley has chaired since 1953.

Since that initial victory, Daley has quadrenially placed his credentials before voters on the theme: "Chicago is the last big city that works."

This year, three vastly different opponents are waging their campaigns on the rebuttal that "Chicago no longer works."

Opposing Daley are Alderman William S. Singer, 34, a liberal independent who has the rare distinction of previously doing battle with Daley and winning, former State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan, once a Daley protege who has twice since been defeated; and State Sen. Richard Newhouse, a black maverick lawmaker with scattered successes against the Daley organization in the general assembly.

Under most circumstances a four-way primary among diverse candidates in a city as polyglot as Chicago would spell trouble for the incumbent. But Daley and his allies seem confident of yet another success: the only question seems to be whether the mayor can win a majority of the votes cast, rather than the plurality required to win the primary.

The Chicago Sun-Times and Daily News, enthusiastic supporters of Daley in his last four campaigns, endorsed Singer this week.

MEDITATION FOR NATION . . .

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of parliamentarians and diplomats got the hard sell Sunday night for a type of "transcendental meditation" that its promoters say can solve virtually all the world's problems.

A group called the World Plan Executive Council of Canada treated about 25 MPs and senators and more than a dozen ambassadors to dinner at the Chateau Laurier Hotel. Praise for the "science of creative intelligence" followed the meal.

The council wants the federal government to provide funds to help train Canadians in transcendental meditation — the science of creative intelligence — as originally taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

Combat Zone Duty Hazard For Boston Mayor

BOSTON — Mayor Kevin White "probably got an eyeful" in an unannounced tour through Boston's "combat zone" says a spokesman for the mayor. Visiting a half dozen bars in the area, White went largely unrecognized.

"Hi, honey. My name's Cheryl. What's yours."

"Kevin."

"Kevin. That's OK. What do you do"

"I'm the mayor."

"Sure you are, honey," said Cheryl edging closer to him.

"Do you want to buy me a drink."

"Anything you want. Where are you from, Cheryl."

"Montreal."

"Do you know Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau. He's a friend of mine."

"My God," said the stripper, taking a second look. "You are the mayor!"

WATERLOO, Ont. — Dick Gregory, United States political activist-comedian, says he soon will formally accuse convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt of the 1963 assassination of president John Kennedy. Gregory bases his charges against Hunt on photographs taken in Dallas the afternoon of the assassination.

PHILADELPHIA — A Philadelphia couple that wanted to name its baby after someone famous chose Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat. "We believe in him (Arafat)," says Mrs. Robert Colbert, 42, after hearing that Lebanese newspapers published pictures of her baby on Sunday. "We think he's a terrific man."

CHICAGO — Elijah Muhammed, 77, the founder and spiritual leader of the Nation of Islam, better known as the Black Muslims, was in critical condition today recovering from a weekend heart seizure. Doctors at Mercy Hospital, where Muhammed was admitted for tests Jan. 30, said he was stricken by congestive heart failure late Saturday.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — Richard Nixon entered a new phase of his life Sunday a lonely and troubled man, and despite a show of hope and even humor, "physically and emotionally, the trauma still lingers on," said Rabbi Baruch Korff.

Nixon lost most of his staff, his fleet of 11 cars and his office Sunday, the last day of a six-month transition period to adjust from chief executive to private United States citizen.

LONDON — Actor Richard Burton's romance with Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia was reported "in danger" today. British newspapers said the princess came to London alone after a quarrel with the Welsh actor in the south of France over a new girl in his life, black American model Jean Bell.

NEW YORK — U.S. Supreme Court Justic William Douglas, 76, partly paralyzed by a stroke on New Year's Eve, still cannot use his left leg and his doctors fear he may never walk again, Time magazine reported Sunday.

Then there were eight...

"I feel like I've been hit by a truck, but I feel great," said Cheryl Shaf, 27, (left) from her hospital bed after giving birth to quintuplets. Four of the infants — two boys and two girls—born Sunday in Chicago are in good condition. The fifth has a breathing problem but is "holding his own," a hospital spokesman said. The Shafs' also have a three-year old daughter.

MINISTER HITS FRUIT BOYCOTT

TORONTO (CP) — A United Church minister said Sunday the boycott of California-grown fruit and vegetables has become dishonest, unfair and wrong.

Rev. William Morris of Centennial United Church told his congregation in a sermon that there should be justice for all parties in the dispute. He was critical of the United Church of Canada for its role in the dispute.

Many clergymen of several denominations for more than a year have supported the boycott and through demonstrations and other protests seek to have retail stores stop selling California grapes.

The United Farm Workers, headed by Cesar Chavez, seek to achieve better working conditions and better pay through the boycott. It is in opposition to the Teamsters Union which has won bargaining rights in the growing area.

Morris, who described himself as a former supporter of the boycott, said the Niagara presbytery of the United Church of Canada in January urged executives of the general council to stop supporting the boycott but that the executive turned this down last Wednesday.

Mr. Morris said that "they passed a hypocritical motion saying they would not boycott Canadian farm produce, but would continue to boycott farmers 3,000 miles away."

'... An Experience of Great Beauty'

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

We accept the truism that there is no such thing as perfection in art. But after all what two people would agree on what constitutes perfection in, say, a musical performance.

And as the saying goes, who needs it, when a rare talent and superb skill confront us to provide an experience of unimaginable beauty.

From its reaction, Sunday, the Victoria Sumphony audience had been stirred to an unprecedented emotional depth by the performance of the Dvorak Cello Concerto by Mstislav Rostropovich.

Shouts of enthusiasm, prolonged applause and a standing ovation acknowledge the greatest performance of this great work that most of us are ever likely to be fortunate enough to hear.

Rostropovich was quick to share the ovation with maestro Laszlo Gati and the orchestra for their sensitive and skillfully balanced accompaniment.

The Soviet cellist, middle-age, simple, unassuming and warm in personality, wraps you in the music from the first orchestral phrase because his own attention is so acute.

The Dvorak concerto has a fairly long and dramatic introduction before the solo instrument enters. At the climax the first powerful phrase of the cello is heard and what fullness, what shining tone evolves from the Rostropovich cello.

Dvorak throughly explores and exploits cello technique in the first movement and Rostropovich responds with dazzlingly supple left hand fingering through all the octaves and a manipulation of the bow that is incredible in its bravura.

Like a living extension of the physical and intellectual musicality of the artist, it is sensitive to every need of the music — buoyant, powerful, singing; spinning long lucent phrases, whispering and declaiming.

At the conclusion of this performance we all knew that we were in the presence of one of the musical giants of our time. An artist whose total involvement and spritual commitment with the music and matchless mastery of his instrument brings us the only perfection we are ever likely to know.

This is an all-Dvorak program with Gati conducting the orchestra through colorful and stirring performances of the Carnival Overture, Scherzo Capriccioso and three of the Slavonic Dances.

The orchestra continues to amaze and delight us with its increasing technical facility and the range of color and mood which Gati elicits.

Grants Total 1.4M

Grants totalling $1.4 million have been awarded community arts councils and non-profit cultural organizations by the provincial government.

Greater Victoria art council was granted $20,520 out of the cultural fund which is based on a $20 million endowment.

Several cultural organizations in the city also received grants including the Victoria Symphony Society which received $39,200.

Bastion Theatre Society received $31,620; Greater Victoria Art Gallery $22,400; Victoria Sumemr Festival Society $22,400; Greater Victoria Theatrebox Society $15,000; Victoria Conservatory of Music $13,440 and University of Victoria Summer Theatre Workshop $5,000.

More Trade Talks Set

MOSCOW (AP) — The first meeting between officials of Europe's main trading blocs — the Common Market and Soviet-based Comecon — ended Friday with few accomplishments, conference sources said.

About the only agreement reached during the three-day conference was to meet again, but no date was set, they said.

Common Market delegates wanted to draw up a list of items "which could be identified as lending themselves to useful co-operation" one conference source said. These would include such subjects as trading practices, pollution control and energy supplies, he added, but differences could not be overcome.

One purpose of the conference was to prepare for a visit to Moscow by Francois-Xavier Ortoli, French president of the Common Market commission. Even this ran into procedural snags and no decision was reported to have been made. The sources said Comecon officials wanted to discuss only physical details of the visit and avoided questions of substance.

NIXON PARDON HIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — A majority of Americans polled in a Harris survey believe former president Richrd Nixon should have been brought to trial for his part in the Watergate scandal.

An even larger majority think President Ford was wrong in pardoning Nixon.

Polled on their opinion as to whether Nixon should have been brought to trial, 54 per cent said yes and 38 per cent said no.

Sixty four per cent to 28 per cent said President Ford should not have pardoned Nixon.

Notice of Public Hearing

Ottawa, February 3, 1975

OTTAWA, MARCH 11, 1975 (ISSUE No. 2)

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE TELEVISION BROADCASTING REGULATIONS

SCHEDULE

1. Section 9 of the Television Broadcasting Regulations is amended by adding thereto, immediately after subsection (2) thereof, the following subsection:

"(2.1) (1) No station or network operator shall broadcast any advertising material that makes use of any subliminal technique.

(2) In subsection (1), "subliminal technique" means any technique that, by using images or sounds of very brief duration or by any other means,

(a) conveys or attempts to convey a message to a person, or

(b) exerts an influence or attempts to exert an influence on a person, without that person being aware of

(c) the nature of the technique being used, and

(d) the substance of the message being conveyed or attempted to be conveyed, or the nature of the influence being exerted or attempted to be exerted."

Director-General of Licensing.
Public Notice CRTC 1975-12

DECISION

Ottawa, February 3, 1975.

The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announces the following decisions effective February 3, 1975.

Decision CRTC 75-37

VICTORIA, B.C.

Application by Capital Broadcasting System Limited for renewal of its broadcasting licence for CKDA Victoria, B.C. expiring March 31, 1975.

Decision: APPROVED

Decision CRTC 75-38

VICTORIA, B.C.

Application by CFAX Radio 1070 Limited for renewal of its broadcasting licence for CFAX Victoria, B.C. expiring March 31, 1975.

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission renews these licences from April 1, 1975 to March 31, 1978 subject to conditions to be specified therein. This term will enable the Commission to consider renewal of these licences at the same time as that of other licences in this region.

An intervention at the October 22, 1974 Public Hearing of the Commission in Vancouver, addressing itself primarily to CKDA and CFAX, expressed a hope shared by many people with regard to the quality of radio broadcasting and the need for a radio service that is more than a promotional device.

The Commission reminds these licensees of their responsibility to examine their community's needs continually, and to direct substantially the greater part of their energies to programming activities rather than to promotional activities.

At the Public Hearing, the licensee of CKDA stated that it intended to improve the quality of the station's news service and staff. The Commission expects to receive, within six months, from the applicant a proposal as to how this objective is to be attained.

With respect to CFAX, the Commission is concerned with the amount of promotional and commercial references, activities and devices, and the manner in which they permeate the overall programming of the station. The Commission expects the licensee to reduce the incidence of such material in its programming.

VICTORIA, B.C.

Application by Capital Broadcasting System Limited for renewal of its broadcasting licence for CFMS-FM Victoria, B.C. expiring March 31, 1975.

Decision: APPROVED

The Commission issues a licence expiring March 31, 1976 subject to conditions to be specified therein. This term will enable the Commission to review this licence in the context of its FM policy.

Bert flopped down on to the chesterfield. "It took me just one hour to get here. The traffic was terrible," he declared. "From the cottage to the highway it was fine, and I kept to a steady 48 miles per hour."

"That's halfway to here," Mary commented. "What about that traffic?"

"Wait a moment." Bert laughed. "When I reached the highway, wow! Bumper to bumper. So for the rest of the trip I averaged only 16 miles per hour."

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Three turtles — two big ones and one little one — went to a bar to quench their thirst. Each ordered a bottle of root beer. One of the big turtles happened to look outside and noticed that it was raining. After some discussion, it was decided that they should have their umbrella, and by a vote of 2-1, that the little turtle should go home and get it.

The little one objected, expressing the fear that if he went for the umbrella, the two big ones would drink his root beer. The two big turtles promised that they wouldn't. The little one started after the umbrella.

Two weeks went by, and one of the big turtles spoke up: "Let's drink the little guy's root beer."

"I've been thinking the same thing," replied the other. "Let's do it."

From down near the end of the bar, a shrill voice cried: "If you do, I won't go after the umbrella."

Had our little slowpoke turtle been the South declarer in today's deal, he probably would have fulfilled his grand-slam contract. Our actual South declarer played too hurriedly, and, as a result, was defeated. This deal, incidentially, has become a classic one.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

Dummy's ace of diamonds won the opening lead, South discarding his five of clubs. After the ace and king of trumps had gathered in East's two pieces, South laid down his ace of spades. When East failed to follow suit, the grand slam contract had become unmakable.

Although declarer was most unlucky in finding West with the four outstanding spades, his defeat was strictly his own fault. On the opening diamond lead, South should have discarded his ten of spades. Had he done so, he would have had a guaranteed contract.

Trumps would then be drawn, after which the three top spades would be cashed. Next would come a trump to dummy's nine, and a fourth spade lead would be ruffed by South. Dummy's fifth spade would now be the only one left in the deck.

The board would then be re-entered via the trump jack, and on the board's fifth spade South would discard his losing club. But, as was stated, South played too hurriedly.

Maggie's Marauders Lighten The Load

Placard-bearers stand aside for garbage brigade

Garbage crusader Maggie Lynn said today she will try again to show that people can help themselves despite a civic employees strike-lockout that has interrupted municipal services including garbage collection.

Saturday she led about 100 volunteers with 15 trucks, a front-end loader and numerous cars and station wagons to take some of the accumulated garbage from Esquimalt Road helicopter pad to Hartland Road dump.

"Basically it was a token gesture. We weren't going to clean the dump out, that would have been an impossibility," she said.

Her phone still rings a lot, people offering their servies or support for the idea of self-help, and she does intend to organize another garbage-packing project from the temporary holding point.

Lynn, of 548 Niagara, said she believes the Canadian Union of Public Employees — whose Victoria Local 50 outside workers precipitated the strike — dominates the city and other unions.

She hopes to set an example for citizens in "other municipalities who are going through the same thing this year of next . . . (to) get their groups together and do the same thing."

Local 50's strike was followed by lockout in each of the four core municipalities of Greater Victoria, plus the town of Sidney today, with the result that garbage pickup and other outside services are restricted to an emergency basis only.

Solving Some Tricky Distinctions

A Beginner's List of Gardening Terms will be useful as more people of all ages become interested in growing vegetables and flowers for the first time.

In these daily home garden columns as well as in seed and plant catalogues, and in all garden books and encyclopedias, the words annual, biennial and perennial are the first to puzzle.

"Do they mean something that I should know about before I go further?"

Yes indeed, for only if you understand their meaning will you be satisfied with your purchase, and growing of, the seeds or plants listed as annuals, biennials, or perennials. Each group has characteristics which set them apart from the other. It must be acknowledged however, that some overlapping occurs partly due to our borderline climate.

As you become familiar with the growth and habit of what you grow, you soon learn how to deal with the mavericks of the garden world.

Annuals are soft stemmed plants, for one season only in the garden. In fall they will mature and be finished completely, top and roots. You pull up the plants and discard to the compost heap to make more soil to grow more plants.

Annual flowers are such as petunias, marigolds, nemesias and cosmos.

Annual vegetables are squash, tomatoes, bush and pole beans, and peas. All produce flowers and fruits (containing seeds) in the same season after sowing the seeds.

Biennial flowers are those which bloom in the year following sowing of seed, and are discarded after blooming finishes.

These include wallflowers, Canterbury bells, and the old type of foxglove and hollyhock. Annual forms of these two have been developed in late years.

Biennial vegetables are those which normally flower and form seed the year following the seeds being sown, although the practice of allowing these plants to form seed is only done for commercial purposes of seed raising for subsequent sale.

As an instance, carrots, beets, turnips, onions and parsnips are all grown for their edible roots which form the same season as we sow their seeds, yet is is normally the following year that these plants under favorable conditions will flower and set seedpods. Parsley and Swiss chard might be considered biennial vegetables.

Perennial plants are those which take a rest during each winter and make new growth from the same rootstocks each succeeding spring. Among the flowers, we look for bloom in the year following the sowing of the seed, and thereafter each succeeding year.

Since perennial plants are capable of being grown from shoot cuttings, or from divisions of the rootstock, we look for flowers in the same year if the new plants are propagated in early spring.

They are in fact a part of a mature plant with its flowering cycle already established by direct inheritance. Examples of perennial flowers are delphiniums, heleniums, artemisia, monarda.

All these plants annual, biennial, perennial are, you will notice, soft-stemmed, that is, they are what is termed herbaceous. This word means that the plants have new growth produced in the current spring, as contrasted to the growth of shrubs and trees. These latter have woody or twiggy growth persisting from one year to another.

COUNTRY QUALITY
$75,000
If you're looking for a quality home under 10 years of age, nearly one acre of beautifully treed land, quiet dead end street, valley water and mountain views, this just may be for you. Located just past Elk Lake, this home features a lot of blood, sweat and tears of the owner and his family who cleared the land, and built the house for themselves. The owners' family has grown, and now the house must go. It features gleaming hardwood floors thruout the main floor. The living room with its raised hearth fireplace, the dining room and the kitchen all have gorgeous views. The good sized wife designed kitchen has cupboards galore, plus an eating area for the whole family. The kitchen door opens on to an entertainment size sundeck, with the remainder of the 1,163 sq. ft. on the main floor consisting of two bedrooms and 4-pce. bath. Whitelaw: A Political Isaiah

By CYRIL DUN and RAYMOND HEARD
The Observer, London

LONDON — At a time when British society is threatened by the differences of class and geography, the philosophy of William Whitelaw is that of the prophet Isaiah: Come let us reason together. Whitelaw who confronts Mrs. Margaret Thatcher Tuesday in a fight to lead Britain's Conservative party, has a capacity almost unique in the politics of the West today to inspire trust, to see the other fellow's point of view. His greatest advantage, in the words of The Times, is "the very simple one that he is easy to talk to and is prepared to listen."

The style of "Willie" Whitelaw, unlike that of his aloof friend Edward Heath as well as his principal opponent for the Tory leadership, the cool and rather prim Mrs. Margaret Thatcher, is bluff and nonchalant.

If, as secretary of state for employment in the waning months of the last Heath administration, Whitelaw's counsel had prevailed, Heath might still be prime minister today instead of joining Lord Alec Douglas-Home as an elder statesman of Toryism. For Whitelaw advised against calling the snap general election that brought Harold Wilson's socialists back to power last February and he was of the opinion that the striking coal miners, whose industrial action provoked the election, might have a case for higher wages.

It was as secretary of state for Northern Ireland between March 1972 and late December 1973 that Whitelaw came to national notice. As Heath's proconsul in the troubled province, he achieved no lasting successes in coping with a problem that seems insoluable. But he did bring the Dublin government into the picture: and he got Catholics and Protestants to sit down together to discuss power-sharing. However, his critics in England found cause to contend that he was "too soft" in dealing with the IRA that he was, indeed, an "appeaser."

Whitelaw's cardinal principle, endorsed by the so-called moderates in the Tory party and their allies in Fleet Street, is that the Conservatives cannot afford to veer to the right by appealing, as Mrs. Thatcher does, mainly to the middle class, which feels threatened by the social engineering of the Labor Government. On the other hand, the skills he has displayed as Tory chief whip, as leader of the House of Commons and in his current role of chairman of his party, have made him more acceptable to the right, which is now led by Mrs. Thatcher, than Heath ever was.

Whitelaw has another asset: he comes from northern England—and the Tory party has lost strength there, as well as in the Midlands, as the populous Southeast becomes its bastion. Under his leadership, the Conservatives might be able to regain vital ground in the North before the next general election.

WHITELAW

The roots of Whitelaw's family are in Scotland. He is a Protestant, though of the conventional and tolerant Chruch of England kind., He represents Penrith and the Border in Parliament, has a beautiful house in the Lake District where he farms 200 acres and raises Charolais cattle, and owns 4,000 acres of land near Glosgow. Now 56, he is married to a Scotswoman; they have four daughters and as a family spend a good deal of time together.

He is now a large, plumpish man — rather like an overgrown schoolboy — who stoops a little and peers up at people through big, disturbingly sad eyes as he talks to them. But he is known to be one of the few people in the present Tory leadership with a strong sense of humor: indeed, he has been rebuked by The Times of London for "infelicitous" use of is when winding up a debate on unemployment.

Whitelaw's friends find in him "amazing charm." He also gives an impression of enormous leisure, frequenting oyster bars in London, enjoying the company of political correspondents (with whom he is relatively straight forward and umpompous) and drinking wine as an eearlier generation of landed gentry was supposed to do. He has a loud voice and even louder laugh. Surprisingly he is occasionally subject to an outburst of temper, but only infrequently.

But it seems clear to those who know him well that he presents himself to the world as a bluff, nonchalant fellow chiefly in order to disguise his high intelligence and the shrewd sharpness of his brain. At Winchester he showed no zeal for scholarship, but one of his masters there has said that Whitelaw's asset was keen common sense, "unspoiled, as I can testify, by premature intellectualism." He applied himself rather less at Trinity College, Cambridge.

Today he is reckoned on eof the ablest men in Parliament and certainly one of the most important. He has a quick and open mind and seems not troubled at all by vanity. The conviction he gives to those with whom he discusses is that they command his whole time and his full attention. And what finally emerges from the confusing version of himself he perhaps deliberately promotes is an exceptional talen for getting along with people.

FROM CHAMBER POT TO PUNCH BOWL . . .

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England (Reuter) — Britons who are getting used to almost-daily reports of economic gloom learned Sunday of a British export success — the sale of reproduction Victorian chamber pots.

Peter Chadwick, works director of the Portmeirion pottery, said he has had to put its 230 workers on a seven-day week because of a world-wide demand for the pots, which are used by most buyers as punch bowls.

Chadwick said the Swedes were the first to decide the "punch bowls" were just the thing for parties.

"We thought it was just an in-and-out thing when our Scandinavian distributor asked if we could make some — a flash in the pan, you might say.

"We thought we'd meet the order — but now it is growing so fast the chamber pots threaten to take over our whole business of reproductions chinaware," he said.

Hospital Systems Overused—Study

WINNIPEG (CP) — There's mounting evidence to show Canadians are overusing hospital systems and wasting money that could be better spent in other high-quality health services, Dr. Milton Roemer of Los Angeles said Thursday.

Dr. Roemer, professor of preventive medicine and public health at the University of California, and his wife Ruth, are conducting a three-year $300,000 investigation into national health insurance systems in Australia, Canada, Norway and Belgium.

Dr. Roemer said in an interview Canada now spends between six and seven per cent of its gross national product on health care. The average acute-bed ratio in Canada is higher than the U.S.'s four per 1,000 population and this contributes to the high use of beds.

Quoting more statistics, he said about 1,100 patient-days of care in hospital beds are used for each 1,000 population in the U.S. In Canada the figure is approaching 1,600 days per 1,000 population.

"That's way out of the ordinary and very, very expensive."

He said there is evidence that Canadians use hospitals excessively, that people are being hospitalized for services which could be provided outside the hospital, and perhaps they are being kept in the hospital too long once they have to go."

Part of the problem, he said, is the high ratio of beds per population. Evidence throughout the world indicates that no matter how many beds a community makes available, they will be filled at once and used to capacity.

While he did not place the blame entirely on doctors, he did say there is financial incentives for doctors under the fee for service system to hospitalize patients. And it is more convenient to have several patients in the hospital than in scattered homes.

Skull Fractured In Border Chase

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — A Fort Erie man was listed in satisfactory condition with a fractured skull today after being chased across the United States-Canada border by two policemen from Buffalo, N.Y., Saturday, Niagara regional police said today.

The regional police said James Powless was injured in a scuffle. Sgt. Douglas Conhiser of the regional force said a Canadian customs officer claimed to have seen one of the Buffalo policemen hit the Canadian.

A regional police spokesman said the U.S. police chased a truck driven by Mr. Powless across the Buffalo-Fort Erie Peace Bridge and stopped it at the Canadian end of the bridge "about a quarter-mile inside Canada."

Sgt. Conhiser, who said the truck had passed the Canadian customs clearance point when it was stopped, said the incident is under investigation.

Capt. Henry Paul of the Buffalo department said that some younger policemen may not be aware they cannot pursue into Canada.

Sgt. Conhiser said the two American policemen were persuaded to return to the U.S. by Canadian border officials.

Customs officials said Buffalo police told them the chase began when the truck was spotted in Buffalo with six people in the cab.

NDP Heads To Meet On Syncrude

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democratic Party leaders will meet Thursday in Winnipeg to examine all aspects of the Syncrude deal to develop the Athabaska tar sands.

NDP Parliamentary Leader Edward Broadbent announced Friday he will meet in the Manitoba capital with the NDP party leaders from across Canada.

Premers Dave Barrett, Allan Blakeney and Ed Schreyer will attend representing B.C., Saskatchewan and Manitoba respectively.

In addition Grant Notley, Alberta NDP leader and Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader as well as several other provincial leaders are expected to attend.

The NDP caucus has condemned the Syncrude deal as the "greatest sellout" in Canadian history. The caucus has demanded that the government move towards full public ownership of the Syncrude development.

Bill Erases Campaign Tax Debts

WASHINGTON (WP) — A little-noticed provision of Congress's latest "Christmas tree' bill has enabled the 1972 Nixon and McGovern campaigns to escape hundreds of thousands of dollars in federal income taxes.

The trustees who preside over the leftover funds of the Committee to Re-Elect the President saved an estimated $500,066.

The McGovern committee, which had been in the red, wiped out a similar $300,000 debt to the Internal Revenue Service that the Democratic presidential fund had been carrying on its books.

The tax favor also enabled the McGovern presidential committee to help pay off some of the new debts incurred during Sen. George S. McGovern's million-dollar reelection campaign last year in South Dakota. One of the debts was a $35,000 loan to the Senate race by McGovern himself.

The magic was worked by a quietly adopted clause which reversed an IRS ruling calling for the payment of capital gains taxes on blocks of appreciated stock that had been given as political contributions in the 1972 campaigns.

Even the IRS ruling had been criticized as far too lenient since it required political committees to pay taxes only on the profits of stock sold after Oct. 3, 1972.

Congress, however, went a step further and postponed the effective date for 10 full months. By then, all of the stock in question had been sold.

The legislation was hurriedly passed in December as a rider on a bill that originally dealt only with the lifting of import duties on upholstery pins, needles and similar paraphernalia.

The House had passed the upholstery-pin bill last spring, but the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. Russell Long, (Dem.-La.), held it until the waning days of the session and then turned it into a "Christmas tree" bill, decorated with tax favors for special interests. Other provisions benefited the Chrysler Corp., a soft drink company, and some 200 to 300 real estate investment trusts.

The amendment affecting the leftover Nixon and McGovern presidential money drew no attention at all in the congressional debate on the legislation. Several Democratic insiders called it "the Kemelman amendment" because McGovern Committee treasurer Henry Kimelman had lobbied so heavily for it.

"Henry was the hottest one for it, but a lot of other people wanted it, too," said one knowledgeable Democrat.

"The Republicans were all for it so it must have benefited them."

"The skids were greased," agreed a staffer on the Senate Finance Committee. "Both political parties wanted it. But all the spadework was done over in the House Ways and Means Committee earlier in the year."

91st YEAR, No. 203 ★ ★ ★ VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1975 15 CENTS DAILY, 30 CENTS SATURDAY

★ SPORTS ★

Of all the games Victoria athlete Bob Burrows has played — and they include professional baseball — his father believes his best is basketball. Burnaby-New Westminster Broncos found that out for themselves as Burrows led Victoria Scorpions to a pair of weekend victories in the Dogwood Inter-City Senior "A" men's semi-finals. Page 14.

Elsewhere in today's sports section:

New Westminster Bruins came up with a rare win over Victoria Cougas in a Western Canada Hockey League game Sunday on the mainland after losing in Victoria Saturday night. The split kept New Westminster in possession of the fourth and final playoff berth in the Western Division, but it didn't calm Bruins' nerves. The fifth-place Edmonton Oil Kings are closing in on them. Page 14.

Bill Prior earned his living at one time by throwing strikes as a baseball pitcher. He doesn't play baseball any more but he's still putting 'em in the strike zone, this time as a bowler. Page 15.

Another golf tournament, this time the Bob Hope Desert Classic, and another win for you-know who. Johnny Miller did it again by a comfortable three-stroke margin and even he admits that perhaps he's ready to take over from Jack Nicklaus as golf's reigning shotmaker. Page 14.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany predicts the U.S. unemployment rate may be 10 per cent this summer.

Two days after the labor department reported 8.2 per cent of the nation's work force was unemployed in January, it projected a yearly average of 8.1 per cent, saying the jobless rate will slowly recede by 1980.

Meany said his organization's projections are "much more realistic" than the administrations because "we don't put a political figure in it. We don't depress them (the figures) because of political considerations."

CUPE Lockouts Hit Sidney, Esquimalt

Lockouts were effected today in Sidney and Esquimalt bringing to about 1,500 the number of municipal and regional district employees locked out since 280 outside workers of Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 50 went on strike Jan. 27.

Victoria city manager Jim Bramley said today the city is also willing to talk but that it has received no proposals.

At Sunday's meeting, CUPE's bargaining group met for nearly four hours and discussed "everything that has happened," said group chairman Jim Walker. "We are united now in our proposals."

Greater Victoria school board, which is the seventh member of the area employers group, has so far been exempted from the lockout pact and CUPE Local 382 janitors and 947 inside staff do not intend to strike authough they are in a legal position to do so.

The eighth party to the employers pact is Greater Victoria Library, where bargaining is still in progress.

The weekend passed uneventfully on picket lines, with the exception of a door-smashing incident at city hall and a citizen group's removal of garbage from the heliport to the Hartland Road dump.

Pickets on duty near city hall heard a noise at the Douglas Street entrance and when they went to investigate they saw a man running off, Walker said. The glass door had been kicked in.

Locked out employees expecting paycheques for work prior to the lockout had not received them by this morning and Walker said a complaint would be launched against the city through the provincial Labor Relations Board.

City comptroller Mason Sheldrick said today the city owes its outside workers wages for the period from Jan. 16 to Jan. 24, just before their strike started, but said it has been impossible to prepare the cheques due to staff shortage problems. He would not say when the cheques might be issued.

Sheldrick said provincial legislation requires payment within eight days of the end of any given pay period — under normal circumstances the workers should have been paid no later than last Friday — but he believed this applied only to persons earning $6,000 a year or more.

Contingency plans for the newly locked out areas follow lines similar to those which have been in effect elsewhere for a week.

Garbage collection in Sidney is under private contract, and officials hope the service will not be disrupted.

If collection should stop, garbage bags will be provided, said municipal clerk Geoff Logan.

No site has been named for a temporary dump.

Sidney municipal hall will be open from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. for emergency matters only, and not problems relating to the motor vehicle branch housed in the hall.

The branch will be closed completely, and residents will have to take automobile matters to Victoria branches.

The municipal switchboard will be open normal office hours, but residents are being asked to cut calls to a minimum.

STRIKE THREAT FRIDAY

Possibility of a strike affecting the airport and other federal services across the country has been deferred for at least three days to midnight Friday.

The general trades and labor component of the Public Service Alliance of Canada extended the deadline for a membership vote because of late notice to some locals.

Tradesmen have been bargaining for a wage structure close to what is paid employees doing similar work outside the public service.

Bus Hits Train, 26 Die

(Times News Services)

MEXICO CITY — A bus driver, ignoring the screams of passengers to stop, raced a passenger train to a grade crossing Saturday night and lost.

The train cut the crowded bus in two, killing 26 persons. Another 32 were injured, several critically.

Police said 58 persons were aboard the pus, which had 40 seats, with room for about 10 standees.

The bus driver, identified as Jose Casamiro, 47, was among the dead.

No casualties were reported aboard the train.

Passengers told police they screamed and shouted for the driver to stop as the train came into view. But the driver apparently panicked and stepped on the gas trying desperately to cross the tracks before the train.

Survivors said there were no warning lights at the crossing, just on the main road running parallel to it, but they said that the train was easy to see and had sounded at least two warning blasts.

Apartment Vacancies Hit New Low

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The apartment vacancy rate in Victoria has fallen to 0.1 per cent, or virtually nil, and ties with Vancouver and Regina as the lowest in Canada, according to a study by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The vacancy rate is down from 0.5 per cent in June.

The survey, taken in December, shows no vacancies in Oak Bay and a 0.1 per cent vacancy rate in the Fort St., Cook Street and other areas of Victoria except James Bay, where the rate was 0.2 per cent.

Vacancy rate in Esquimalt was 0.2 per cent, Saanich 0.1 per cent, Langford-View Royal 0.5 per cent and Sidney 0.9 per cent.

Because the largest number of apartment units is in Victoria City, the area average was 0.1 per cent.

This compares with a national average of 1.2 per cent, down from 2.4 per cent in June.

In the December survey, the Montreal vacancy rate was 1.2 per cent, Toronto 0.9 per cent, Winnipeg 1.5 per cent and Calgary 1.2 per cent.

Much above the national average were Niagara 3.5 per cent and Sudbury 4.4 per cent.

The survey covers all rental apartments in buildings containing six or more units. The Victoria suryey covered almost 500 privately-owned buildings containing 16,000 suites. Two-thirds of the toal are in Victoria City.

The survey also includes rental apartments for low income families and senior citizens financed under the National Housing Act.

Except for Esquimalt, the vacancy rate was nil in all sections of the district for small apartment buildings of from 6 to 9 units.

For buildings with between 10 and 19 apartment units, the vacancy rate was 0.2 per cent in Victoria City and nil in Oak bay, Esquimalt, Langford-View Royal, Saanich and Sidney.

MIDEAST AWAITS HENRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger carried a warm endorsement from President Ford as he headed for the Middle East today to sound out Egyptian and Israeli leaders on prospects for another disengagement agreement.

Kissinger, target of recent congressional criticism, departed on the 10-day journey Sunday night after Ford, Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller and cabinet members stood in freezing temperatures at Andrews Air Force Base to see him off.

Kissinger's first stop on the fact-finding mission is Jerusalem, where he will confer with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli leaders.

At Andrews, Ford clasped Kissinger's hand and said: "You have my strong support and the blessings of 213 million Americans. We look forward to the kind of success you have achieved in the past."

Ford characterized Kissinger's journey as an "extremely delicate and extremely important mission" and said they would be in daily communication.

U.K. MINERS SEEK STRIKE

LONDON (Reuter) — Militant leaders of 66,000 coal miners in Yorkshire, northern England, called today for an immediate nationwide strike in support of a "substantial" pay claim.

The move will be discussed by the executive of the National Union of Miners (NUM) Tuesday.

NEWS BRIEFS

Papa Found Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent Papa Sr., reputed underworld, narcotics kingpin, has been convicted of possessing and distributing about 160 pounds of heroin worth $20 million. He faces imprisonment for the rest of his life. A jury of seven men and five women deliberated three days in U.S. District Court in Manhattan before returning the guilty verdict Sunday against Papa, 58.

U.S. Land Pact Near

SAIPAN (WP) — The United States and leaders of a remote Pacific island people are about to sign a pact of permanent affiliation. It would be the first American territorial acquisition in more than a half century, and possibly the last one ever.

Downed Plane Found

Blast Kills Five

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — An explosion and fire killed at least five workers and destroyed most of the Union Carbide polyethylene plant on the Schelde River north of Antwerp early today, police said. An unknown number of workers were reported missing.

Consulate Bombed

GENEVA (UPI) — Two bombs exploded inside the West German consulate Sunday, wrecking the ground floor and shattering windows in the neighborhood. A third bomb was safely dismantled. No injuries were reported.

Bomber Says 'Sorry'

NETANYA, Israel (UPI) — A 19-year-old soldier confessed in magistrate's court today that he threw a grenade into a crowded discotheque, killing six persons and wounding 26 others. He apologized and said he only wanted to make noise. The soldier, Ezra Avraham, was remanded to prison on a 15-day detention order until formal charges are lodged against him, police said.

Portugal Vote Set

LISBO N(AP) — President Francisco da Costa Gomes today set April 12 as the date for Portugal's first free elections in 50 years.

Three Catholics Shot On Eve of IRA Truce

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) begins a new ceasefire tonight. But the killing of three Roman Catholics in less than 12 hours heightened fears that Protestant extremists would sabotage the new truce.

Two Catholics were killed and another wounded by an attack on a crowd of worshipers leaving a Catholic church Sunday night. And this morning gunment in a passing car killed a 19-year-old Catholic roadsweeper in East Belfast.

The IRA's Provisional wing announced it would suspend its guerrilla war at 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EST.) No time limit for the ceasefire was set, but London newspapers reported an IRA spokesman in Dublin warned.

William Craig, leader of the exremist Protestant Vanguard Movement, said the IRA's Catholic leaders probably were trying "to gain credibility and win a breathing space." He demanded the Catholic guerrillas "surrender of their arms."

Two hours before the IRA announcement Sunday night, two gunmen opened fire on the crowd leaving 7 p.m. mass at St. Bridget's church in Belfast, killing two young men and wounding a third, and then escaped in a car stolen in a Protestant area of Belfast. Police blamed Protestant extremists.

Eleven persons now have died since the IRA Provos ended a Christmas truce Jan. 16 after 25 days. The official death toll from 5½ years of violence in Northern Ireland has risen to 1,154.

The Provos gave no explanation for their new ceasefire except to say it came after discussions with British officials "on effective arrangements to ensure that there is no breakdown of a new truce."

The IRA said it ended the Christmas truce because the British did not respond sufficiently to its demands for the release of 500 interned IRA suspects and a pledge to withdraw the 14,500 British troops in Northern Ireland.

British sources insisted the government made no secret deals to win the resumption of the truce. But the government said in a statement, "A genuine and sustained cessation of violence could be the basis for a more constructive and peaceful future for Northern Ireland."

The British have pledged that an end to violence would lead to eventual abandonment of the system of jailing suspected guerrillas without trial, the release of many men now behind bars and a major reduction in the number of British troops in the North. On the IRA side, chief of staff David O'Connell is known to have been pressing his comrades to switch from terrorism to political initiatives.

No Capture Alive, Escaper Pledges

VANCOUVER (CP) — A convict who vowed he wouldn't be recaptured alive escaped custody downtown Sunday after abducting a prison guard at Vancouver International Airport.

Police said Donald Oag, 25, of London, Ont., had already escaped from Ontario and British Columbia prisons twice in the last four years and is extremely dangerous.

Oag, serving a 12-year sentence for manslaughter, was being transferred from the Millhaven Penitentiary near Kingston, Ont., to appear at a New Westminster, B.C., civil court hearing today.

Police said Oag used a kitchen knife to overpower guard Henry Mengleson and force him into the back seat of a prison station wagon while two other guards were gathering baggage inside the terminal.

Twenty-five minutes later, a CP baggage clerk at the downtown station discovered Mengelson struggling to sound the car's horn and thumping on the door.

Pakistani Gov't Bans Opposition

ISLAMABAD (AP) — The Pakistani government banned the opposition National Awami party today and ordered its property confiscated following the arrest of 60 of its top leaders, including Abdul Wali Khan, party chief and opposition leader in the National Assembly.

The move came two days after the assassination of the senior minister in the North-West Frontier province, Hayat Mohammed Khan Sherpao, a close friend of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. The government blamed opposition terroists for the killing.

In Peshawar, the provincial capital where Sherpao was killed in a bomb blast Saturday, mobs burned down the offices of a newspaper owned by the Awami party, ransacked offices of pro-Awami lawyers, and shouted, "Death to Sherpao's killers."

I Didn't Tell All—Helms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, admits he intentionally failed to tell United States Senate committees all he knew about CIA work in Chile and withheld information about the Nixon administration's desire to have the Marxist government of Saldor Allende overthrown.

Helms' admission was made in secret testimony Jan. 22 before the Senate foreign relations committee. A censored version of his statements was released Sunday.

(Today, former CIA counterintelligence chief James Angelton testified before the Rockefeller Commission, the body set up by President Ford to investigate charges the CIA violated its charter by conducting domestic spying operations. Angelton resigned his post within one week of the original charges of CIA spying.)

Helms appeared before the committee to explain various apparent discrepancies in previously sworn statements regarding CIA operations abroad and at home.

"I felt obliged to keep some of this stuff, in other words, not volunteer a good deal of information," Helms said of his testimony in 1973 before the foreign relations panel and a subcommittee on multi-national corporations.

Helms denied he ever knowingly lied to a congressional committee, but said: "If I have been guilty in the past of not having gone the whole way, all right."

Testifying two years ago on his nomination to be ambassador to Iran, Helms was asked if the CIA tried "to overthrow the government of

The Beach at Tijuca—Memorys for a Cold Day

I really meant to put down a few words today on an entirely different subject, but when the weather is bad, as it is this moment, I get an irrational homesickness for Rio de Janeiro that squeezes out every other thought.

All it takes, really, is a bleak winter's view, and God knows the view at this writing is as bleak as it can be. Then I start pining for that preposterous town down yonder. If I call it an occupational hazard that'll give you on idea of just how crazy this job can be.

I say "irrational homesickness" because, in many ways, the year-and-a-half that we spent in Rio was as mean as any I remember, professionally, in my time as a newspaperman. The military thugs who ruled Brazil, and still do, had me high on their hate list. They regularly threatened my expulsion. Our phone was tapped. Swarthy little men kept following me. There always seemed to be somebody looking over my shoulder.

Curiously, that unhappy memory now takes second place to the happier memory of the bone-penetrating heat that I learned to love. Even in the summer months from October to March when the humidity was so great that you slept naked, uncovered, I reacted like some contented lizard in a more-or-less constant sun. Forty-odd years of life in a northern clime were being baked out of me, as I like to think of it now. I never got enough of it. The guide books talk of Rio's weather as "hot, humid and healthful." That's just the way it is.

We lived then in an apartment on Republico dos Peru no more than 50 paces from the great sweep of Copacabana Beach. It is probably the most over-rated famous beach in all the world. The sand is dirty and thick with fleas. The water is cold, polluted and dangerously tidal. Yet almost all my free hours were spent on that mighty giant curve of the South Atlantic, often with a bird-shaped kite which were sold by wandering hawkers and invariably blew away in the direction of the Christ-figure atop Corcovado in the stiff breeze.

On week days Copacabana Beach was almost deserted. You could walk the two or three miles along the surf toward Sugar Loaf Mountain and encounter no more than a dozen health nuts, doing their lonely exercises.

But on holidays and on weekends as many as a million sun-worshippers would be crowded from the mosaic swirl of the sidewalks of the Avenida Beira Mar to the water's edge. Many of these people, as I came to know, were young men and women from the shack-town favelas on the hills behind Copacabana's towers. The brief, white shorts on the men and the string-bikinis on the girls were the great levellers in a society divided by outrageous economic classes.

The young men, wonderfully muscled and brown, would strut along the shore, always expertly dribbling a football. The young ladies, beautifully postured, peacock-proud, would saunter self-consciously in their exquisite nakedness. Cinderellas from the most squalid slums imaginable. You could lie there in your little wedge of dusty sand, semi-comatose, as toasted as a wiener ready for the bun, and watch the endless show of humanity.

If it became simply too hot you could make your way down to the sometimes vicious surf, fight your way through the melon rinds and potatoe peelings and worse, avoiding the body-surfers, and cool off in the foam.

For most of that time we had a cook-housekeeper named Maria, a woman of great wit and charm and a magnificent, sustained alcoholic. Maria was a specialist in the preparation of Feijao, the all-encompassing word for black beans, brown beans, red beans, white beans, navy beans or any kind of beans there are. Her specialty was a dish called Farofa, made with manioc flour which may explain why, when I left, I was 40 pounds overweight.

Maria had a fatherless son named Ricardo, aged 10, a fiend from hell who often accompanied me to the beach and, in fact, introduced me to Ipanema, famous for its beautiful girls. Like most Brazilian males from the age of about four years, he wanted every woman in the world and was already a connoisseur of pulchritude.

It was Ricardo who told me about the beautiful beaches beyond the Tijuca and Gavea hills and one Sunday my brood and I went out there on a rickety bus. It was full of boys with long, bamboo fishing rods stuck out the windows. Somebody started beating out a samba rhythm on the side of the bus with the palms of his hand and soon everyone, including the driver, had joined in. I have seldom been so happy.

The beach at Tijuca turned out to be everything that Cocacabana was not. We had it almost to ourselves. The sand was pure white and perfectly clean. Dunes fell away into deep, green, clear water so that you could dive directly from the shore. Dolphins cavorted along the tide-line.

We spread a cloth on the sand and ate barbecued chicken and crusty rolls with a red, Chilean wine and lay, like great, prehistoric creatures, in the blazing sun. Oh, my, I wish I were back there on this cold, rotten day.

DROP-IN TECHNIQUE is used to lower concrete slab form into place on B.C. Tel's new microwave tower which will stand 75 feet high on Smith's Hill near the old city reservoir at the top of The Rise. The tower will be used to send microwave "shots" to Nanaimo and replaces Blanshard Street facilities. Tower is expected to cost about $900,000 when completed this summer. There will be no lights on tower except for clearance beacons.

8 Escapers Nabbed

Police said the eight were apprehended at Vancouver Island centres after the largest break from the home in 30 years.

They said one pair stole a truck and committed a burglary in Victoria before being caught in Duncan. Two others also were caught in Duncan when police answered a burglary call there. Two more were nabbed in Nanaimo and the first two were caught in Victoria less than two hours after the escape Saturday night.

The youths were all returned to the home.

Robbery Victim Heeded Advice

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

About a week ago 17-year-old Roger Erhardt Schlag, a part-time clerk at Mac's Convenience Store, 265 Menzies spotted an article on what to do in the event of a robbery.

"I picked it up and asked myself, should I read it?" he said in an interview this morning before heading to classes at Central junior high school where he is in grade 10.

The article gave suggestions and advice, issued the caveat "Don't Resist," and urged victims to concentrate on getting a good description of the robber, rather than play the hero.

"Surely it will never happen to me, I thought." But he read it nonetheless . . . and today he's thankful he did.

At 8:24 p.m. Sunday a man entered the James Bay market and flashing a knife scooped $295 from the till.

Roger at first thought it was a joke when the man, dressed oddly wearing a brown peaked cap, two sets of clothes and with a bandage on his nose, came up to the counter and said, "I'm going to rob you".

But then he looked down and saw the man was holding an eight-inch long kitchen knife.

"He looked dangerous . . . I mean really dangerous," Roger said.

The man, described as about five feet, seven inches tall, thin, with dark collar length hair and in his late 20's started around the counter and demanded, "Put the money in a bag."

"No," Roger said he replied. "I'll open the till and you help yourself."

He said he sat back on a stool his hands on the counter when the man suddenly lashed out "Take your hands off the counter or I'll kill you."

"What made me mad was when he left I tried to phone police and couldn't get through," Roger said. "The phone rang eight times, so I hung up and called the operator."

Man Fair After Fire In Duplex

He was found by Victoria firemen on an upstairs bedroom floor.

Victoria fire department spokesman said the fire started at about 1 a.m. in the downstair kitchen. It quickly spread to the upper floor and attic, the spokesman said.

Damage is estimated at $20,000.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

In another fire early this morning the six members of the D. K. Reed family were forced outside when smoke started to fill their home at 596 Peto Place.

Saanich firemen received the call at 3 a.m. and had the fire quickly under control, confining the blaze to a rumpus room in the basement.

Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Recycling Depot Lockout 'Stupid'

The lockout of the recycling depot on Borden threatens to be a hot issue at Wednesday's meeting of the Capital Region Board.

Saanich Ald. Mel Couvelier said today he intends to try and get chairman Jim Campbell to reconsider the decision to close the depot.

"I've talked to a lot of elected officials," Couvelier said, "and there's not one that doesn't think the move was absolutely stupid.

"It doesn't contribute to the over-all bargaining positions of the municipalities and it's a major inconvenience to our ratepayers."

Couvelier said the regional district was guilty of making a "blanket decision" without any thought being given to individual situations.

He said he would being all the pressure to bear he could to get the depot reopened.

"But even if we get the regional district to reconsider their position, the situation still isn't that simple," Couvelier said. "We will still have to get the union to cooperate."

Couvelier said it was unfortunate the depot was on municipal property.

"The pickets are right on the street on Borden. We would have to persuade them to move the pickets closer to the gates of the municipal yard so people won't have to cross the picket line," he said.

He added, "This (the lockout) doesn't make any sense at all. there has to be some general debate on Wednesday."

Ask The Times

Q: Can you tell me how the mailing code works, e.g., does every house have a different code, and every tenant in an apartment block? R.S.B.

A: In most residential areas of Victoria each side of each city block has its own code number, though one number may stretch as far as three blocks in some places. Any house or business receiving an average of 50 letters per day or more has its own number. An office building or apartment block with more than 50 offices or apartments also has its own code. In smaller communities such as Brentwood Bay, all residents go by the same code number.

Chess Champ From Central

Second was Jeff Reeve of Lansdowne junior secondary, whose only loss was to Wong. Third was Tony Adlkirchner of Colquitz.

Grade 9 winners were Dale Copeland of Oak Bay in first place, Brian Burger of Mt. Newton in second, and James Young of Central in third.

In the elementary competition, Clive Saunders, Grade 7 student at Royal Oak, came first. Second was Nancy Goodchild, Grade 5 student at Cloverdale, and third was Glenn MacKay, Grade 7 student at Sundance.

More than 90 children competed in the championships.

Nanaimo Date For Symphony

The Victoria Symphony will give a concert in St. Peter's Church in Nanaimo Thursday evening.

Boyde Hood, principal trumpet with the symphony, will be soloist, playing Haydn's Trumpet Concerto and Concerto for Trumpet by Riisager.

EDUCATION STUDY COMPLETION JULY

The report of a special University of Victoria consultant team currently studying research and development in the department of education should be completed by July 1.

University of Victoria Dean of Education George Pedersen, who heads the team, said today there are three stages to the study.

The team is currently conducting a survey of the practical aspects of research and development in various government agencies, along with similar setups in the private sector.

Pedersen said consultants are testing the feasibility of a wide variety of models currently being used in the province and elsewhere.

On completion of the report, Pedersen said the team is willing to assist the education department in implementing the preliminary stages which will be outlined in the group's report.

Pedersen said the job outline of the team goes beyond study of the department of education's research and development division and could include models for other government departments.

The team was appointed by Deputy Minister Jack Fleming after the firing of former research and development director Dr. Stanley Knight.

Authors Protest Ruling

Immediate amendments to the copyright act are essential to prevent the sale of cheap copies of Pierre Berton's book The Last Spike without paying Berton royalties, a local authors' group says.

The Victoria and Islands branch of the Canadian Authors Association has wired Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner protesting recent court ruling allowing the sale.

Berton's publisher, McClelland and Stewart, had asked the Supreme Court of Ontario for an injunction preventing the flooding of the Canadian market by Cole's Book Stores with cheap copies of Berton's book.

The court refused the injunction.

"This ruling deprives Berton of his royalties and undermines the market for his regular editions in this country, and in effect threatens the rights of every Canadian writer," said CAA branch president Margot Osborn.

"It may deprive famous authors of $50,000 to $75,000, and strikes at the very roots of Canadian publishing."

Association Elects Lum

Lum succeeds Mayor William Moncrief of Cumberland.

B.C. Pays Funeral Expenses

Funeral expenses of $500 were given the husband of an Esquimalt woman recently stabbed to death, one of 11 criminal injury awards made in January by B.C.'s Workers' Compensation Board.

An award of $327 was made to a 57-year-old Sidney man as part of the same program, after the man was attacked by a masked knifeman and received lacerations.

The program is one covered by the Criminal Injuries Compensation Act, under which anyone who is a victim of crime in B.C. may apply for compensation.

Last month's awards totalled $14,170.

Firm Asked To Pare Bid

Farmer Construction Ltd. is being asked to pare its tender bid for University of Victoria's new addition to the student union building.

The construction firm's bid of $954,968 was the lowest of three received by the university but went over budget allotment of only $500,000 for the addition.

A UVic spokesman said today contract decisions for the addition are "still up in the air." Construction on the addition was to have begun this spring for completion a year from now and is to include a games room, office facilities and other student-oriented accommodation.

Other bids were from Dura Construction Ltd., $962,790, and H. E. Fowler and Sons, $1,480,400.

Cold Stays, Snow Leaves

Clear, chilly weather is expected in Victoria tonight, and the airport weatherman recommends mittens.

"We can expect temperatures of 30 to 32 degrees," he said. "It'll be kind of cool tonight."

The system that dumped snow on the Saanich Peninsula and up-Island Sunday has moved inland to powder interior towns.

Minor clearing is the trend for Victoria, now engulfed in moist, unstable air. That could mean snow flurries Tuesday, said the weatherman.

Wharf Work Contract Let

A company spokesman said work will begin March 17 and should be completed by mid-July.

An approach, 216 feet by 17 feet, and a new timber wharf with a concrete deck will be built.

The new wharf will measure 93 feet by 40 feet, requiring 11,450 linear feet of timber piling, 29,000 feet of treated timber (board measure) and 225 cubic yards of reinforced concrete.

Plans for the improvements were prepared for Environment Canada by the federal public works department.

Greenlees' bid was the lowest of two received. The other bid was $210,613.

FINAL EDITION

★ SPORTS ★

Of all the games Victoria athlete Bob Burrows has played — and they include professional baseball — his father believes his best is basketball. Burnaby-New Westminster Broncos found that out for themselves as Burrows led Victoria Scorpions to a pair of weekend victories in the Dogwood Inter-City Senior "A" men's semi-finals. Page 14.

Elsewhere in today's sports section:

New Westminster Bruins came up with a rare win over Victoria Cougars in a Western Canada Hockey League game Sunday on the mainland after losing in Victoria Saturday night. The split kept New Westminster in possession of the fourth and final playoff berth in the Western Division, but it didn't calm Bruins' nerves. The fifth-place Edmonton Oil Kings are closing in on them. Page 14.

University of Victoria Vikings, basketball variety, borrowed a coach on the weekend when Gary Taylor, a vice-principal at Lansdowne Junior High, had to attend an education administrators' conference. Jack Newnham, coach of UVic's junior varsity team, took over and masterminded the Vikings to their first-ever victory over UBC Thunderbirds in Vancouver. Page 14.

Bill Prior earned his living at one time by throwing strikes as a baseball pitcher. He doesn't play baseball any more but he's still putting 'em in the strike zone, this time as a bowler. Page 15.

Another golf tournament, this time the Bob Hope Desert Classic, and another win for you-know who. Johnny Miller did it again by a comfortable three-stroke margin and even he admits that perhaps he's ready to take over from Jack Nicklaus as golf's reigning shotmaker. Page 14.

10% JOBLESS?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany predicts the U.S. unemployment rate may be 10 per cent this summer.

Two days after the labor department reported 8.2 per cent of the nation's work force was unemployed in January, it projected a yearly average of 8.1 per cent, saying the jobless rate will slowly recede by 1980.

Meany said his organization's projections are "much more realistic" than the administration's because "we don't put a political figure in it. We don't depress them (the figures) because of political considerations."

CUPE Lockouts Hit Sidney, Esquimalt

Lockouts were effected today in Sidney and Esquimalt bringing to about 1,500 the number of municipal and regional district employees locked out since 280 outside workers of Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 50 went on strike Jan. 27.

CUPE area negotiators met Sunday and reiterated that they are ready to resume negotiations with regional municipal employers.

Victoria city manager Jim Bramley said today the city is also willing to talk but that it has received no proposals.

At Sunday's meeting, CUPE's bargaining group met for nearly four hours and discussed "everything that has happened," said group chairman Jim Walker. "We are united now in our proposals."

Walker would not say whether the union had changed propositions made at the bargaining table before mediation talks broke down.

Greater Victoria school board, which is the seventh member of the area employers group, has so far been exempted from the lockout pact and CUPE Local 382 janitors and 947 inside staff do not intend to strike although they are in a legal position to do so.

The eighth party to the employers pact is Greater Victoria Library, where bargaining is still in progress.

The weekend passed uneventfully on picket lines, with the exception of a door-smashing incident at city hall and a citizen group's removal of garbage from the heliport to the Hartland Road dump.

Pickets on duty near city hall heard a noise at the Douglas Street entrance and when they went to investigate they saw a man running off, Walker said. The glass door had been kicked in.

Locked out employees expecting paycheques for work prior to the lockout had not received them by this morning and Walker said a complaint would be launched against the city through the provincial Labor Relations Board.

City comptroller Mason Sheldrick said today the city owes its outside workers wages for the period from Jan. 16 to Jan. 24, just before their strike started, but said it has been impossible to prepare the cheques due to staff shortage problems. He would not say when the cheques might be issued.

Sheldrick said provincial legislation requires payment within eight days of the end of any given pay period under normal circumstances the workers should have been paid no later than last Friday but he believed this applied only to persons earning $6,000 a year or more.

Contingency plans for the newly locked out areas follow lines similar to those which have been in effect elsewhere for a week.

Garbage collection in Sidney is under private contract, and officials hope the service will not be disrupted.

If collection should stop, garbage bags will be provided, said municipal clerk Geoff Logan.

No site has been named for a temporary dump.

Sidney municipal hall will be open from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. for emergency matters only, and not problems relating to the motor vehicle branch housed in the hall.

The branch will be closed completely, and residents will have to take automobile matters to Victoria branches.

The municipal switchboard will be open normal office hours, but residents are being asked to cut calls to a minimum.

STRIKE THREAT FRIDAY

Possibility of a strike affecting the airport and other federal services across the country has been deferred for at least three days to midnight Friday.

The general trades and labor component of the Public Service Alliance of Canada extended the deadline for a membership vote because of late notice to some locals.

Tradesmen have been bargaining for a wage structure close to what is paid employees doing similar work outside the public service.

Bus Hits Train, 26 Die

(Times News Services)

MEXICO CITY — A bus driver, ignoring the screams of passengers to stop, raced a passenger train to a grade crossing Saturday night and lost.

The train cut the crowded bus in two, killing 26 persons. Another 32 were injured, several critically.

Police said 58 persons were aboard the bus, which had 40 seats, with room for about 10 standees.

The bus driver, identified as Jose Casamiro, 17, was among the dead.

No casualties were reported aboard the train.

The train had just pulled out of Mexico City heading for the northern city of Juarez when the bus came speeding into its path, police said.

Passengers told police they screamed and shouted for the driver to stop as the train came into view. But the driver apparently panicked and stepped on the gas trying desperately to cross the tracks before the train.

Survivors said there were no warning lights at the crossing, just on the main road running parallel to it, but they said that the train was easy to see and had sounded at least two warning blasts.

Apartment Vacancies Hit New Low

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The apartment vacancy rate in Victoria has fallen to 0.1 per cent, or virtually nil, and ties with Vancouver and Regina as the lowest in Canada, according to a study by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The vacancy rate is down from 0.5 per cent in June.

The survey, taken in December, shows no vacancies in Oak Bay and a 0.1 per cent vacancy rate in the Fort St., Cook Street and other areas of Victoria except James Bay, where the rate was 0.2 per cent.

Vacancy rate in Esquimalt was 0.2 per cent, Saanich 0.1 per cent, Langford-View Royal 0.5 per cent and Sidney 0.9 per cent.

Because the largest number of apartment units is in Victoria City, the area average was 0.1 per cent.

This compares with a national average of 1.2 per cent, down from 2.4 per cent in June.

In the December survey, the Montreal vacancy rate was 1.7 per cent, Toronto 0.9 per cent, Winnipeg 1.5 per cent and Calgary 1.2 per cent.

Much above the national average were Niagara 3.5 per cent and Sudbury 4.4 per cent.

The survey covers all rental apartments in buildings containing six or more units. The Victoria survey covered almost 500 privately-owned buildings containing 16,000 suites. Two-thirds of the total are in Victoria City.

The survey also includes rental apartments for low income families and senior citizens financed under the National Housing Act.

Except for Esquimalt, the vacancy rate was nil in all sections of the district for small apartment buildings of from 6 to 9 units.

For buildings with between 10 and 19 apartment units, the vacancy rate was 0.2 per cent in Victoria City and nil in Oak bay, Esquimalt, Langford-View Royal, Saanich and Sidney.

MIDEAST AWAITS HENRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger carried a warm endorsement from President Ford as he headed for the Middle East today to sound out Egyptian and Israeli leaders on prospects for another disengagement agreement.

Kissinger, target of recent congressional criticism, departed on the 10-day journey Sunday night after Ford, Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller and cabinet members stood in freezing temperatures at Andrews Air Force Base to see him off.

Kissinger's first stop on the fact-finding mission is Jerusalem, where he will confer with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli leaders.

At Andrews, Ford clasped Kissinger's hand and said: "You have my strong support and the blessings of 213 million Americans. We look forward to the kind of success you have achieved in the past."

Ford characterized Kissinger's journey as an "extremely delicate and extremely important mission" and said they would be in daily communication.

U.K. MINERS SEEK STRIKE

LONDON (Reuter) — Militant leaders of 66,000 coal miners in Yorkshire, northern England, called today for an immediate nationwide strike in support of a "substantial" pay claim.

The move will be discussed by the executive of the National Union of Miners (NUM) Tuesday.

NEWS BRIEFS

Papa Found Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent Papa Sr., reputed underworld, narcotics kingpin, has been convicted of possessing and distributing about 160 pounds of heroin worth $20 million. He faces imprisonment for the rest of his life. A jury of seven men and five women deliberated three days in U.S. District Court in Manhattan before returning the guilty verdict Sunday against Papa, 58.

U.S. Land Pact Near

SAIPAN (WP)—The United States and leaders of the Mariannas, a remote Pacific island people, are about to sign a pact of permanent affiliation. It would be the first American territorial acquisition in more than a half century, and possibly the last one ever.

Downed Plane Found

Blast Kills Five

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — An explosion and fire killed at least five workers and destroyed most of the Union Carbide polyethylene plant on the Scheldt River, north of Antwerp early today, police said. An unknown number of workers were reported missing.

Consulate Bombed

GENEVA (UPI) — Two bombs exploded inside the West German consulate Sunday, wrecking the ground floor and shattering windows in the neighborhood. A third bomb was safely dismantled. No injuries were reported.

Bomber Says 'Sorry'

NETANYA, Israel (UPI) — A 19-year-old soldier confessed in magistrate's court today that he threw a grenade into a crowded discotheque, killing six persons and wounding 26 others. He apologized and said he only wanted to make noise. The soldier, Ezra Avraham, was remanded to prison on a 15-day detention order until formal charges are lodged against him, police said.

Three Catholics Shot On Eve of IRA Truce

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) begins a new ceasefire tonight. But the killing of three Roman Catholics in less than 12 hours heightened fears that Protestant extremists would sabotage the new truce.

Two Catholics were killed and another wounded in an attack on a crowd of worshipers leaving a Catholic church Sunday night. And this morning gunmen in a passing car killed a 19-year-old Catholic roadsweeper in East Belfast.

The IRA's Provisional wing announced it would suspend its guerrilla war at 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EST.) No time limit for the ceasefire was set, but London newspapers reported an IRA spokesman in Dublin warned:

William Craig, leader of the exremist Protestant Vanguard Movement, said the IRA's Catholic leaders probably were trying "to gain credibility and win a breathing space." He demanded the Catholic guerrillas "surrender their arms."

Two hours before the IRA announcement Sunday night, two gunmen opened fire on the crowd leaving 7 p.m. mass at St. Bridget's Church in Belfast, killing two young men and wounding a third, and then escaped in a car stolen in a Protestant area of Belfast. Police blamed Protestant extremists.

Eleven persons now have died since the IRA Provos ended a Christmas truce Jan. 16 after 25 days. The official death toll from 5½ years of violence in Northern Ireland has risen to 1,154.

The Provos gave no explanation for their new ceasefire except to say it came after discussions with British officials "on effective arrangements to ensure that there is no breakdown of a new truce."

The IRA said it ended the Christmas truce because the British did not respond sufficiently to its demands for the release of 500 interned IRA suspects and a pledge to withdraw the 14,500 British troops in Northern Ireland.

British sources insisted the government made no secret deals to win the resumption of the truce. But the government said in a statement, "A genuine and sustained cessation of violence could be the basis for a more constructive and peaceful future for Northern Ireland."

The British have pledged that an end to violence would lead to eventual abandonment of the system of jailing suspected guerrillas without trial, the release of many men now behind bars and a major reduction in the number of British troops in the North. On the IRA side, chief of staff David O'Connell is known to have been pressing his comrades to switch from terrorism to political initiatives.

No Capture Alive, Escaper Pledges

VANCOUVER (CP) — A convict who vowed he wouldn't be recaptured alive escaped custody downtown Sunday after abducting a prison guard at Vancouver International Airport.

Police said Donald Oag, 23, of London, Ont., had already escaped from Ontario and British Columbia prisons twice in the last four years and is extremely dangerous.

Oag, serving a 12-year sentence for manslaughter, was being transferred from the Millhaven Penitentiary near Kingston, Ont., to appear at a New Westminster, B.C., civil court hearing today.

Police said Oag used a kitchen knife to overpower guard Henry Mengleson and force him into the back seat of a prison station wagon while two other guards were gathering baggage inside the terminal.

Twenty-five minutes later, a CP baggage clerk at the downtown station discovered Mengelson struggling to sound the car's horn and thumping on the door.

Pakistani Gov't Bans Opposition

ISLAMABAD (AP) — The Pakistani government banned the opposition National Awami party today and ordered its property confiscated following the arrest of 60 of its top leaders, including Abdul Wali Khan, party chief and opposition leader in the National Assembly.

The move came two days after the assassination of the senior minister in the North-West Frontier province, Hayat Mohammed Khan Sherpao, a close friend of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto. The government blamed opposition terrorists for the killing.

I Didn't Tell All—Helms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, admits he intentionally failed to tell United States Senate committees all he knew about CIA work in Chile and withheld information about the Nixon administration's desire to have the Marxist government of Saldor Allende overthrown.

Helms' admission was made in secret testimony Jan. 22 before the Senate foreign relations committee. A censored version of his statements was released Sunday.

Today, former CIA counterintelligence chief James Angelton testified before the Rockefeller Commission, the body set up by President Ford to investigate charges the CIA violated its charter by conducting domestic spying operations. Angelton resigned his post within one week of the original charges of CIA spying.

Helms appeared before the committee to explain various apparent discrepancies in previously sworn statements regarding CIA operations abroad and at home.

"I felt obliged to keep some of this stuff, in other words, not volunteer a good deal of information," Helms said of his testimony in 1973 before the foreign relations panel and a subcommittee on multi-national corporations.

Helms denied he ever knowingly lied to a congressional committee, but said: "If I have been guilty in the past of not having gone the whole way, all right."

Testifying two years ago on his nomination to be ambassador to Iran, Helms was asked if the CIA tried "to overthrow the government of

Maggi's Marauders Lighten The Load

Garbage crusader Maggi Lynn said today she will try again to show that people can help themselves despite a civic employees strike-lockout that has interrupted municipal services including garbage collection.

Saturday she led about 100 volunteers with 15 trucks, a front-end loader and numerous cars and station wagons to take some of the accumulated garbage from Esquimalt Road helicopter pad to Hartland Road dump.

"Basically it was a token gesture. We weren't going to clean the dump out, that would have been an impossibility," she said.

Her phone still rings a lot, people offering their servies or support for the idea of self-help, and she does intend to organize another garbage-packing project from the temporary holding point.

Lynn, of 548 Niagara, said she believes the Canadian Union of Public Employees — whose Victoria Local 50 outside workers precipitated the strike — dominates the city and other unions.

She hopes to set an example for citizens in "other municipalities who are going through the same thing this year of next . . . (to) get their groups together and do the same thing."

Local 50's strike was followed by lockout in each of the four core municipalities of Greater Victoria, plus the town of Sidney today, with the result that garbage pickup and other outside services are restricted to an emergency basis only.
